More National Forest Closures Put in Effect

The entire Cascade national forest, embracing a net area of 1,023,510 acres, has just been closed to smoking under trespass regulations of the U. S. department of agriculture, according to a forest service bulletin. Improved camp grounds and improved places of habitation are exempted from the order. Other recent closures to smoking in the national forests of Oregon are: Ochocho national forest, the drainages of Silver creek and Emigrant creek, 184,320 acres; and Willowa national forest, 3730 acres of national forest land lying west of Wild Cat creek.

In Washington, 16,000 acres on the north fork of Entiat creek watershed, Wenatchee national forest, have been closed to all entry except under permit. The Mount Baker highway in the Mount Baker national forest has been closed to smoking. All the rest of the Mount Baker was closed some days ago to all entry.

These new closures bring the total closed area in Oregon up to 1,422,730 acres, and in Washington to 3,658,847 acres or a total for the district of 5,081,577 acres under the various forms of closure.

The forest service states that these closures are made necessary because of the extreme dryness of forest cover and the high fire hazard. The statement points out the responsibility of every community and every individual to help enforce forest fire regulations and reduce man-caused forest fires.

GETTING READY FOR SCHOOL.

From State Board of Health.

The child who is ready to enter school should be fit for the best that education can bring to him. The child should be free from all handicaps which may be prevented by intelligent care.

Too often when a child begins school, the teacher finds him handicapped because he has been neglected at home. Parents have failed to recognize that they are accountable and responsible for the proper development of their children. Children should receive a thorough physical and mental examination before beginning school. Slight defects, if discovered, can be remedied before serious or permanent injury develops.

Only a few weeks remain before the schools open to receive their youthful charges. This furnishes ample time for preparing the children for school. Freedom from disease and physical defects means greater efficiency and safety for our schools. A thorough examination of your child, preliminary to his entrance in school, may reveal defects, the correction of which will give your child a fair chance. Will your child be ready for the opening of school?

You have undoubtedly purchased school clothes, but how about his health? He should be in the best possible condition to start the school year. Has he been given a thorough physical going over, and have his teeth been properly taken care of? This fall some ten thousand children will enter school in the state of Oregon. 75% of the children beginning school will be found to have physical defects which are correctable. If these defects are neglected, they will permanently handicap the child. Now is the time to have these defects corrected. With the opening of each school year, there occurs a certain increase in the number of communicable diseases, as shown in the reports of the Oregon State Board of Health. The child entering school is in grave danger of these communicable diseases as he has not been exposed to them while at home. There are preventive measures that will render the child immune to many of them. In order to give the child a fair chance, he should be carefully examined, all defects corrected, and immunized against communicable diseases.

Misses Leora and Etta Devin returned Saturday from Cuprum, Idaho, where they enjoyed a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Garland in the mountains near that place. The Misses Devin had a fine outing of about two weeks.

Dodge Brothers De Luxe Sedan strikes a fine and distinguished balance—both in appearance and price—between these two extremes.

It provides unusual comfort and roominess; a refinement of line and design in which the owner takes deep pride; and everywhere in the world the name it bears is associated with the highest standards of integrity and workmanship.

With reasonable care, the De Luxe Sedan serves its owners for years, frequently delivers mileage running well into six figures, and on the resale market brings prices that strikingly reflect the solid value Dodge Brothers have built into it.
