

"THE FAMILY UPSTAIRS" IS CHAUTAUQUA OPENER

VISIT OF TYPICAL AMERICAN FAMILY WITH ALL THEIR TROUBLES ON DISPLAY IS MEMORABLE FEATURE.

"The Family Upstairs" is coming to Chautauqua. The irascible father, the pretentious mother, the ne'er do well son, and the captivating daughter will all be present. Moreover, they give the entire Chautauqua audience the benefit of their experience. This play which opens Heppner's five-day program on June 7 is a story of a modern American family living in a city flat. They have all the difficulties, trials and troubles and joys and successes of the ordinary American family. Not in a generation has there been a play more popular with the great middle class American theatergoer than "The Family Upstairs."

The story is built around the efforts of a modern American mother to get her "old maid" daughter, who is 21 years old, married. The daughter has ideals of her own about the necessity of getting married in a hurry and wants to do her own choosing of a husband. The father is one of those delightful old bears, who make a great pretense of being rough and grouchy, but who really lives entirely wrapped up in his family. His arguments with his wife and fights with his son give many a family a delightful touch of familiar home life. The brother and sister get along about like an older sister and younger brother generally do and the bashful young lover and his girl, planning to take a Sunday picnic trip, have about the customary experience of true love that never runs smooth.

The Chautauqua plan of operation has made good plays available to hundreds of communities which would never be able to see them otherwise. Such plays as "The Family Upstairs" and "Believe Me Xantippe," also coming to Heppner, cannot be seen in any city theater for less than $2.50 for orchestra seats. The price of a season ticket to the entire Chautauqua including both plays and other notable features is less than the cost of one of these in a metropolitan theater.

Of course, a good portion of the price paid in a city goes toward rent in expensive theaters, a lot more goes toward moving the companies about, advertising in city papers, and so on. Chautauqua plan of operation in which a hundred communities take the same program, jumps are minimized, everything is handled in the most efficient manner possible, has brought the latest and best plays to the door of rural America at bargain counter prices.

Moreover, the Chautauquas have been insisting more and more in recent years on high grade casts and professional people. The cast to give "The Family Upstairs" this year is composed of thoroughly trained actors, who bring all the atmosphere of the theater with them. Chautauqua patrons can confidently count on having a rip-roaring good time when "The Family Upstairs" comes to town.

Ward to Command Student Regiment

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, May 25.—Dallas C. Ward of Lexington will be entered in the events of the fifteenth annual military tournament at O. A. C., June 4, in which more than 1000 O. A. C. cadets take part. By means of the tournament the military department each year shows the training it offers and the serious purpose the physically fit college men give to their work in the reserve corps.

Ward, colonel of cadets, will command the regiment in review, the opening event of the day. After this general review of the entire corps of military entertainment possible. Twenty clowns, some mounted on army mules, will carry on circus antics. Field artillery will road out in exhibition in firing for speed and assembling. Exhibition infantry and cavalry drill, centipede races, and mass calisthenics are a few features of the tournament.

A mounted pushball contest, Roman riding, tandem riding races, jumping in pairs, a mounted pajama race and a competitive musical ride are included in the horsemanship exhibitions. A machine gun contest will be staged between units of the National Guard and the R. O. T. C. gunners. Engineers will set up a defense position with barb-wire entanglements, from which they will repulse an attack similar to the west.

Your Money Goes Farther This Way:

People maintain checking accounts in this bank because they want to get the greatest value from their money. Their money goes farther that way. They get more benefit from it when they maintain a reasonably large average balance. Such a balance provides them with sufficient funds for emergencies, entitles them to greater service from this bank and builds up credit so that, if necessary, they can secure loans in proportion to their needs.

Maintain a checking account here with a reasonably large balance. It will help you get the most from your money. And you'll be entitled to the maximum of mighty valuable service from this bank.
