BIG TENT TO DRAW LARGE CROWD HERE

Tickets Selling Fast for 5-Day Chautauqua Program.

PLAYS ARE FEATURE

"The Family Upstairs" Comes First; Every Number Comes Well Recommended.

Heppner's 1927 Chautauqua opens Tuesday evening under the big tent to be erected just off Main on Center street, on the lot known as the city feed lot.

The demand for season tickets, placed on sale this week, gives evidence of a large crowd, people expecting to be present from all parts of the county. For greater convenience in securing these tickets they have been placed on sale at Lone, Lexington, Hardman and Irrigon besides the following business houses in Heppner: the postoffice, Phelps Grocery Co., Buhn's, Prophe's, Hiatt & Dix, and Mrs. Curran's.

People living out of the city may have tickets reserved for them by phoning any of these places. The tickets are to be paid for June 7.

There need be no fear of fresh oil on the highway or city streets as word received by George Bleakman from the state highway department gives assurance that no further oil is to be put on in this vicinity until the 15th of the month. But, in case it is decided to oil before then, there need be no fear anyway, as the next oiling will be covered immediately with sand, protecting traffic efficiently.

Miss Verona Hull, local Chautauqua superintendent, is expected to arrive in the city June 5, two days before the opening, to complete all preparations for a good start.

The program has been so arranged that one of the very best numbers comes first, "The Family Upstairs" is a nation-wide play hit to be presented by one of the best professional casts available, is the word received from Chautauqua headquarters, and everything should be done to impress upon everyone the exceptional entertainment opportunity offered in this number. The play is full of clean, wholesome, real American comedy, and takes a full two hours for its presentation.

Wednesday afternoon and evening Beck's Music Land Entertainers offer two programs replete with a variety of selections expected to appeal to all tastes. The company consists of two artists, Mr. and Mrs. William Beck, both of whom are talented musicians, vocal and instrumental, and good readers as well. You'll like this jolly couple, the chautauqua people say.

In the evening also comes Raymond B. Tolbert with what is acknowledged one of the leading lectures of the day, "The Roots of the Republic." Not a dry discourse on a hackneyed topic. Mr. Tolbert is a real orator, and gives much food for thought about things that the average citizen thinks little about.

Thursday afternoon comes a double program and one certainly not to be overlooked. Besides the "Maid's O' Dundee," five charming young ladies with a fresh Scottish lineup, F. M. Price will describe "America in 2927." His address is not pure imagination, it is taken from years of research in economics, sociology and kindred subjects, and is a near revelation. The "Maid's O' Dundee" hold the stage alone in the evening, and what more need be said than five pretty lasses in kilts, talented musicians everyone, and loaded to the hilt with new and clever Scottish songs, dances and skits. They are instrumentalists as well as vocalists and the variety they have to offer should satiate the most discriminating tastes.

The Pellard Players come with a unique dramatic offering Friday afternoon. Their program is of a lighter order and pleasing to the extreme. Then another big play hit in the evening, "Believe Me Xantippe." A story of adventure, the play, acted by top-notch professionals, is one which appeals to Americans of all ages and tastes.

And to cap the climax, the Loveloves Twins Quartette have the last day all to themselves and when you hear them you will be sorry there aren't more days, according to word preceding them. Twin brothers married to twin sisters compose the company. They were chautauqua headliners in the east for four years and could still be if they wanted to. With voices well harmonized these charming people give a varied entertainment, spiced with clever comedy throughout. They give classical and popular selections equally well, and give plenty of each.

The local committee are completing preparations for the thorough entertainment of visitors, and they extend a warm invitation to everyone to take advantage of the between-season lull for a worthwhile and well reserved vacation from June 7 to 11 in Heppner.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED WITH TWO PROGRAMS

Addresses by Rev. Moore and Prof. Burgess Feature Services on Sunday and Monday.

The union services in honor of Memorial Sunday were well attended and the seating capacity of the Methodist church was taxed to the limit by the people of the city who had gathered to listen to the sermon delivered by Rev. Stanley Moore of All Saints' Episcopal church. A union choir furnished the music and several special numbers were given. Members of the G. A. R., Spanish War veterans, W. R. C. and other organizations were present and the minds of all were directed to sacred memories. The address of Mr. Moore was along lines that stirred the spiritual and patriotic sentiments and he brought a splendid message.

On Memorial Day the business houses of Heppner closed, and at 10:30 the Star theater was filled by an attentive audience that had gathered to hear the program of the day. The stage was beautifully decorated in the national colors and Spencer Crawford, commander of Heppner Post No. 87, presided. Prayer was offered by Milton W. Bower, the audience sang Star Spangled Banner, and P. M. Gemmill read General Logan's Memorial Day orders. "This Day We Remember" was sung by a ladies quartet composed of Grace Buschke, Elsie Cowins, Helen Cohn and Elizabeth Phelps.

The address of the day was delivered by Supt. James M. Burgess, a Legionnaire, who greatly surprised a large number in the audience by his splendid ability as a public speaker; a few had heard Mr. Burgess before and were prepared to listen to what they knew would be a worthwhile discourse. Mr. Burgess dwelt to some extent on the points of history pertaining to those organizations of the soldiers following the Revolution, the Civil War and other wars, showing what an important part they had played in the making of the country, dwelling particularly on the Grand Army of the Republic, whose fast thinning ranks are making that organization one of history, the speaker took up the more recent organization of the soldiers of the Great War, the American Legion, giving a resume of what has already been accomplished in the few years of its existence and cataloguing some of the cardinal principles of Americanism for which this younger army of veterans stands.

The Legion is moving forward to the task of eliminating illiteracy in this nation, an evil in the body politic that is a real menace to a republican form of government; the Legion hopes that ere another decade has passed this will be overcome. They are standing firmly for the restriction of immigration, and have been able to do something toward curbing the great influx of undesirable citizens to the United States. Many other points were made by the speaker along the line of what can be expected of the American Legion, and it is quite certain that the people of this community have a better understanding of the aims and objects of this great body of young American manhood.

The Misses Mary and Patricia Monahan sang beautifully the duet, "I Am a Pilgrim," and Mr. Bower pronounced the benediction.
The musical numbers on this program were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Walter Moore.
Following the program at the theater, a very large number proceeded to the cemetery where the graves of the departed soldiers were appropriately decorated under the direction of the W. R. C.

The American Legion Post, the Auxiliary, W. R. C., and Girl Reserves attended the exercises in a body, but only two of the G. A. R. veterans were able to be present.

HEPPNER WINS LEAGUE GAME; LOSES TO IONE

Performances Two Days Give Fans Treat; Homers Help Thrill.

League Standings

Heppner	7	1	.875
Ione	5	3	.625
Condon	2	6	.250
Arlington	2	6	.250

Heppner ball fans were treated to good games the first of the week. Sunday the locals took Condon into camp 6-5, and Monday they lost to Ione 9-4. The Ione game did not count in the league standings. In its league game Sunday, Ione won from Arlington 9-1.

Heppner took the jump on Condon Sunday and with a five-run lead in the fifth, got a bit careless. Condon took advantage of the situation and evened the score with two in the sixth and three in the seventh. But the locals were not to be denied. Holding Condon scoreless in their trip at bat in the ninth, Heppner's lads stepped up and clouted four straight hits for the winning run.

Both teams were clouting the ball hard, Heppner taking 15 hits off Condon, and the visitors 10 off Drake. "Pep" Brown got some much-desired revenge against Pitcher Drake when he got a circuit drive in the sixth. His only regret was that the bases were empty at the time. Paul Aiken came near duplicating Brown's act, but was forced to stop at third. D. Ashenfelter got the only other three-base bingle.

In Monday's game, Heppner tasted defeat for the second time this season. The Ione boys were still wrathful over the two defeats handed them by Heppner and had blood in their eyes. They got off to a bad start, however, when singles by Aiken and Clow followed by Drake's three-bagger netted Heppner two runs. In the third trip up they succeeded in tying the local lead, and in the fatal fourth sewed up the game via Cochran's home run with the bases loaded. One more run in the sixth and two in the seventh completed their scoring, while Heppner succeeded in nabbing a couple in the sixth.

Van Marter's stick was missed from both games, he being in Eugene attending the big trap shoot. Little complaint was found, however, at the way Harold Erwin covered the second sack for him.

"Kewpie" Clow of Condon, who substituted at third Monday for Gay Anderson who was out on account of injuries, did his part in all departments, hitting a double and a single and fielding a 1000 per cent.

Heppner will play at Arlington next Sunday and Condon will play at Ione. The Condon-Heppner box score:

New Range Law Will Stop Thefts Is Belief

Salem, Ore., May 30.—With the new laws that became effective Saturday, Oregon range livestock interests now have better laws than they have ever had, according to Dr. William H. Lytle, state veterinarian. Particularly is this true relative to theft of livestock.

With a new re-recorded list of brands, as provided by one of the new laws, and a brand directory, the ownership of any lot of cattle may be quickly determined. Those in charge of the driving or moving of such animals must hereafter be in possession of an owner's or shipper's brand statement, giving the number and kind, sex, brands and flesh marks on each animal, the name and address of the owner and the person transporting the stock and the consignee, certifying that he is the owner.

The Oregon brand recording law has been in existence for 12 years, but brand thefts have increased because there has never been a re-recording law. Because of this situation those engaged in organized thieving were making good use of the old brands, so the Oregon Cattle and Horse Raisers' association asked for the brand re-recording law. A three months' period, dating from May 28 to September 1 of this year, will be given in which to have all brands re-recorded. All brands that are not re-recorded before September 1 will be declared abandoned and will be subject to being re-recorded in another's name. The re-recording fee is $1.00.

A dozen or more bills were introduced looking to the protection of range livestock and six of them were passed. Others not passed would, in the opinion of the range men, have been of greater benefit to the livestock men of Eastern Oregon, but they were opposed by the legislators from the agricultural districts, particularly of Western Oregon.

LITTLE DAUGHTER DIES.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kisler was called by death early Monday morning, following an illness which attacked the child on Saturday. She was the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Prophet, and the young parents and grandparents are heartbroken over her death. Funeral services were held at the cemetery on Monday afternoon at 2:30. Milton W. Bower, pastor of the Christian church, officiating, and the little body committed to the grave in a simple service. The sympathy of the community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Kisler in this bereavement.

Before General Mitchell was put out of Army flying, for telling unpleasant truths, he had under way plans for a giant flier, with wheels twenty feet high, that could take a running start over fences and tree trunks.

And this week Professor Rumpier, head of a German airplane company, announced plans for a plane, many times the size of any ever built, to carry many engines, and cross the Atlantic in sixteen hours, carrying 170 passengers.

Transatlantic flight will soon be commonplace, but the little machine must show the way, as did Columbus' little boat.
