

Local Happenings

Charles Clark and son, Charles Jr., and Prof. M. Macgregor, all of High River, Alberta, have been guests the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm D. Clark in this city. Mr. Clark is publisher of the paper at High River, in which business he has been engaged for many years and he took time off to have an auto trip to Oregon and enjoy a visit with his brother. They left on Monday for Portland, to which city they were accompanied by M. D. Charles Clark was in Heppner a number of years ago, the occasion of his visit being the marriage of his brother.

County Clerk Anderson, who has been spending his vacation at Vancouver, Wash., at the coast and in the Willamette valley, states that it is very dry in these sections, and rain is much needed for the maturing of fall crops. Crops of all kinds have been good thus far but the prolonged dry spell has told on the water supply and will be detrimental to fall crops if it continues much longer.

County Agent Roger Morse and son Billy returned home Monday from Vancouver, Wash., where, with his family, Mr. Morse has been spending a couple of weeks vacationing. During his stay at Vancouver Mr. Morse sought recreation by taking training in the citizens' training camp and playing soldier. He found the diversion was what he needed. Mrs. Morse will arrive after a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Barr and Miss Edna Vaughn departed Wednesday afternoon for Portland, where Mrs. Barr and Edna will remain during the month of August, returning home in time for the opening of school. They were accompanied as far as Arlington by Miss Zaida Tash who was returning to her home after a visit of a couple of days at the Barr home here.

Gay M. Anderson and son Gay Jr. returned home Monday from a two-weeks vacation spent at Long Beach on the Oregon coast. Mr. Anderson says the clam digging and crab fishing were great, and they lived on the "fat of the ocean" during their stay at the beach. Mrs. Anderson and June remained for a visit with relatives at Aurora, Ore.

Mrs. Isabel Crawford has been filling the position of stenographer in the office of Attorney Sweek the past two weeks, during the absence of Mrs. Pollock on her vacation. Mrs. Pollock is making an extended trip thru portions of the Rocky mountain states, joining a brother residing at Denver.

Indian Reporter Attends Big Congress at Spokane

Six feet, one inch tall, weighing 180 pounds, and every ounce the picture of virile manhood—that is the picture of "Chief" Paul G. Wapato, the only full-blooded Indian newspaperman who attended the second National Indian Congress at Spokane, Wash., July 21-28. Chief Wapato, a highly educated Indian, was engaged by a Spokane newspaper to serve their readers with daily stories from the Indian point of view, throughout the sessions. He is, by the way, no "club reporter," for he has been a regular staff member of the Wenatchee, Wash., Daily World for four years.

Chief Wapato is known as one of the two only real Indian newspapermen in the United States—and he is a real Indian, in type, in figure, in dignity, and in general appearance. He has the bronze skin, the straight black hair and the high cheekbones of his race. He is a member of the Chelan tribe, and his father, Charlie Wapato, died when the newspaperman was 13.

His father has been called the pioneer in Indian civilization in the Northwest, because, before the young man can remember, his father had become a naturalized citizen of the United States, obtained a homestead in the Wenatchee valley, and later placed his two sons in public schools.

The young man, modest about himself, is nevertheless proud of the achievements of his only brother, Paschal Sherman Wapato, who is now the legal representative of the department of war risk insurance in Washington, D. C.

"Paschal was the first Indian to be admitted to the bar in this state," says Paul Wapato. "He received his law degree in 1922, after being graduated as a bachelor of arts from St. Martin's college at Lacey, near Olympla, Wash., and his Ph. D. degree from the Catholic University, Washington, D. C., and his law degree comes from Georgetown university."

Paul Wapato is a graduate of Wenatchee high school and Willamette university, of Oregon.

His striking physique speaks his unusual athletic ability which won him honors in baseball, basketball and football. He started his football career in Wenatchee, and he has played on the football and basketball teams of the Multnomah Athletic club, Portland.

ARE YOU SURE.

This world has as many doubts as any one thing. Some even say nothing is sure but "death and taxes." There are many doubts mixed up in some varieties of religion also but in the midst of question and uncertainty there are some things concerning which we may be absolutely certain. The morning sermon at the Church of Christ will be "Things We Can Be Sure of."

The evening sermon will be entitled "The Unity of the Race."

The union Christian Endeavor service will be at the church at seven.

IMPORTANT: A meeting of the official board is called for tonight at 7:30. Be at the church as promptly as possible.
