DEBATES CONTINUE.

Monday, February 14, was the time of the third interclass debate. The debating teams were the losers of the past two debates, the freshmen and junior classes. The question at stake was: Resolved, the cabinet form of government should be adopted by Oregon. The freshmen upheld the affirmative and the juniors the negative. The freshman team was the same as for the first debate, Evelyn Swindig, Katherine Bisbee and Fletcher Walker, with alternates, Mary Beamer and John Parker. The junior team was slightly changed, Gerald Slocum, Bobby Turner and Marvin Gammell, with alternates, Mae Doherty and Claud Conder. Monday was surely blue for the juniors. To begin with, Bobby Turner was ill, but heroically came to defend his cause. Then Miss Miller, the junior class advisor, became unexpectedly ill at the noon hour, and had to return home. Just before the debate was staged, Bobby was sent home, and alternate Claud Conder took his place. Amid all this gloom, the juniors bravely kept heart and the debate continued in a well presented manner. However, the freshmen carried off the honors, winning third place, and the juniors taking fourth. The judges for this debate were Vawter Crawford, C. L. Sweek and Gerald Smith.

On Tuesday, the fifteenth, the seniors met the sophomores, with the high school championship and P. T. A. cup at stake. The seniors carried the honors by a unanimous decision of the judges. This class has won the high school championship three times; if they have a hard time finding hats to fit, you may know the reason.

The senior team was the same as for last week, Marjorie Clark, Mary Ritchie and Orrin Bisbee, with alternates, Louise Thomson and Earle Ayers. The sophomores were slightly changed, Jack Casteel taking Terrel Bengel's place, Margaret Notson and Dorothy Herren, with alternates Terrel Bengel and Clarence Hayes. The subject for this debate was the same as the freshmen and juniors debated on Monday. Many times we overlook the alternates in the distinction of a debate being won, but their aid in preparing the debates should not be disregarded.

Not a small amount of excitement was caused by this debate. The seniors wanted to uphold their reputation, while the sophomores visioned the glory that would be theirs should they defeat such noteworthy opponents. The judges for this debate were Mrs. Helen M. Walker, Joe Nys and Rev. B. Stanley Moore. The chairman for both debates was the principal, Harold Johnson, and time keepers were chosen from the faculty.

Heppner Girls Outwitted by Ione.

The Heppner girls journeyed to Ione Wednesday night to try their luck against the Ione girls in basketball. The game started at 7:30 with Eristow of Ione refereeing. The game was snappy and by the end of the half the score was 10-8 in favor of Heppner. Due to several fouls on Heppner's part, the score stood at the end of the game 10-11 in favor of Ione.

The lineup: Ione—Fern Engelman, f; Rose Fletcher, f; Mary Grabill, c; Ruth Swanson, c; Ina Morgan, g; Leona Ritchie, g. Heppner—Hazel McDavid, f; Catherine Bisbee, f; Mae Groshens, c; Joy Erwin, c; Mary Ritchie, g; Freda Akers, g.

The town team played the high school girls Friday night. The high school won with a score of 18-10.

The lineup: Town Team—Fay Bucknum and Shirley Hiatt, forwards; Esther Fisher and Helen Frederickson, centers; Esta Miller and Bess Bleakman, guards; High School—Hazel McDavid and Anna McDavid, forwards; Mae Groshens and Joy Erwin, centers; Freda Akers and Mary Ritchie, guards.

OPERETTA NEWS.

The latest dispatch from the "conservatory of music" of Heppner High states that the operetta "The Garden of the Shah" is progressing in its stages of development quite as well as can be expected. Miss Wright has chosen the piano accompanist, who has arrived in Heppner to begin her work with the operetta. The noted pianist that has been secured is Mme. Marjorie Clarke, recently of the Annabel Denn studio of Heppner, or Paris (?). The cast feels quite proud to boast such an accomplished musician, and feel they will be able to do justice to the operetta.

Don't fail to see Sam, whose witty actions will drive the wrinkles from any knitted brow.

English VI and VIII Newspapers.

The senior and junior English classes under Miss Fishel have been constructing their own newspapers. Each department in a regular daily newspaper was assigned to a certain number of students who wrote up the stories in news style. Among the departments were: General news, society events, editorials, want ads, advertisements, motion picture news, and advice to the lovers. Many of these were very amusing as the students of the high school were typified as movie stars, divorcees, and great men and women, receiving full page items about themselves.

Typing Contest to be Held.

The second Eastern Oregon Typing contest will be held at Pendleton on March 6. The participants allowed to appear in this contest are classed in two divisions—the Amateur and Novice. The Amateur division consists of those students who had no typing previous to August 1, 1925, while the Novice division is open to those who had no typing before August 1, 1926. Each school is permitted to enter two students in each division.

Miss Pearson, local high school typing instructor, has chosen Orrin Bisbee to enter the Amateur division and Marjorie Clark and Mary Ritchie to enter the Novice, from her classes.

Many schools of Eastern Oregon are participating in the contest which has created quite an interest and much enthusiasm among high school typing students. Such contests are of great value, for they raise the standards of accuracy and speed in the various typing classes, and give the students valuable experience.

This contest will cover a period of fifteen minutes' continuous typing. The students are to take their own machines, which are not to have any uncommon mechanical devices, such as loud bells, etc., attached. An award will be given the student having the least number of errors with not less than forty words a minute. The contest is open to the general public.

Friday afternoon a short period was given over to the commemoration of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. The entire assembly, led by the Glee Club sang several patriotic songs, accompanied by Miss Wright at the piano.

An important part of the program was the reading of an essay on Lincoln by Reta Crawford. Reta's essay, which was the prize winner in a contest between the junior and senior English classes, presented a most pleasing resume of the career of President Lincoln. Reta is to be awarded a beautiful bronze medal by the Elgin Watch Co. It is the policy of the company to present a medal to the winner of this contest in every high school in the United States, thereby encouraging research into the life of this most loved president.

Wednesday afternoon a vote will be taken as to which was the greater man, Washington or Lincoln. This is an extremely interesting subject, fostering much consideration on the part of the students. The result of the vote will be published next week.

Heppner Defeated, 15-6.

Ione and Heppner high school basketball teams met in a fast game on Ione's floor last Wednesday evening.

Court Proceedings.

The civics class has been continuing their court trials, and the last case was just closed.

Marjorie Clark was suing Merle Beckett for assault and battery. Reta Crawford was judge, Ruth Furlong, clerk, Orrin Bisbee the plaintiff's attorney, Charles Notson the defendant's attorney. The jurymen were: Louise Thomson, foreman, Joy Erwin, Hazel McDavid, Marjorie French, Gene Doherty and Grace Buschke. After many witnesses presented their testimony, the jury gave a verdict of "not guilty."

The Girls' Booster club held their election of new officers Thursday as follows. Eva Hiatt, president; Joy Erwin, vice-president; Elizabeth Elder, secretary-treasurer; Grace Buschke, sergeant-at-arms.

Mrs. Walker was a visitor in Heppner High school Friday.

Jerry Bragan is on crutches on account of an injured foot. A horse which he was riding, fell with him and injured his foot.

SOB STUFF.

Miss Fishel (in English): "Spill 'em out!"

Stephen Thompson: "Is that a saddle horse?"

Clarence Hayes (whispering in English): "Great Scott, I've forgotten who wrote Ivanhoe!"

Terrel Bengel: "I'll tell you, if you'll tell me who in the Dickens wrote 'The Tale of Two Cities'."

In World History class Miss Miller was explaining how in olden times horses and cattle were traded in place of money. She asked the class what they would give if they wished to buy half a cow. Said Paul Hiler, "Give 'em a calf."

Grandma Gets A Shock

GRANDMOTHER, ever solicitous for her heirs, was very much upset the other day when she found her precious collection turned topsy-turvy—the priceless family album was nearly a wreck, and things generally in great disorder.

But Grandma, keen for her years, was not long in placing the blame. She quizzed little Danny closely and found out how it happened.

"Well, I just saw that Jello box peeking out, like was as HIATT & DIX'S, and I just had to have some. But there wasn't any Jello in it," said little Danny tearfully.

So Grandmother, understanding, called
