

Local Happenings

Dan Barlow was in the city from his Eight Mile farm on Monday. According to Mr. Barlow, that section was never in better condition as to moisture than it is this fall. The early rains brought the weeds up at a lively rate and there was no let up on the Barlow farm from the time they appeared until within the past few weeks, when seed was put in the ground. The thorough going over in the process of weed killing has prepared the summerfallow the best it has been in many years, and Mr. Barlow feels it paid well to keep after the weeds. Weeds are perhaps a blessing in disguise, after all, as in getting rid of the pests the ground is that much better prepared for seed reception.

A card received by this paper from Elbert Cox and family was written from Sidney, Iowa, the first stop on their journey to the old home in Virginia. The trip that far was made without mishap, and they had mud roads for about three miles only, encountering the worst on a short detour near Rawlins, Wyoming. At this point the highway department had teams to help the motorists along if they needed aid. They had no car trouble and drove the 1926 miles in seven days. There was no snow or rain to bother, which is rather remarkable in crossing the Rockies at this time of year.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Olden were visitors here on Tuesday, taking time to come to town between showers. At the Olden ranch seeding is now completed after a season of fighting weeds. Mrs. Olden reports that she is getting her turkeys ready for the Thanksgiving market and will have some fine birds to dispose of. Last season her turkeys averaged her around $6.50 apiece, and the market seems to be just as good this fall.

Married, Friday evening, November 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton W. Bower in this city, Elmer E. Baldwin of Heppner to Miss Carol Reade of Lexington, Mr. Bower performing the ceremony in the presence of a few immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Shelly Baldwin of this city, while the bride is one of the teachers in the school at Lexington.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Synder have shipped their household goods to Grangeville, Idaho, for which place they expect to leave soon. The Snyders have resided at Heppner for many years and have made many friends here who regret to see them leave. They expect to be located permanently in the Idaho city.

Mrs. Anna Webster and two sons returned to their home in Portland on Tuesday. Mrs. Webster was called to Heppner by the death of her mother, the late Mrs. Arthur Smith, which occurred early last week. She was accompanied home by her father and Mr. Smith expects to remain in the city for a few weeks.

Jay Hiatt of Rhea creek, extensive poultry raiser, is taking 250 turkeys to the Portland market this week end. Mr. Hiatt has raised a fine lot of birds this season and he is expecting to find a good market for this shipment, which is getting into Portland in time for the Thanksgiving trade.

Herbert McDonald and Violet Saling, young people of Hardman, were united in marriage at the parsonage of the Methodist church in Heppner on Tuesday, November 15, Rev. F. R. Spaulding, pastor, officiating. The newly married young folks will make their home at Hardman.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. McMillan, prominent Lexington folks, were visitors in Heppner on Tuesday. Mr. McMillan rejoices over the fine crop outlook in his section and has no complaint to make whatever because of the abundant rains.

Don't miss seeing the new John Deere Tractor plowing at the Fred Lucas ranch at Lexington all day Saturday, November 19, and at the F. S. Parker ranch at Heppner, Tuesday, Nov. 22. Peoples Hardware Co.

Catch 'Em Young
"Why have you been sitting on the ground so long?" asked a neighbor of five-year-old Sally.
"I've got to," was the reply, "because I've planted a whole envelope of canary seed and I'm waiting for the little canaries to grow."
More Tactful Please
The Sheriff barked "You die today—
"Have you anything to say?"
The Horse-thief shrugged, "Perhaps I'm rude.
"But I don't like your attitude!"

Camel

keeps right on delivering enjoyment

Camel holds the leadership because it delivers complete smoking pleasure—that's Camel's platform.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobaccos.
