New Building Appreciated.

WE BELIEVE the large number of people who nearly filled the new auditorium at the school play Tuesday evening, will agree with us when we say the new building is a credit to the community, a plant that will stimulate forensic and athletic development of the pupils of the school and add much to the public reception of school entertainments for years to come. Some people present Tuesday evening may have been there simply out of curiosity to see what the new building was like. A great number went away convinced that no school entertainment was ever presented in more pleasing surroundings where so large an audience could comfortably see and hear all that was presented, in Heppner.

One use of the new building has been fittingly revealed. Many other uses will be revealed as the crowded program for the structure progresses during the remainder of the year. A new life is seen in the student bodies of the school, aroused by the opportunities for doing things that the new building affords. This is being reflected more and more as a fuller appreciation generally is had. Basketball will regain its lost status as a leading sport of the town as the players take a new interest, aroused by the better facilities; make better teams, and consequently draw larger crowds who, in turn, will find such convenience in witnessing games that soon all the drawbacks to the advancement of the sport will have been overcome.

A source for the working off of pent-up, unexpended energy of the youngsters in a proper manner is also provided through the facilities of gymnastic training, that will do away with many of the tendencies toward vandalism and other cussedness for which youngsters are many times unwontedly blamed. Heppner has needed such a building for a long time. It is but one of many stepping stones necessary to progress, and its dividends will be many fold.

Christmas.

IF YOU are one of those who think this "materialistic" age is tottering to a fall, be glad for Christmas. This is the day when the years roll back, and all the world is young.

Let Dad get his Christmas thrill by showing the children just how the new toys work. Let Mother get her thrill when the family pitches in and devours the feast under which the table groans. And the children—well, they know how to enjoy Christmas without any prodding. Steal a page from childhood's book, and be glad for Christmas.

Magically, from aging shoulders, you'll find the burdens and cares of this business of making a living will drop away. Tomorrow, true enough, they may return—but who looks to tomorrow when Christmas is here.

Be glad for Christmas.

Helping Retailers.

CONGRESS has been asked to authorize a survey of retail merchandising under the direction of the Department of Commerce. There is need for such a survey since, for the most part, whatever information is now available to help retailers solve their problems has been gathered by private agencies with limited resources.

Estimates of the total volume of the retail business run from $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 annually, or about half the national income. Among small retailers the rate of business mortality is far greater than it should be, so anything that will help them is worthy of consideration.

One thing such survey should most certainly include is reliable and complete data on the part advertising plays in the distribution problem. Figures gathered in a number of cities show that a start-

Dr. Frank Crane Says

THE GROWTH OF PEACE.

THE peace idea is gradually growing. Peace will never be secured by any artificial means until there is sufficient sentiment behind it. That sentiment must grow. It cannot be manufactured.

Of course every intelligent effort to promote peace helps along the growth and should be encouraged, but it should be remembered that universal peace is not upon a solid foundation except as based upon the will of all the people everywhere.

Lillian Gish, the movie actress, said the other day: "I believe the screen will bring all men to a common conception of one God and to a universal sense of international relation and duty."

One of the great factors in the growth of peace is the movie. It speaks not in words suitable for one people and not another, but by pictures which are understandable by all.

An Italian paper recently protested against the influence of American Hollywood screens. This is like protesting against the procession of the equinoxes.

I have seen films all through Europe and most of the American ones. Europeans are fond of American films, for the simplest reason in the world. They are better than the European and cheaper.

Against these two arguments it is useless to object.

American films are steadily spreading the democratic ideas of freedom and equality all over the world. Old notions of vested privilege, old institutions founded upon tradition must give way.

Along with the film come other things that are universal and international, that know no nations and do not understand the language of "patriotism"—art, literature and commerce. In the matter of art makes no difference where one comes from nor who was one's father. It is the same way with commerce, if it is profitable to trade with the people of a country, and no ideas of nationality can prevent that occurrence.

In proportion as these universal ideas, commerce, the movies, art, grow and spread, to that degree must provincialism and nationalism give way and a suitable basis be formed upon which to erect the structure of universal peace.

ling number of firms failing in those cities were not advertisers. If Congress authorizes the survey—and Congress should—the Department of Commerce in gathering the data should seek authoritative information showing how advertising affects the rate of business mortality among small retailers.

Another man has been shot in Mexico because of his political views, which happened to be opposed to those of the group in power, but since only one man was put to death, it seems likely they were only taking a straw vote this time.

Nobody loves a fat man, they say, but anyway the fat men we know manage somehow to keep from starving and to be happy through it all.

We sometimes wonder if the reason Adam broke with Lilith wasn't that Christmas was drawing near.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF OREGON FOR MORROW COUNTY.
Ida B. Woodson, Plaintiff, vs.

To Charles Davis, a widower, Jesse Davis and Jane Doe Davis, his wife, Defendants.

IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON: You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit within four weeks from the date of first publication of this summons, or from the date of service upon you, if personally served outside of the State of Oregon, and if you fail to answer for want thereof the plaintiff will take a decree against you as prayed for in plaintiff's complaint, which is as follows, to-wit:

For judgment against the defendant, Richard McElligott, Administrator of the Estate of Charles M. Davis, deceased, for the sum of Three Thousand Dollars with interest at the rate of Eight per cent per annum from February 18th, 1923; the further sum of $400 attorney's fee and the plaintiff's costs and disbursements in this suit;

And for a decree of the court foreclosing the plaintiff's mortgage on the following described real property in Morrow County, State of Oregon, to-wit:

South half of Section 21; the North half of Section 22 in Township Two South, Range 25, E. W. M., except therefrom One square acre in the Southeast corner of the Northwest quarter of Section 25 in Township Two South, Range 25, E. W. M.

and providing the said real property be sold on foreclosure execution and the proceeds from said sale applied to the payment of plaintiff's judgment, including costs and attorney's fee and that each of the defendants above named be foreclosed of all right, title or interest in and to said real property and for such other and further relief as to the court may seem equitable.
