Foreign Advertising Representative THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

There Are Others.

AT THE risk of being accused of "eating sour grapes" this paper recently mentioned editorially the fact that there might be two sides to this "trade at home" propaganda; at least so far as the local newspaper and printing plant was concerned.

"Now, if trading away from home can close a bank in one town, it can in another, and bankers as well as business men and residents elsewhere, had better sit up and take notice."

The Wallowa paper then goes on to state that the experience of this paper with regard to printing is no different than the experience of every other printer in every small town, and if the experience of all the printers could be gathered together and compared, it would be found that the banks are among the worst offenders.

In his last issue, Editor Hamstreet of the Sun makes this comment: We listened carefully and attentively to a well-delivered address Tuesday night given at the Greater Wallowa County association meeting by C. T. McDaniel, banker of Wallowa.

Dr. Frank Crane Says WE ARE BISCUIT CUTTERS

THE charge is brought against America that it represents a biscuit cutter civilization.

That is, that goods which are manufactured, as well as the minds of the people generally, are in a set form. There is too much unanimity and sameness about life and not enough individualism.

Well, the biscuit cutter idea has something to be said in its favor. It means standardization of products. It means that parts shall be made by machinery and shall be of an interchangeable nature.

In newspaper columns it is said that in five years the industrial output has increased 40 per cent. One manufacturer says: "One man working steadily for 8 hours used to turn out 60 pieces an hour, or 480 a day. He got $65 a week. We put him in machines. We have 30 men on the job and we put out 14,000 pieces a day."

This story has been multiplied by many. Cotton seed, once a waste product, has been used in many ways. In Wisconsin they are making paper from peat.

We are richer than ever was a nation before. We own 20,000,000 motor cars, millions of homes and we travel and live luxuriously.

Mr. Welton says: "The fact is that America is not only the richest nation in the world, but richer than any country ever was before and it is destined to become still richer."

The biscuit cutter civilization, reduced to its lowest terms, simply means that our people have learned to cooperate and to save waste as well as utilize the forces of nature.

make a few observations:

Patronage of home industry can't be done and done successfully in a spirit of hypocrisy. In other words advocacy of home patronage must go further than the lips; there must be an example set.

The printing plant is a home industry. Do not fail to remember the fact when advocating home patronage. The money spent on printing away from home goes out of the county just as far and with no more hope of return as the money sent out for flour, vegetables, butter and eggs.

CHAUTAUQUA is over, and we express the feeling that it was a fine entertainment; the most of the large crowds attending felt satisfied, and as usual, the guarantors have stepped up and made their contribution cheerfully to the deficit in order that all bills might be paid.

Patronage of home industry can't be done and done successfully in a spirit of hypocrisy. In other words advocacy of home patronage must go further than the lips; there must be an example set.

EVIDENCE of a fine growing season stands out boldly on every vacant lot and along the sidewalks in a greater portion of the city of Heppner. This luxuriant growth of grass and weeds is fast developing into a serious fire menace and it is time that steps be taken to get rid of it.

Maybe the President will get some rest at his western summer camp—but it is doubtful. Conference after conference will be held here this summer on major problems which even now are clamoring for attention and action.

Two Sisters in a Glass House.

Penelope East Oregonian. THERE is so much good sense in the move initiated by Governor Patterson with reference to the schools of higher education that the wonder is the idea was not adopted sooner.

The university and the college are of the same flesh and blood for they are children of the same parents, to-wit: the people of Oregon. Their support comes from the same purse and the people have a right to expect the sister institutions to work together in a genuine spirit of cooperation and good will.

The strategy in the Leopold case is removal from prison to an asylum first and later, perhaps, a pardon and final discharge.

Illinois will do well to keep Leopold, Jr., in prison. The state cannot punish him too severely.

If that commonwealth starts in to break down the effect of life imprisonment sentence two years after the sentence, it will let loose a protest against life imprisonment terms that don't imprison.

A Prayer.

MRS. LINDBERGH has received over a thousand congratulatory letters and telegrams with the message, "I prayed for your son."

Prayer is something that most of us do not easily talk about. The flyer's mother will never know the thousandth part of the prayers that went up to heaven for her son's safety in those long hours of flight from Newfoundland to the shores of Ireland.

Millions of newspaper readers read with blurred eyes the bulletins of Lindbergh's take-off in the morning mist, his passage over New England, Maine, Nova Scotia, and finally the circling over St. John's, N. F., and his disappearance into the blackness of night.

Those tears were tears of pride and joy and anxiety, and each carried a prayer for protection of the lad who had vanished into the void where no human hand could longer help him.

"More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." Our Young Eagle is home again.

Try as he will he can never understand or know the depth of the national pride, joy and gratitude at his safe return.

Of such stuff are heroes made.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE is now in the Black Hills of South Dakota prepared to rest, recuperate and get himself fit for official duties which promise to be as strenuous as any pre-election year the nation has seen since Teddy split with Taft.

Permanent Mississippi flood relief; seating of Vane and Smith; tax reduction; and, the fact that every member of the House and one-third of the Senate members will be up for re-election in 1928 is promising much action.

In the Senate, only one vote separates the Democrats and Republicans. If either Smith or Vane fail to be seated—the Democrats can organize the Senate in the way they want.

Political leaders in both parties are fully aware of the fact that 1928 is not going to be any pink tea affair. Party leaders everywhere have at last commenced to realize that the farmer must have some attention else he can and will spill the beans.

Maybe the President will get some rest at his western summer camp—but it is doubtful. Conference after conference will be held here this summer on major problems which even now are clamoring for attention and action.

ities we possess. We must have, lawyers, farmers, engineers, doctors, pharmacists, businessmen, foresters, milling men, teachers and people in other callings. Some people like one line of work and are fitted for it while others prefer something else. This is a good thing because if we all tried to be just alike and do the same class of work we would all starve to death and there would be no funeral directors to bury us.

To secure proper results we need a situation under which young people seeking higher education should be able to get an honest, unprejudiced line on what is to be had and what it is worth, where they are going and what is at the end of the trail. Otherwise we have mistakes that are always expensive and sometimes tragic.

Our schools exist to serve the young people of Oregon and anything that interferes with that service is wrong. The state is under no obligation to sacrifice the interests of its young people in order to help any town where a school may be located.

The practical advantages of the move proposed by Governor Patterson and accepted by the regents of both schools will be obvious. The governor has sensed the fact that two sisters living figuratively under the same roof have some obligations toward each other and towards parental peace of mind.

Aspirng young flappers are now said to be favoring a revival of old songs, the favorite being "Lindy, Lindy, Won't You Be Mine?"

Songs of Plain Folks By James Lewis Hays

Rain! Oh, happy heart within me, Hear it washing through the leaves, Humming sweetly to the shingles, Laughing down the grateful eaves, Drouth is broken, crops are rescued, John is happy now once more; On the porch he sits with Teddy And they play and watch it pour.

Making it Easy for Nathan.

Albany Democrat-Herald. They are planning to remove Nathan Leopold, Jr., from Joliet prison to an asylum. They say the fenish murderer of little Bobbie Franks is listless and "not as alert and contented" as he was two years ago when a Chicago judge saved his worthless neck by sentencing him to life imprisonment.

And they are justifying the greatest criticism against life imprisonment for diabolical murder in that they are going to prove, or try to prove, that life imprisonment sentences don't mean life imprisonment terms.

The strategy in the Leopold case is removal from prison to an asylum first and later, perhaps, a pardon and final discharge.

People have forgotten about the little Franks boy but they remember Leopold and Loeb and their hearts throb with sympathy because the young murderers are languishing in jail. They have forgotten the horriblebleness of the crime.

Illinois will do well to keep Leopold, Jr., in prison. The state cannot punish him too severely.
