Congress No. 2

Statistics have proven that only one-half of one per cent of the speeches made in Congress are listened to.

Now, here is my scheme to stop speech making. A Bill reading as follows: "Congressional Record must not only contain speech, but number of members, and names who listened to speech, and why."

For instance: "Congressman Post Hole arose to a point of information and spoke at length on, 'Is Locarno a town, or is it a Treaty?'"

Length of speech, without waiting for applause, four hours, thirty-six minutes; attendance, Gout (Rep. N. Y.): 'Unable to get out.' Sixty-fourty (Dem. N. J.): 'Case of reciprocity, he listened to mine.' Lowbrow (Rep. Mass.): 'I was asleep, even the good speakers haven't woke me up.'

Now I claim that will stop some speech making. The minute it gets back home that "Lemmie" is talking to himself up there, "Lemmie" will stop talking.

You know why they won't listen to anybody up there? They have gone out to smoke, that's why, and you know why they've gone out to smoke? Why, "Bull" Durham, of course. IT'S BETTER THAN ANY SPEECH EVER MADE.

Will Rogers P.S. There will be another piece in this paper soon. Look for it.

The Reach of the Spoken Word

WHEN the small family group of primitive man expanded into the cave community, a means of communicating beyond the normal range of the voice became imperative.

Then someone discovered that by making a speaking-trumpet of his hands, he could increase the reach of the spoken word, could add new effectiveness to the human voice.

Other means of transmitting intelligence, in their turn, were found to serve the needs of man: the signal drum and the beacon fire; the written message, carried by runner, by rider, by watergraph rail; and finally, the telegraph.

But these messages, however carried, lacked the direct and personal qualities of conversation. They were but symbols of speech, the shadows of the spoken word.

Then, fifty years ago, came the telephone. A half-century of scientific research has extended the reach of man's voice to thousands of miles. The Bell System's vast network of lines provides a service nationwide in scope. The American continent today is no larger, from a communication standpoint, than was the prehistoric community in which the cavemen shouted from cliff to cliff.

Better, Quicker, Cheaper HARVESTING

FOR nearly a half century the name "Holt" has been associated with better, quicker, cheaper harvesting.

"HOLT" COMBINED HARVESTERS

Better—because "Holt" Combined Harvesters get all the grain, doing a thorough job of cutting, threshing, separating, cleaning.

Quicker—because "Holt" Combined Harvesters handle the grain from stalk to sack or wagon in one combined series of operations—one trip through the field and the job is done.

Cheaper—because labor expense is small,—2 to 4 men comprise the entire crew—power requirements are light, operating and maintenance costs are amazingly low.

Thousands of satisfied grain growers have lowered harvesting costs with "Holt" Combined Harvesters—famous the world over for endurance, simplicity, accessibility, efficiency and economy.

There is a "Holt" of the right size and type for every grain harvesting need.
