Get the Habit.

Did you ever stop to ask yourself, "How much am I getting out of life?" or "How much am I putting back into the world for what I take out of it?"

Every person has a responsibility toward himself and toward his fellowmen. The complicated social order of modern civilization does not permit of reckless living if an even tenor is to be perpetuated.

The percentage of illiteracy in the United States is low. There are few people who cannot read and write.

Education alone can obliterate social and economic chaos, wipe out class distinction, destroy crime, and give to everyone just reward for their labor.

Education can wholly accomplish this only when it becomes universal. The Senate deserves a rising vote of thanks from that large portion of the American people who believe in honesty in government.

Reading, like anything else, comes easier with practice. To make the brain function it must be exercised, just as it is essential to exercise any part of the body to get the best results.

They would rather let someone else do it for them. Reading stimulates thought by presenting new ideas, and helping to organize old ones.

Think this over when making your new year resolutions. A branch of the Oregon State library is in Heppner to help you.

Now, More Than Ever.

While the Senate may not be so pure and undefiled as was the renowned Sir Galahad, it has been lately pointed out that the collective nose of the Senate functions rather well in scenting out the corruptionists in these United States.

For instance, it wrote "ex" in front of the title of Senator conferred upon one Lorimer when it was made plain he had spent too much money for a seat in the Senate; it let air in Mr. Newberry and opened the door for him to walk out; it pulled the chair in the Cabinet out from under Mr. Denby; it would not confirm the Warren appointment because it held his dealings with the Sugar Trust did not make him sweet; it drove Mr. Daugherty from the Department of Justice; it showed the people of the country that the oil reserve affair was greasy; it has investigated the charges of large expenditures in the primaries in a number of states.

To be sure, in most of these cases, it did not require an exceptionally keen sense of smell to discover the stench. But the point is that the Senate did discover it and did act in the face of supine inaction by other departments.

And now the Senate has gone out to break a lance with Governor Small, of Illinois, and his emissary, Frank Smith.

The Senate deserves a rising vote of thanks from that large portion of the American people who believe in honesty in government. It should keep up the good work, and now more than ever!

The More Feasible.

The report by engineers of the department of the interior that power to be generated at Umatilla rapids may be sold at two mills per kilowatt hour adds much to the attractiveness of the project. The cost of generating power is one and two tenths mills, which cost includes interest charges, depreciation, operation and maintenance.

On the Boulder canyon project on the Colorado the cost of generating power is about the same as at Umatilla rapids but the project costs more money and the estimate is that the Boulder canyon power must be sold at a price of three mills wholesale in order to meet all expenses and retire the bonds. The Umatilla rapids project is therefore a more feasible enterprise.

Power from Umatilla rapids wholesale at two mills will greatly enlarge the field of electrical service. There will be power at low rates for industrial purposes and many other uses. Cooking and heating by electricity is practical when low rates are given.

Dr. Frank Crane Says YOU CAN GET AWAY FROM YOURSELF

SOME time ago I wrote an article about a book in which a man who had lost his hearing told of the strange, silent world which the deaf inhabit.

Among the letters received relative to it was one from a woman in Brooklyn, New York, part of which is quoted below:

"Due to an operation my ear drums were broken. To lose one's hearing in adult life requires a great inward adjustment. In fact, the struggle is so hard at times that one loses faith in everything.

"Yet to shout from the house tops is of no avail. Self pity makes it even more discouraging, as to concentrate upon self is just walking farther into the channel of silliness. Therefore, there seems but one way to choose—to try to get away from self if that is humanly possible."

There are thousands of brave, heroic people like this woman who are carrying on, trying to make the best of a life twisted askew by misfortune. They raise the sum total of human heroism in the world.

For when sickness, affliction or sudden handicaps tumble the dreams of a lifetime about a person's prime, just to make the best of life is in itself to be heroic.

There are times to such people when getting away from themselves is a necessary part of life.

How to do it in the right way is the problem. The other day I called upon a young man who had been sick in bed for two years. Lying on his back, unable to hold a book, he got away from himself by having a map hung on a string over his head.

He memorized the names of the states and the countries and their position in relation to each other, and made trips in his imagination.

He also had lists hung on the string and had learned all of the American presidents in order, and said he soon would be the only man in the world who could name all of the vice-presidents.

He had discovered one of the best ways of answering the problem of how to get away from yourself.

Methods which enrich your mental or spiritual resources, and those in which the activity benefits others, are most effective.

For in losing yourself in self-betterment or in social service and kindred activities you not only occupy your mind, but also reap the feeling of doing something worth while with your life.

Reaction of the People.

REACTION of the people of Oregon to the proposal to place this state in business, in competition with recognized private industry, which already involves an investment of millions of dollars, is demonstrated thru an analysis of the vote on the much discussed constitutional amendment initiated by Housewives Council at the recent November election.

Upon this amendment there were 183,405 votes cast, of which 148,092 were opposed, resulting in the defeat of the proposition by a vote of more than 4 to one thru-out the state, and by 8 to 1 in Jackson and Grant counties, 7 to 1 in Benton and Linn counties, 6 to 1 in Baker, Marion, Union and Wallowa counties, and 5 to 1 in Coos, Douglas, Gilliam, Josephine, Lake, Lane and Polk counties.

The unfavorable vote was in excess of the average in the state in Crook, Curry, Deschutes, Malheur, Tillamook, Wheeler and Yamhill counties.

While the amendment was overwhelmingly defeated throughout the state and in every county in Oregon, the record shows that in 22 of the 36 counties, the vote against it was greater than 4 to 1, which is a clear indication of the temper and disposition of the people with respect to a proposal to substitute political government for business administration of public utilities. There appears to be no justification for the submission of legislation of this character.

"Well, I'm Mr. Kelly from the pool room up the street. Your husband shoots pool there every evening." "Yes, I know that." "He was shooting tonight and lost $1,500." "My husband lost $1,500 shooting pool? He ought to drop dead!" "That's just what he did, madam. Good night!"
