Among those coming over from Condon on Monday afternoon to attend the Masonic ceremonies of Heppner Lodge No. 69, was Dr. G. G. Gaunt, formerly resident physician at Hardman. Dr. Gaunt has been located for a number of years at Condon, where he enjoys a fine practice. Nine years ago he was made a Mason in Heppner lodge and this is his first visit to the lodge in that time. He enjoyed meeting his many former friends.

Louis Padberg was in the city from his farm west of Lexington on Monday and was wearing a smile that made one feel good to see. He states that a fellow can't keep from smiling under the present weather conditions and crop outlook. We hope that smile won't come off as a result of what might happen to the crop outlook later. Our prediction is that farmers of Morrow county will have something to put in the sack this harvest.

W. L. Copenhaver and wife and Lonnie Copenhaver and wife were visitors in Heppner on Monday from their homes northeast of Lexington. Out that way the weather conditions have been ideal and the grain is growing fine. The fields are supplied with abundance of moisture and there would seem to be nothing to prevent a splendid harvest this season, according to Mr. Copenhaver, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lundy have returned from Portland where they were for the greater part of the winter season. Mr. Lundy is feeling improved in health but not yet out of the doctor's hands. They will likely remain in Morrow county from now on and look after their interests on Rhea creek. Mr. and Mrs. Lundy were visitors in Heppner on Monday.

The beautiful lodge rooms of Heppner Masons was the subject of a great deal of favorable comment on Monday evening from members of the different delegations visiting here. Heppner Lodge No. 69 did do a good job when they took this step, and the quarters are recognized as being second to none among the Masonic lodges of Eastern Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Van Vactor spent Monday and Tuesday in Heppner, Mr. Van Vactor being called to the city on legal business and to attend a meeting of the directors of the John Day Irrigation district for which he is attorney. They returned to The Dalles Tuesday afternoon.

Troy Bogard and wife and little boy were in lone Wednesday and spent the night at the home of Mrs. Jordan. They drove over from Heppner where they had gone to consult a physician concerning a lameness developed by the child. We understand that the lameness was reduced at the time of their return to Eight Mile on Thursday morning.—lone Independent.

Jason Biddle, whose reputation for truth and veracity cannot be questioned, says that his part of the county is mighty wet. He has been digging postholes out his way, went down 200 feet and found no dry dirt, and he is perfectly safe in making this statement. Jason is some post-hole digger, but he ought to be engaged in mining coal.

To attend a district meeting of the Episcopal church of Eastern Oregon Mrs. W. E. Ruyn, Mrs. Olive Frye, Mrs. Hanson, Hughes and Archdeacon Cressy departed on Wednesday morning in the Pruyn car for La Grande. The meeting will last over five days.

M. L. Case and W. W. Smead motored to Arlington on Monday evening and assisted in the work of initiating some candidates in the K. of P. lodge there. Mrs. Case accompanied them home and is spending the week here with the family.

J. W. Osborn, Cecil pioneer, was doing business in this city yesterday. He is rejoicing over the abundant rainfall his section of the country is getting, and the Cecil country is beginning to look as though spring had really arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. George Krebs and twin sons were visitors in the city yesterday from their home at Cecil. The lambing season will soon be on in full blast at the Krebs home—in fact a number have been arriving lately.

Lotus Robison was down from his ranch near Hardman on Tuesday. He reports very fine weather out that way, with an abundance of moisture. There will also be plenty of green feed before many more weeks have passed.

Frank Gilliam returned home Sunday from Portland. He was in the city during the past week, attending the convention of state hardware

BISHOP DISAVOWS SOCIETY VERDICT

Episcopal Temperance Group Speaks for Self, Says Remington.

(Saturday's East Oregonian.) Bishop W. P. Remington, of the Episcopal diocese of Eastern Oregon, when questioned regarding the recent action of the Episcopal Temperance society in advocating modification of the prohibition light wines and beer, made the following statement: "No one in the Episcopal church will question the sincerity of the church temperance society in advocating a change in the method of enforcing prohibition. However, they cannot speak for the whole church. While many agree in their diagnosis of evil of lax enforcement and its unfortunate effects, few will accept their proposed solution. In my judgment permission to obtain light wines and beer will not prevent illegal traffic in liquor of greater alcoholic content. Most good citizens believe a way should be sought to remedy the present wholesale disregard of the Volstead act. It is the business of Christian churches to strengthen character and teach morality. Laws never made people good, but they do

Says Booth Was Shot

A. W. Cash of Decatur, Ill., as a boy lived on a Virginia farm near to the Carters' homestead in which barn John Wilkes Booth, murderer of Lincoln, was cornered. Mr. Cash ran to the scene and says Booth did not escape but was shot by Sergt. Corbett of Balley's Cavalry and died an hour later.

restrain the vicious and depraved. If this agitation awakens churches to a new crusade for temperance it will accomplish much. This great western country is better off even under lax enforcement than under the old conditions. More religion and less dependence upon law to make people good is the present need."

Bishop Remington, a national figure in the church, was queried by the New York Times and gave them the statement used today in the East Oregonian.

In addition to his statement for the Times, Bishop Remington told today of his experiences in the slums of Philadelphia, where his first work in the ministry began.

"Wherever I found misery, poverty and degradation I found also the whiskey bottle," he said. "I can remember snatching a hatchet from a drunken man about to kill his wife, while their children looked on. Prohibition has brought a betterment of conditions in these districts. All has been changed and the working man has been lifted to a better level. On the other hand, I know of some of my old college mates, men of education, who are sinking downward, living fast lives and accomplishing nothing."

"The answer to prohibition is a hard one to give," he concluded. "The years may bring a solution to the problem."

Good Things We Like

A STUFFED, well-roasted chicken is a dish fit for a king, yet we like a change occasionally. Let us not forget:

Chicken a la King.—Melt two tablespoonsful of butter and cook in it one-fourth pound of fresh chopped mushrooms and one-half of a green pepper chopped fine. Cook the stems of the mushrooms first, then add the caps. Melt two-thirds of a tablespoonful of butter, add three tablespoonsful of flour, cook until well blended, then add two cupsful of thin cream, one cupful of chicken broth, and stir until boiling; add the mushrooms and pepper and set over hot water. Beat three tablespoonsful of butter to a cream, add three egg yolks one at a time, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and one-fourth teaspoonful of onion juice and stir in the sauce; then add the meat from the hot cooked chicken, cut into inch-square pieces. Mix thoroughly without breaking the chicken and serve hot with or without toast.

Standard Cake Formula.—A base for all kinds of butter cakes is the following: When adding fruit the flour is increased slightly.

Take one-half cupful of butter, cream well, add one and one-half cupsful of sugar, cream both together, add the well-beaten yolks of three eggs and flavoring to suit the taste; rinse the egg bowl with one cupful of milk and add to the above mixture alternately with two and one-half cupsful of pastry flour sifted with two and one-half teaspoonsful of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Beat the batter hard for a few minutes to thoroughly incorporate the baking powder, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Bake in a loaf, a layer or in individual cakes.

To make a spice cake, add one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, a quarter teaspoonful of mace or nutmeg, and the same of cloves. Bake in a loaf and ice with chocolate. To make chocolate cake omit two tablespoonsful of flour, add two tablespoonsful of cocoa, or unsweetened chocolate melted. Bake in layers and use orange filling.
