

GURDANE RIDER WINS UKIAH BUCKING TITLE

Jack French Takes Rodeo Honors; Matteson All-Round Champion.

(Pendleton East Oregonian)

Jack French of Gurdane, bucking, Lloyd Matteson of Hppner, all-round cowboy champion.

Jack Kern of Heppner, day money. George Attebury of Stanfield, roping.

These are the winners announced for the Ukiah Cowboys' Convention, which closed Saturday evening after a two-day show. Six hundred spectators were present the first day and a thousand the second day. Those who saw the show give praise to the association and state that the programs were presented in a snappy and spirited fashion, with the contestants showing good skill.

The total prize money for the two days was $1,000. Arena judges were P. H. Whitman of Pendleton; F. A. Johnson of John Day, and C. W. McNamer of Heppner. Judges for the races were Jim Sturgis of Pendleton; J. D. French of Gurdane and Frank Hilgert of Ukiah. The association was well pleased with all decisions.

Besides the regular events, the exhibition roping was a feature. Tony Vey and Sleepy Apperson each making a fine showing. Vey, one of the most skillful of ropers, and who is most popular with Round-Up fans for his roping here, roped in 22 seconds, using no bribe on his horse. Apperson made a neat exhibition roping in 24 seconds.

From A Mother's Viewpoint

Warranted pride shines these days in the eyes of Mrs. Byrd, who but yesterday was a young Virginia mother with hopes for her two stalwart boys, Harry and Dick. She has just returned home from the East where she witnessed the nation bestow great honors on Dick—the younger son, who is Lieut.-Commander R. E. Byrd, the first to fly over the North Pole—carrying the Stars and Stripes ahead of all nations. Brother Harry helped in the welcome home, leaving his desk as Governor of Virginia long enough to join in. Can you imagine this mother's pride as she saw her two boys riding down Broadway while thousands cheered the hero of the North?

Made Old Man Feel He Hadn't Realized Worth

Every business executive knows what it is to give and to receive letters of character. Some are given without much thought of the man at the other end of the line. And as a result, all are read with a grain of salt. Philosopher Ed Howe out in Kansas, epitomizes the situation by saying: "A man came into my office with the finest bunch of recommendations that a man ever had. He proved such a bore that I would have written him one myself to get him out of my office."

Which reminds me of a story, says Merle Thorpe in The Nation's Business.

An old negro from the southern rural districts had gone to the city seeking employment. Everywhere he went references were asked for. Finally he gave the names of former employers and in due time returned for a decision. Some of the letters were read to him in which he was praised very highly, and his work and loyalty greatly lauded. The old man's eyes opened wide with surprise and pleasure as he remarked: "Well, Ah declar, ef I had a-knowed Ah wuz 'nuff would have got more pay."

Job of Breadwinning Cramping to Genius

When Homer smote his lyre he was probably inspired by an urge more noble than hunger. But in more modern times there has been an incessant lament on the part of men of genius whose expression has been hampered by the necessity of degrading their muse to the position of breadwinner. Dostoevski, the great Russian writer, gives striking testimony of this in letters, writes the Forum.

"I know I have it in me to write great books," he said—"books and stories in which I would condense all my thoughts, all my observations of existence and its deceptions, blighted ambitions and false pleasures. But I cannot do it.

"Who will realize, who has not gone through it, the feelings of a man anxiously waiting for the postman to bring him just enough to live on for a few days, and his disappointment when that postman fails to put in an appearance? And yet this is what I am enduring every single day of my existence. How can I labor for hire only, sell for cash my literary faculties and abilities without these faculties undergoing complete deterioration?"

Parson Was Handicapped

The local all-round sportsman met the vicar, who was returning home with his fishing tackle. The sportsman, who prided himself on being a great angler, and often said so, inquired:

"Hello, vicar! Any luck?"

"Yes," replied the vicar, tapping his basket. "I have a trout in here—a pound and a half—that I pulled out from the lower brook."

"Oh, that's nothing!" bragged the other. "I've caught dozens of fish of two pounds and over in that stream."

"Ah, but you have the advantage of me," explained the vicar.

"Advantage, vicar?" exclaimed the sporty one. "Same brook, and you have better gear!"

"I know that," retorted the reverend gentleman. "But you must remember that I am a parson and you're not." — Philadelphia Inquirer.

Heroic Monkey

A monkey may be said to have heaped coals of fire upon the head of the entire feline race by a single kindly act. It is well remembered that a good-hearted monkey was the original "cat's paw," pulling hot chestnuts from the fire for the benefit of a scheming cat.

A restaurant owner in Hoxie, Ark., has long had two pets, a monkey and a cat. They are said to have become great friends. Recently the man's restaurant caught fire and was completely destroyed. The manager seized the monkey and carried it to safety. But the rescued creature struggled free and dashed back into the smoke and flames. When it reappeared it was at a window with the cat in its arms. Both animals are safe.

Solid Institution

The Bank of England was incorporated in 1694, and from its outset has been closely connected with the English government. The reserve of its banking department is always in coin or in notes against which there is coin lying in the issue department of the bank. Since it is through the Bank of England that other banks "clear," many of them keep their reserve lying as a deposit in it, rather than in their own banks. It is essential, therefore, to the stability of all banks in that country that the Bank of England shall always be possessed of coin and ever be able to pay on demand all checks of depositors or notes that may be presented to it.

Love for Animals

Interest in animals is so natural with children that it is usually a simple matter to teach love and sympathy for them even where it does not already exist. In presenting an animal that is "new," teachers have splendid opportunity to train powers of observation and to supply a class with a mine of material, says Nature Magazine. The otter as a fur bearer, as the courageous protector of his life and liberty, as a fisherman, and as a special stunt artist is bound to delight children. Take them to see live otters if possible.

Possible Origin

"Wonder who originated the expression: 'Step on it?'"

"Some early motorist, probably."

"I dunno! Maybe that's what Sir Walter Raleigh said when he laid his cloak down in front of Queen Elizabeth."—Boston Transcript.

Calvaries of Paris Are Rapidly Passing

Slowly the calvaries of Paris are vanishing. The old walls on which penitence and adoration erected them have crumbled, have been swept away, and the new walls know no calvaries. Here and there, however, writes "F. G. H." in the continental edition of the London Mail, the great and sorrowful symbol of the Christian faith may still be seen.

In remote corners, just out of the swift current of the city's life it stands unheeded by the busy crowds. Only the birds sometimes flutter round it, and in the manner of some medieval legend, we might believe the feathered things cared for something that humanity had almost forgotten. Of such calvaries one may be found at the corner of the Rue d'Amberveillers and the Rue de l'Evangle.

It has its place not in one of the loveliest parts of the great city, and we might be disposed to question the work itself from the standpoint of mere art. But there it stands, and a creeper droops half caressingly around the head of it. It breaks suddenly the level contour of an ugly wall. And sometimes it may seem that nothing was ever broken in a manner more wonderful than this poor wall is broken by the dolorous calvary.

Police Dogs "Wolfish"

The police dogs are not a distinct breed, but are shepherd dogs police trained. The German police dog should stand 22 to 28 inches at the shoulder and show in every line the qualities which he is supposed to possess—intelligence, alertness, loyalty, gentleness, courage, obedience, willingness and devotion. While the standard allows great range of color, those most often seen in this country are of the so-called "wolf" color, dark tipping of hair over a tawny or buff ground. The muzzle (unlike that of a wolf) is usually blackish. Both the German and Belgian dogs may be divided into three general types—namely, rough-haired, wire-haired and smooth-haired. By their erect ears and general expression they betray their near relationship to the wolf.

Not Acquainted

In an influential parish church, it had been found necessary to provide the minister with an assistant. Some difficulty was evidently experienced. Ultimately it appeared that a suitable candidate had been found.

Following the Sunday on which he preached, a woman member of the congregation met a church officer, whom she proceeded to congratulate on their having secured such a likely young man as a prospective assistant.

"Oh, well," he said, "it's just a case of Hobson's choice."

"Indeed," was the reply, "but who is Hobson?"

GRAIN FIELDS BURN.

The past week two costly grain field fires occurred in Umatilla county, and we note this is happening at different points in the grain belt. So far no damage has occurred in Morrow county, yet it may come any day because of the dry grass in the lanes and adjacent to grain fields. Our farmers should not take chances on suffering loss from this source but should get the grain insured, as the rates are cheap. See your insurance agent.

Link Yocum, who was laid up at the Morrow General hospital, suffering a dislocation of the hip received in an accident at the Geo. White farm at Lexington, was removed to the White home last week. It will be six weeks before he will be able to walk again according to Dr. Johnston, attending physician.

Messrs. Oral and Clifford Henriksen, Union county farmers, were over to Heppner on Tuesday, looking after matters of business here.

NEWS! What is it? It is the stir of life that marks the difference between a living world and a dead planet. It is the sound of civilization's machinery in motion. It is the speed gauge of progress. It is the background for all thinking, all planning and all knowledge of human affairs. When paper leaves the presses imprinted with the news, it is an inert material no longer but an active force.
