SOUTHLAND TALES TO BE HEARD HERE

G. Whitfield Ray, Noted Traveler - Lecturer at Auditorium on 31st.

"Seventeen Years of Thrills in South America" indicates the won-derful tale G. Whitfield Ray has to tell when he appears in Heppner on Tuesday evening, Jan. 31, at the public school auditorium. Dr. Ray appears as the fourth number of the local lyceum course.

Lyceum courses of several years standing always insist upon an appearance from Dr. Ray. In several of them throughout the state, he is the "Headliner" and they refuse to consider a lyceum course unless Dr. Ray can be included in the number

After 16 years spent in the wilds of South America Dr. Ray returned to his own country. Immediately he submitted the data of his trav-els to the Royal Geographical Society of England—was made a member of that noted group of scientists and at once delivered a series of lectures before them and other noted people of England. Later he lectured in Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Honolulu, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Alaska, Mexico and the United States.

In his lecture tours he carries with him Indian curios and relics that cost a king's ransom to collect. The official club of death, the only one in civilization, and many other strange and wierd tokens of savagery bedeck the stage from which he speaks. The largest snake skins ever brought to America are on exhibit along with the rarest feather costumes. Dr. Ray dons the feathers, wields the club of the witch doctor and in the native tongue imitates the wierd chants of the savages of Central South America.

He also speaks of the marriage customs, domestic life, peculiar dress and burial rites of these strange people and many other strange customs of these savages. He believes these tribes are the direct descendants of ancient Incas, and supports his theory with excellent reasons. He tells of the jungle, mysterious, unmapped, dark and gloomy, with secrets and witch-craftry and savage rites unthinkable to modern civilized man, prac-ticed by many tribes of savages.

Mount Ray, one of the peaks in the mountains in the Republic of Brazil, was named after him by that government in recognition of the Bolivian government gave him was among the high point men a grant of land and made him a against Arlington.

For a number of years Dr. Ray was official explorer for the Bolivian government. On a private ex-pedition of exploration into the interior of Paraguay, he discovered the Caingwa Indians, who never before had been visited by a white man. WILL HAVE CARNIVAL.

The Young People's Fellowship of the Episcopal church will have a carnival Saturday evening, Jan. 28, in the Fair pavilion. If the weather proves to be so cold that the pavilion cannot be made comfortably warm, the carnival will be held in the Episcopal parish house. A good time has been prepared for young and old who attend. Do not miss your share of the evening's fun. There will be booths, fortune tellers, a troop of famous players and a number of other at-

Heppner Loses a Game, and Wins Another One

Heppner's town boys lost their first game, played in the school gym against Lexington Thursday evening, being edged out in the last few minutes of play after leading their opponents throughout the major portion of the game. This hurt their vanity, and they took their spite out on the Arlington gang, when the latter quintet visited here Tuesday. Score of the first game was 23-19, the second 36-25. Monday, the Ione town team will be played here.

Heppner has a fast bunch. They were a bit too individualistic in the Lexington game, and their well organized opponents out-passed them feeding Paul Nichols who did the majority of their scoring. The light haired youth took the ball on the first tip-off and converted, and thereafter was difficult to stop. He and his team mates have played together for several seasons, and their comradeship was made evident by their teamwork. Russell Wright. "Une" McMillan, "Judge" Carmichael and Slocum were their other old heads. Heppner's gang is composed of Dan Beighle, Paul Aiken, Bob Hollingsworth, Francis Doherty, Ray Ferguson and Bill Bucknum. BOOSTER EDITION IS BIG SUCCESS CIRCUIT COURT HAS

The Story of Morrow County Will Be Broadcast; Last Call for Copy.

In creating a real and worthwhile advertisement for Morrow County and one, owing to the universal interest displayed, that will well fill its intended mission, we have succeeded beyond even our fondest expectations. The Booster Edition will be all and more than we had originally planned. And above all, it will have the right outside distribution, the most important factor in the whole undertaking.

We knew at the outset that in order to make this a real success we had to enlist the interest and cooperation of the mass of our people, the individuals throughout the county. That we succeeded is well shown by the many personal calls, letters and requests we have from our people asking for extra copies and offering every support.

With such a friendship and loyal patronage behind us the Gazette Times will ever fill its mission, that of serving Morrow County and its people.

The Booster Edition will be a careful resume of facts regarding the whole of Morrow County. Illustrations covering all features of interest in every part of the county will be shown. In alluring colors, facts regarding this district will be presented.

THE LAST CALL FOR COPY.

All photos must now be in our hands by no later than the end of next week. All advertising copy must likewise be in by this time. number of articles pertaining to social, church, club and other activities are still missing. We shall appreciate your sending these to our office at once. Some extra days will be allowed for the outlying districts of lone, Lexington, Boardman and Irrigon, but those sections pertaining to Heppner proper must shortly be printed, completed and laid aside. The Heppner Gazette Times office these days presents a real metropolitan daily appearance. Every ounce of work is crowded into every hour to produce for you a worthwhile work.

Be represented in this latter day story of Morrow County. And your share towards advertising it to the outside world.

SEND COPIES TO THE FOUR WINDS. CO-OPERATION MEANS SUCCESS. THE INTERESTS OF ONE ARE THE IN-TERESTS OF ALL. A GREATER HEPPNER AND A GREATER MORROW COUNTY STRAIGHT AHEAD.
