Sag With Good Cheer Nothing proves the hold which Thanksgiving day has on the American people so much as the dinner with which they celebr to it From beginning to end it is american. On other days we may ear can. On other days we may est caviar, goulash and camember cheese, but on this day we est cysters, turkey, potatoes, hominy, cranberries and pumpkin ple-old American dishes, all, and invariably cooked in an American way They are our chief contribution to the cuisine of the world. Then let us have at them without shame. We have much to be thankful for this year: we are at peace; we are fairly prosperous; we begin, after years marred by the passions of war, to regain possession of our better selves; we take our ease, give some thought to the exquisite side of life, and find America once more the place it used to be. the festal board, then, and let the turkey be made entirely of second

OU Don't want to miss getting the paper, with the leading news of all your friends, combined with all the money saving opportunities to be found in the advertisements and official records of county and city government, not to mention activity news of all kinds. Every week someone saves the price of several years' subscription by reading this paper. Maybe it is through a small want ad, or again it may be by buying goods mentioned in display advertising; or it may be through a business. "hunch" obtained in a news item. The paper is an asset to you, worth many times its price. You can't afford to miss

This, our friends, is your side of the question. As for the paper, it sorely needs the money due on subscriptions, and it needs the subcriptions. Thorough circulation means a better advertising medium, making the paper more valuable to the merchants, and others who advertise in its columns. Again, thorough circulation means a better paper for you, as it enables the paper to keep in closer contact with the news sources with consequent wider coverage of news happenings.
