About Salaries.

EAST OREGONIAN.

THE resignation of an Oregon circuit judge, John C. Kendall, on the ground that salaries paid judges are too low is causing comment. The salary paid to judges outside of Multnomah county is $4000 a year.

The explanation is that supply and demand has much to do with gets a salary of $4000 a year. It is the main to technical men because good men with technical training plus executive ability are scarce.

In one of our colleges a veteran teacher of English gets $3600 a year whereas many younger men doing technical work get much higher salaries.

IT IS now generally admitted that in the United States we are living in an era of high wages and general prosperity. But the calamity howlers like to counter all references to the good times our working men are enjoying by stating that even if wages are higher the cost of living is rising just as fast and that the worker is therefore no better off than he was fifteen years ago.

As to judges, their work is very important and high type men are needed. Yet many take the view that if we can get good men for $4000 a year why pay more? The salary paid is not the only consideration.

Dr. Frank Crane Says

DON'T GIVE UP.

WHATEVER has happened to you, don't give up. Do not admit that circumstances are more powerful than you. Though your head be bloody it should not be bowed. You may have had financial losses and the accumulations of years may have been swept away, possibly by the treachery of some friend.

No more damnable gospel was ever preached than that for you or any man or woman there is no hope.

The world is wide and if there is any one thing that both religion and philosophy teach it is that we can rise upon the wreck of our dead selves and enjoy that which remains.

Be a thoroughbred and keep up your courage, even though the battle may be against you.

Many a person has given up when success lay just ahead of him. If you can't do anything else, hold on. Believe in yourself, believe in life, believe in your star.

What we want in this world is something to tone us up, to put us at our best, and fear is just the opposite of this.

supply and demand and he is entitled to get all he can for his money.

High Prices. IT IS now generally admitted that in the United States we are living in an era of high wages and general prosperity.

Here is something to think about, and it bears some assurance for the future. As a matter of fact the purchasing power of the dollar has increased during the past two years. It now buys 61.1 per cent as much as it did in 1914, as compared with fifty per cent only a few years ago.

Here is the best answer possible to the low tariff, low wage, low cost of living doctrine. Again it may be said that the proof of the pudding is the eating thereof.

Communities Develop. JUST as the country towns and smaller cities hold the preponderance of newspaper circulation in the nation, so the thousands of smaller industries of these towns hold the preponderance of pay-rolls and general production, except in a few highly specialized industries, remarks Pantagraph, of Bloomington, Illinois.

This remarkable industrial growth has taken place largely in the past twenty-five years, and has been concurrent with the far-reaching development of electrical power and distribution.

The industrial output of smaller cities and "country towns" is gradually surpassing in volume the output of the great centers of population.

The Golden Harvest.

TELEGRAM.

WITH 100,000,000 bushels of wheat ripe for the harvest and the promise of a price that means a profitable return to the grower, there is abundant prospect of prosperity for the Pacific Northwest.

That is a lot of money—and it will arrive just at the place and time where it can do a lot of good to the Northwest country and to Portland which is the natural center of its export trade.

Harvest is just beginning, and nothing short of an unprecedented disaster can prevent the gathering of a bumper crop, larger by millions of bushels than the Northwest has ever known.

Reaping and winnowing the grain, getting it onto cars and steamers, making it into flour and breakfast foods—all these mean employment for labor and much of the gold of the wheat will find its way into the wage envelope and thence to the sellers of all things the worker buys when he is busy and prosperous.

All the Northwest shares with the grower the profit of this generous harvest and Portland benefits with the rest.

The clatter and whirr of the combined harvester will be translated into the rattle of the adding machine and the click of the cash register and everybody will be happy.

Law of Creation.

IT IS easy for the superstitious to imagine that "nature" or the "demons" or whatever they choose to blame, is working against this earth. There have been sunspots, a total eclipse of the sun, extraordinary weather all around the earth, floods, electrical storms, earthquakes, France and the British Isles within a few days had poured down upon them 100,000,000 tons of rain with terrific lightning and thunder.

Three weeks ago there was an earthquake in Australia, the other side of the earth, "aggravated by loud explosions, buildings badly shaken." Last week earthquake news came from ancient Palestine, a quake deadly in its effects, destructive to ancient buildings, hundreds are dead, 109 killed within the Jerusalem area.

Great complaint is heard over the multiplicity of laws, and it is said that we need no more than we have already—or less. Yet it is evident that men are so foolish, in their wisdom, that the progress of the race calls constantly for new legal safeguards.

Communities Develop.

JUST as the country towns and smaller cities hold the preponderance of newspaper circulation in the nation, so the thousands of smaller industries of these towns hold the preponderance of pay-rolls and general production, except in a few highly specialized

State agents, inspectors, checkers, special men are thick this year. A big crop of them. Incidentally they are on the people's payroll. Some of them appreciate this and conduct themselves accordingly while others step around like they owned the state and that folks lived here by some special permit.

The man doesn't live who is disappointed in his obituary notice.

The Judge's Joke

Yes He Did. "That drunkard we just saw is a very touching case. Isn't he?"

Truthful at Least. "Do you suffer from thirst?" "Suffer? Why, it's my greatest pleasure."

There's a Reason. "I haven't taken a woman out in five years," offered the prisoner as he broke another stone.

Good Old Pals. "Yes, sir. It certainly pays to study," said the young man as he received his usual fifty-dollar check from his old man.

Shot at Sunrise. German—There is one word in the English language that is always pronounced wrong.

All Through History. Samson—Do you neck? Döllah—S-s-a-y, that's my business.

An Unkind Cut. "I shall never marry," William declared, "until I meet a woman who is my direct opposite."

We'll Say it is. "What's the hardest thing about ice-skating when you're learning?" asked the beginner.

Even Up. "I hear you've accepted Jack," said an old flame of his. "I suppose he never told you he once proposed to me."

Not an Asset. Street Artist—"All drawn with me left hand, sir." Student—"That's no excuse."

Songs of Plain Folks By James Lewis Hays

For Mother, flowers on Mother's Day; For Mother, red carnations gay; For Mother, phrases fine,—but stay! What's that to Mother?

Oh, surely what she really wants Is not the showy, tinsel'd vaunts But love that seeks its childhood haunts— Just love for Mother;

Just love that says, "Oh Mother dear, What would we do without you here?" Just love with merry jests that cheer The heart of Mother.

Mother, we give no studied praise, Such as some speak on Mother's Days. Our hearts are full of love that stays Your own, our Mother.
