

THE DALLES TO PLAY HEPPNER JULY 3-4

Indians Asked for 2nd; Final Celebration Arrangements Made.

For the entertainment of the large number of people who have said they are going to stay home over Independence Day, the Heppner baseball club has arranged a three-day sport carnival for the 2nd, 3rd and 4th. The Umatilla Indians from the Blue Mountain league have been asked to play Heppner here Saturday and promised to let the local club know today whether they could come, but at noon they had not been heard from.

But the Dalles will be here for sure the last two days. Their manager said Tuesday that they would be here Saturday night along with a bunch of fans to attend the dance that evening and were all hopped up to give Heppner a drubbing. Manager Barr's gang are determined they can't do it, however, so good fast games may be expected.

The Dalles is tied with Bend for the championship of the Upper Columbia league, which is an indication of the strength of their team. Heppner have their whole gang on hand, along with a reserve pitcher. Strengthened this week by the addition of Ward and Reimann, the boys are feeling quite confident.

The ball games will be the major attraction of the three days. Dances will be held the evening of the first, second and fourth, for which the best outside music obtainable will be on hand. Manager Barr is in Portland this week and while there will endeavor to obtain one of the leading jazz orchestras of the city. The orchestra from Rufus, with which local people are acquainted, is also being communicated with.

Time Short For Vets to Reinstate Insurance

Urging World War veterans of this community and state to avoid the inevitable last-minute rush of war-risk insurance reinstatement, Kenneth L. Cooper, Portland Regional Manager of the U. S. Veterans Bureau, is giving last minute warning that July 2 of this year is the last day that government insurance will be available. He asks that those entitled to government policies, by reason of having had war insurance, take action in this matter at the earliest possible moment in order that every application may be taken care of.

"The expiration date set by Congress for reinstatement of war insurance is only about two weeks off," said Mr. Cooper. "There are hundreds of ex-service men in this state who intend to take advantage of this government benefit before July 2, as shown by requests for blanks and forms. Action should not be delayed until the last minute. There is bound to be a rush of applications during the last two or three days. Therefore, it is urged that action on this matter be taken now."

"The privilege of converting term insurance, now held by thousands of veterans throughout the country, into the five-year level term or one of the permanent government policies is also limited to July 2. Six forms of endorsement and life policies are available. The fact that private insurance companies highly endorse these policies show their value. Veterans who are hesitating to reinstate because of financial reasons should consider the five-year policy which allows conversion to a permanent policy at a later date."

Application blanks and instructions may be secured from the local Red Cross chapter, American Legion post or by letter from the Regional Office of the Veteran's Bureau, Wood-Lark Building, Portland, Oregon.

LOCAL MEN ASKED TO MEETING.

Pendleton East Oregonian. The next and probably the last membership meeting of the Pendleton Commercial association this summer will be held Thursday evening at 8:30. The board of managers may have a new constitution and by-laws for the approval of the membership. In addition, a condensed program of work will be briefly presented for the approval or disapproval of the members. Officers of the Heppner commercial club and some members of the Heppner city council have been invited to attend the meeting as guests of the local group to strike up an acquaintanceship in that territory, which will be opened to Pendleton business in the near future by the completion of the Pilot Rock-Heppner section of the Oregon-Washington highway.

Margaret Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clark of Lone, suffered a badly sprained ankle last Thursday. An x-ray by Dr. Johnston revealed no fractures.

Mrs. Clifford Christopherson and baby have returned to their home in Lone from the Morrow General hospital.

Dallas Ward, who played center field and second base for Heppner Sunday in the game with Ione, celebrated his return to Morrow county from O. A. C. where he was prominent in a number of athletic teams, by hitting a drive over the center lot fence for a home run. Hoskins scored on the hit also. This was the fifth inning after Heppner had already panned two runs in the third via Erwin's walk, Guy Cason's three-bagger and Aiken's single. Ward singled and scored again in the eighth for Heppner's fifth and final score, and a four-run lead. Ione's lone tally came in the seventh by Davidson who singled and made it on around when some of the locals took to the air for awhile.

"Ducky" Drake is admitted to have the Indian sign on the Ione batters. He held them to no hits through the sixth and only allowed three all told. Heppner got six hits off Collins. LaMear, who has been receiving Drake in fine shape all season, should be given his share of the credit, too. He kept opposing runners tied closely to the bases, and nipped the only attempt to steal when he caught W. Rietmann at second by a beautiful peg.

Anderson and Van Marter were both absent from the lineup, being at East Lake on a fishing jaunt. Their services were well replaced, however, by Ward, Turner and Reimann, the latter a trainman on the branch, who showed well during his short sojourn at second.

Heppner now has undisputed claim to the Morrow-Gilliam pennant with a record of ten straight wins since the first game which they dropped at Condon. The boys play the last game of the league schedule at Condon next Sunday, while Arlington goes to Ione. Condon won from Arlington Sunday with a score reported to be 18-5.

MRS. MARY LIEUALLEN DIES.

Death came to Mrs. Mary Lieuallen at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John H. Padberg in this city, on Friday evening, June 17, following an illness of many months, during which time Mrs. Lieuallen was a sufferer from diabetes. The remains were taken to her home at Weston where the funeral services were held in the Methodist church on Monday. Mrs. Lieuallen was 76 years of age, and was the daughter of Taylor Green, one of the earliest settlers in the Weston country. She had made her home with her daughter here for the past few years. Mrs. Lieuallen is survived by four children, Jesse A. Lieuallen of West Walla, Wash.; Charles W. Lieuallen of Tacoma, Wash.; and Joseph S. Lieuallen and Mrs. Della Padberg of Heppner, Ore. Also surviving are six grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

LAND BRINGS GOOD PRICE.

What is declared to be the highest price paid for wheat land since the war was announced at Pendleton on Tuesday in connection with the closing of a deal for 183 acres a mile northeast of Athena, involving a consideration of $45,000 or $245.00 per acre, states the East Oregonian. The land belonged to the heirs of the W. P. Wilby estate and was sold to George Sheard, prominent Umatilla county wheat farmer who owns adjoining wheat land.

The sale shows an upward trend in the price of good wheat lands, though the tract sold is considered one of the choicest pieces in the county. According to Mr. Sheard, who has leased the land in previous years, the yield has averaged 48 bushels to the acre for the past ten crops.

INCOME TAX AMONG VOTER INTERESTS AT JUNE 28 POLLS

Twelve measures will be submitted to the people of Oregon at the special election next Tuesday. Ten are referred by the legislature and two by referendum petition of the people. So far interest manifest locally in the election is near zero, making it probable that a light vote will be cast. This should not be the case, however, when the importance of some of the measures is considered.

More attention has been given the income tax measure endorsed by Governor Patterson than any other. This bill differs materially from other bills presented for approval the last few years. Hence it has met opposition at well as a large number of the opponents of that measure. The Patterson administration has presented this bill in the form of what it declares to be a more just and equitable tax, as the only means of raising revenue to meet the state financial deficit. Its opponents declare it would provide only an additional tax and encourage state officials in their spending orgy at a time when greater economy should be practiced. They cite instances of proposed spending, such as the new state office building to cost $800,000, where the administration appears not to be in a mood for economy. This question therefore appears to have resolved itself into whether the state should have more money to spend or keep its disbursements within the revenues already provided. Arguments pro and con will be found in the voters' pamphlet, now in the hands of all registered voters.

Then again we have the "Repeal of Negro, Chinaman and Mulatto Suffrage Section of the Constitution." Every voter should readily recognize this inscription, as it has appeared innumerable times on the ballot. The section of the constitution which this amendment hopes to repeal was made null and void with the passage of the 15th amendment to the United States constitution. It is a dead section. The reason for the measure appearing on the ballot is to get authority from the people to wipe it off the state statutes so that it will not have to be transcribed with each recodification of the statutes. Every time the amendment has come up it has been defeated. The boys in blue decided the question of right in the matter back in the 60's; there should be no hesitancy in voting for the amendment.

"Portland School District Tax Levy Amendment" has little bearing on Eastern Oregon. It is a matter which may well be left to the people immediately affected to settle, if not thoroughly understood. Affirmative argument only appears in the pamphlet.

"Property Assessment and Taxation Enforcement Bill" would give the state tax commission a great deal of power which might work either for good or bad. It aims at bringing all assessable property into the open that it may share its just part of the tax burden. It might, however, have the effect of making tax paying much more unpleasant. This is a good bill to put in some last minute study on.

"Nestucca Bay Fish Closing Bill" brings up an old bone of contention, namely: whether sportsmen or commercial fishermen shall be favored in enjoying the benefit of state resources; especially the former to the exclusion of the latter. Negative argument only appears in the pamphlet.

School Election Monday Draws Small Attendance

While the attendance at the annual school meeting of District No. 1 was a little better than common, there was a little excitement over the election and but three candidates were in the field for director. When the election of director was called by Mrs. Ealor B. Huston, chairman of the board, and acting chairman of the annual meeting, the names of Chas. Thomson, F. R. Brown and Claude Cox were placed in nomination. Upon ballot being taken, Mr. Thomson was found to be practically the unanimous choice of the electors present, and out of 20 votes cast he received 17. Vawter Crawford was reelected clerk without opposition.

Mr. Thomson was the retiring director, having been elected to fill out the unexpired term of the late C. E. Woodson. The report of the clerk was read, which shows the district to be in splendid condition, financially. There was no discussion of school matters, and the meeting seemed to be well satisfied with the manner in which the business of the district is being conducted.

CIRCLES MET AT BEND.

The eastern Oregon convention of Neighbors of Woodcraft at Bend last week was attended by eight delegates from Heppner and 115 from the district. Local delegates returning yesterday declare it to have been one of the very best conventions of record. Those attending from here were Mrs. Henry Howell, Mrs. M. R. Fell, Mrs. J. G. Cowins, Mr. and Mrs. John Hiatt, Mrs. Frank Rasmus, Mrs. John Cason, Grace Buschke, Mrs. Orve Brown. Alice Rasmus was elected district officer from the local lodge. The convention next year will be held at Bend. Minnie Hiner, grand guardian, complimented the Heppner lodge as being the best lodge in the district.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to sincerely thank our friends and neighbors who so kindly tendered their help and sympathy at the time of our bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Padberg and Family.

Mistaken Identity
After waiting long and patiently for his waiter to appear with his order of ham and eggs, the nervous Mr. Wollup accosted another waiter and asked: "How long have you been working here?"
"Two weeks, sir," replied the waiter.
"No," said Mr. Wollup, sadly. "You're not my waiter."

"Criminal Information Amendment" was introduced solely for the purpose of expediting the handling of criminal cases in which the defendant desires to plead guilty. It does not affect the present grand jury system in other instances. Affirmative argument only in pamphlet.

"Legislators' Pay Amendment" which would increase legislators' pay over amounts now received, has arguments both for and against in the pamphlet. It is admitted legislators cannot pay expenses with present remuneration. What should they receive? Read the arguments and see if you believe the compensation provided in the amendment is just and adequate. You are the legislators' paymaster.

"Voters' Registration Amendment" would do away with swearing in voters at elections and with its alleged misuse of the ballot. Strong arguments appear in the pamphlet, and the question should be thoroughly understood for intelligent voting.

The "State and County Officers Salary Amendment" is self-explanatory on the ballot. However, there may be a joker in it, as suggested by the negative argument in the pamphlet. Brought up as an economy measure, its opponents believe it would prove unjust and discriminatory in operation. Be sure before you vote.

"City and County Consolidation Amendment" affects only Portland and Multnomah county. Again, if not informed, let those immediately concerned settle the matter.

"Veterans' Memorial and Armory Amendment" would provide a means for Portland veterans to build a memorial and armory building. This affects only Multnomah county.

"State Tax Limitation Amendment" would provide a new base for computing the 1928 state tax levy. This is made necessary, according to the pamphlet, because of the base being lowered in 1924 by enactment of the income tax. There is no argument in the pamphlet against it.

"Property Assessment and Taxation Enforcement Bill" would give the state tax commission a great deal of power which might work either for good or bad. It aims at bringing all assessable property into the open that it may share its just part of the tax burden. It might, however, have the effect of making tax paying much more unpleasant. This is a good bill to put in some last minute study on.

"Nestucca Bay Fish Closing Bill" brings up an old bone of contention, namely: whether sportsmen or commercial fishermen shall be favored in enjoying the benefit of state resources; especially the former to the exclusion of the latter. Negative argument only appears in the pamphlet.

Plans for New School Gymnasium Are Here

The plans and specifications for the new auditorium-gymnasium to be erected by School District No. 1, arrived from the architect the first of the week, and in another column appears the call for bids on construction of the building.

These plans call for reinforced concrete construction and the building will be an imposing one when completed, which event it is hoped will be accomplished by the time school opens in the fall, or very soon thereafter.

TAKEN TO PENITENT HOSPITAL.

Justus A. Miller, a resident of the Hodson neighborhood where he has lived the life of a recluse for many years in a small cabin on a 70-acre tract of land, was brought to Heppner Tuesday evening, suffering from mental aberration. Upon being examined Wednesday he was found to be insane and was committed to the eastern Oregon asylum at Pendleton. The peculiar actions of Miller for some time past aroused the suspicions of his neighbors, and he seemed possessed with the idea that someone was coming to kill him. While apparently in good health, it is thought that he is suffering from some physical ailment, and that proper treatment for a time at the hospital will restore his mental balance. Miller claims to be 68 years of age, is a native of Germany and has been a resident of this county for many years. He was taken to Pendleton Wednesday.

BRANDS MUST BE RE-RECORDED.

All livestock brands in the state must be re-recorded by September 1. This is the word being sent to county clerks of the state by W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, who is also mailing blanks to all present holders of livestock brand certificates. The re-recording of the brands is necessary so that many brands that are no longer used may be issued to new applicants, Mr. Lytle stated. New blanks for brands will be in the hands of the county clerks in July for all those who have not received copies from the state veterinarian.

EASTERN STAR NOTICE.

SAW 'LINDY' LAND AT LE BOURGET

An interesting letter published in the Hood River News was handed this paper last week too late for publication. The communication is from Earl Spaulding, son of Rev. F. R. Spaulding of this city, who is in business in Paris, and was present at the historical landing of Captain Charles Lindbergh on Le Bourget field from his New York to Paris non-stop flight. Mr. Spaulding's letter as printed in the News follows:

"Mrs. Spaulding and I have just had the pleasant experience of being a part of the thousands who were at the Le Bourget flying fields to greet Captain Lindbergh, when he successfully completed his New York-Paris flight. "Naturally we had been keeping in close touch with events from the moment he had been reported to be on his way. The local Paris-American newspapers had sent out two bulletins during the afternoon that he had been seen by passing ships, and if nothing unforeseen happened, should land between 9 and 10 o'clock that night."

"We arrived at Le Bourget Field about 8 o'clock. This field is five miles from the city limits of Paris, and the crowd, which was soon to reach huge proportions, had already made a good showing. We were very fortunate in being able to get on the ground floor, which point we had a splendid view of all that was going on. Local aviators kept us entertained by giving stunt performances. I have seen many of these before, but never had seen so much daring, continuous and bunched, as we witnessed that evening."

"As the shadows lengthened with the approach of darkness, and the stunt aviators had taken their machines to the hangars, a report arrived that Lindbergh had failed. This was very easy to believe, since the Navigator-Cox tragedy is still fresh in the minds of all. With receipt of this news, a pall seemed to settle over the great crowd. Then all was very quiet, as the huge searchlights began to throw their long rays into the sky and search for signs of the aviator. Every few minutes great rockets and flares were sent up in the hope that the expected plane would be disclosed. But the minutes lengthened, until it was ten o'clock. Still the minutes slipped away when, suddenly the straining ears of the vast crowd picked out the steady drone of an airplane motor. Once more the huge beams of the searchlight swept the sky in the direction from which the drone was heard. And then one began to pick up Lindbergh's silver plane, and a flood of light showed him the way to the landing field. Like a great bird, dropping plane circled the field three times before gliding to a landing that was perfect."

"Someone here has said: 'If ten thousand devils were summoned in a mad dance to strike simultaneously all of the tools in the land, the din and bedlam they would raise could never equal the frenzied enthusiasm and the hysterical roar that swept across the field as Lindbergh brought his silver gray plane to a perfect landing in the glare of the powerful flood lights, which illuminated the aerodrome.'"

"Almost limp and completely bewildered by the lights and huge flood of swirling humanity which milled around him, Lindbergh finally broke into a broad grin.

"Am I here? Am I here? Is this really Paris?" he gasped. A minute later it appeared as if he was going to collapse, and those at his side were unable to do much for him for bedlam had broken loose, and thousands were racing across the field to get a glimpse of the hero and his wonder machine. The heavy wire strand fence, which had been erected to keep the crowds away from the plane, crumpled like so much thread. Soldiers in vain tried to stem the human tide with the butts of their rifles. But it was useless and it seemed as if both aviator and his plane would be carried away by the flood of human beings who were swept towards him.

"Then somebody performed a remarkable ruse. One of the onlookers was seized, hoisted on to shoulders of those near, and amid cheers, was rushed in the general direction of the reception hall. The mob immediately followed, and the pressure on the real Lindbergh and his plane was at once relieved. And before any one was wise to what had happened, French aviators had rushed Lindbergh into a nearby hangar, where he was massaged and treated by resident American doctors, and transported to the home of Ambassador Herriek, where he was immediately put to bed for a much-needed and well-earned rest."

"After we had examined the plane and touched it, as everyone was trying to do in a spirit of affection for the hero who had traveled alone in it across the Atlantic, our next thought was how were we going to get back to our home in Paris. We secured a taxi cab, but it took us several hours to reach the city, so dense was the crowd. There were three others besides ourselves in the car, and when the crowd learned that we were Americans and had actually touched Lindbergh's plane, everybody wanted to touch our hands, or our clothing, so that they could tell their folks that, although they had been unable to get even near the plane, they had been fortunate enough to touch someone who had actually touched the plane. "The welcome to Lindbergh was true and sincere, straight from the hearts of the French people, and Lindbergh's flight has done more to help the French-American spirit of friendship than a host of diplomats could ever do.

Roy Campbell Farm Home Burns Tuesday

The residence of Roy Campbell, on the farm of his father, W. T. Campbell, was totally destroyed, together with the contents a little after seven o'clock Tuesday morning. The fire was the result of one of the little boys playing with matches and it spread through the house so rapidly that there was no chance to remove any of the contents, and the family and hired help busied themselves in saving the barn and nearby buildings.

The older members of the family were out about their work, Mr. Campbell himself being about a quarter of a mile from the house when he noticed the smoke and gave the alarm. The children had been left asleep in one of the bedrooms while Mrs. Campbell was out doing some chores, and one little fellow went into an adjoining room where he got hold of some matches. When questioned the lad stated how it happened, and his statement seems to be reasonable. The little boy, but a few months old, was the concern of Mr. Campbell when he first discovered the fire, and he rushed to the bedroom and rescued the child, the other children having made their escape, but there was no chance to gather up any of the contents. The residence carried some insurance but the household goods were not insured. There was no breeze at the time, and because of this fact it was possible to save the fine big barn and other buildings near by.

Flood Relief Session Lesson for Uncle Sam Your Important Cells Women Natural Teachers

The President will call a special session of Congress for October, to take up the Mississippi flood disaster and the prevention question. The sooner prevention is discussed and arranged the better. The American Congress and people have a great faculty for forgetting—even a two billion-dollar calamity and 700,000 people being made homeless.

Twice in succession, American fliers have crossed the Atlantic at one "hop," Lindbergh flying to Paris, Chamberlin with Levine, almost to Berlin.

What will military and naval gentlemen say now about their theory that "The airplane is no real menace to this country?"

Out of two attempts to fly across the ocean by American fliers, both succeeded.

What would be the probable percentage of success if five thousand foreign aviators, with full government backing and unlimited expenditure of money, should fly the other way on a hostile errand?

American should take to heart the lesson that Lindbergh and Chamberlin have taught us and get ready to keep fliers away from this continent.

Five or ten thousand first-class planes, carrying mail parcels and passengers in peace, ready to take out machine guns in war, would be the best investment this rich nation could make.

Golf, according to accident insurance companies, comes third among "dangerous sports." Victims of 451 golf accidents collected insurance last year. Twelve for cuts with sharp instruments. The instruments were bottles, on the "19th hole." However, for one man injured at golf, one hundred die for lack of exercise, so play golf.

A German scientist says your heart is less important than the billions of cells that make up your body. The heart is important, of course, but the cells, eating, drinking, digesting, each living a separate life, are more important than the heart, even in blood circulation.

The human body is like a nation. Brain and heart are the government. The cells are the citizens, and most important.

Dr. Mendelssohn, of Berlin University, says, "The secret of life is the ability of living cells to effect change of matter and absorb and eject fluids. This change of fluids seems to be the principal cause of blood circulation."

The secret of making life worth while is the ability of the living brain to accept and absorb new ideas. That is the principal cause of human progress.

Students at Oxford worry because women are to teach there. "Isis," read by the Oxford young gentlemen, says that will eventually lead to a sex war, and is "a social revolution of the utmost significance."

Women are natural teachers; teaching has been their business from the beginning; teaching children, teaching husbands.

DO YOU SMILE?
If you mention Salvation to some people you will see them smile. The idea seems to be that anyone who speaks in that way is at least a bit silly. Is it not just possible that the smiler betrays his own ignorance?
"What are we to be saved from?" and how? "Our Sins and Our Savior" is the topic to be discussed at the Church of Christ on Sunday evening. The morning discussion will be based on the fifth chapter of the Ephesian letter.
