EDITORIAL

Another leaf within Life's book is turned.
 Another page Time's finger foldeth down.
 A brand new lesson given me to learn:
 How shall I meet it—with a smile or frown?
 A pure white page before me without spot;
 What shall I write thereon? No backward leaf
 I'll turn; Ah, no! Too many a blot
 There is on yesterday to cause me grief.
 Then let me write the lesson learned today;
 Just for its need may strength be given;
 Knowing if I shall perfect keep each day.
 Your page shall perfect be, Oh Nineteen Twenty-Seven!

The old year has slowly gone out and a new year has come dashing in to take its place; nineteen twenty-six has gone and nineteen twenty-seven is here; we have all made our New Year's resolutions but time only can tell how long we will keep them. Many of us think that our only reason for making resolutions is just for the fun derived from making and writing them down, and that is as long as they are remembered. However a resolution is a promise to ourselves that we will do something and by breaking our resolutions we break a promise. We would not make these if it were not for the fact that we all have faults and that we wish to overcome them, therefore are we not cheating ourselves?

Since it is so near the middle of the school term a good resolution for all students would be to study hard the remainder of the year and then to keep this resolution.

Now that we have turned over a new leaf let's keep it spotless so that we shall have a perfect page at the end of the year.

Basketball Friday

Friday evening, January 7th, Heppner high school will play the Hardman town team. The game was scheduled to play the Hardman high school on that date but because of the fact that Hardman does not have any basketball team a game with the town team was secured. There will also be a preliminary game between the Heppner grade boys. The first game starts at 7:30 and is followed immediately by the high school game.

This is the first game of the season and promises to be a good one. The high school hopes to see a large crowd there.

Debates between members of the English V class and members of the English VII class were held this week. Each class is divided into groups and one group consists of four members, two upholding the affirmative and two the negative. Some of the subjects are: Free text books, exemption from exams, and elective subjects for seniors. This gives the students much practice in the art of debating, and so far they have been quite successful.

During the rest of this semester the Geometry class will take up as a project the planning of a home. Instead of a term paper, Mr. Johnson has arranged for each member to draw and plan a house. These vary according to the individual. Some chose bungalows, others preferred two-story domiciles, while a few are studying the construction of a barn.

In chemistry reports are made on scientific subjects by individual pupils at intervals during the semester.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Morrow County. The State, Plaintiff, vs. Ruth Furlong, Defendant.

SUMMONS For Bribery.

This was a part of the official notice Miss Furlong received summoning her to make her appearance before the Civics class, second period, December 20, 1926.

The court was opened by the judge, E. Ayres. The case for the state was presented by her attorney, M. Beckett and because no one was present to take the defendant's side of the case, V. Fell was chosen. She then stated the case for the defendant.

When this was completed attorney Beckett swore in the jury and impaneled the witnesses. The star witness was Tom Wells.

Orrin Bisbee was the first witness pleading for the state. He was cross-examined very sharply by V. Fell. The next witnesses to take the stand were Joy Erwin and Ethel Moore but they were dismissed without being cross-examined.

Next, the defendant's witnesses were called, the first being Reta Crawford, who was keenly examined and cross-examined by both attorneys. Marjorie Clark and Louise Thomson were called, but were dismissed without cross-examination.

When all witnesses for and against the prisoner were heard, and the attorneys had given a summary of their side of the case, the jury was dismissed for a ten-minute recess to render a decision on the case. The verdict was "guilty" and the judge ordered her to be hung before the assembly some time in January.

The new floor in the furnace room, which was started during Christmas vacation, was finished last Thursday. This floor is of cement and extends from the furnace pit to the partition of the furnace room. In addition to the new floor, a larger coal bin was made.

Term Papers Due January 10.

Each and every student in high school is very busy writing term papers which will be due January 10. The library is full every period of the day as the students are searching it through and through for books containing the subject matter for his or her subject for the term paper.

The members of the English classes are each writing original narratives; the American and World History classes are writing on different assigned topics; the members of the geography class are each taking an imaginary trip to some foreign country and are telling of their experiences and of what they saw while they were there; the Algebra II class members are writing a history of Algebra; and the members of the biology class are doing research work and writing on such subjects as "Sneep in Morrow County."

Teachers' Meeting.

The grade teachers will hold their monthly meeting in the library Monday, January 10th, the subject being "Grades and Grading Systems." Miss Thorpe will have charge of the meeting and her topic will be "Standard Grading and Achievements." Miss Fredrickson will talk on "The Grade Curve," Miss Case on "What is Measured by Teachers' Marks," and Mr. Smith on "Letters versus Numbers."

The teachers of the grades and high school returned home to be ready for continuation of school last Monday. All reported having had a good vacation and are now getting the students ready for exams to be held next week.

Some new books are expected from the state library soon. These books, which deal with various subjects will be placed in reserve in the school library.
