THE DAIRY INDUSTRY.

IN MORROW COUNTY the dairy industry has been of rather slow growth but the interest is increasing all the while, and it is being demonstrated most every day in the year that this is an adjunct to the farming industry here that is well worth while. The keeping of dairy cows on the farm has been the means of helping many a rancher in keeping up with the overhead, and assisting materially in putting him on a cash basis. It is therefore gratifying to know that more dairy stock is coming into the county and that there is a steady increase in receipts because of the cream check the farmer receives each week, or twice a month, as the case may be.

An editorial of interest along this line, from the last issue of the Manufacturer, takes its cue from the dairy industry in Tillamook county, in the statement that "the Tillamook County Creamery association in Oregon sold almost $2,000,000 worth of dairy products last year," and then comments in general on the matter thus:

"It is not a spectacular business, milking cows twice every day of the year. It means being on the job all the time; or getting a reliable substitute; there are no dairy holidays. But it puts cash in every farmer's bank book; it means farms paid for and worth up to $1000 an acre; it means a steady, profitable job when so much of the rest of the world is wondering whether the factory will shut down or the help be curtailed. It means keeping the home investment always at work, like the interest on any other good investment; if the labor never strikes, neither do the profits."

"There is no sure-earned farm prosperity without all the year-sticking to the job. The spasmodic farmer and the spasmodic mechanic and banker and clerk are alike always in financial hot water."

BOOSTS O-W HIGHWAY.

HAVING been over the road just recently, O. G. Crawford of the Joseph Herald is ready to boost for the Oregon-Washington highway between Pendleton and Heppner Junction. In the last issue of the Herald he has this to say:

"Parties traveling by auto from this end of the state to Portland should not overlook one of the best drives in Eastern Oregon. We refer to the Oregon-Washington highway between Pendleton and Heppner Junction. Not many people realize that much of the monotony of the sand country between Pendleton and The Dalles may be broken by taking the highway which leads thru Pilot Rock, Heppner, Lexington and Ione, merging with the Oregon Trail at Heppner Junction. Although a little rough the first few miles out of Pendleton, the O-W highway soon smooths out and the traveler finds easy going over hills and through valleys. One of the outstanding grades of the state's highway system is to be found on the route. It is the new grade over Franklin hill. This stretch of road held up travel by Heppner for several years and now that it is finished it is worth at least one trip to go over it. It is a nine mile climb from Vinson to the top of Franklin hill and about four and a half miles down to little Butter creek. The west side is as angular as Minam hill and about as picturesque, lacking the timber and the incomparable Minam river. The grade is broad and smooth, and while not fenced it is in no sense dangerous. By all means, plan to go one way over the O-W highway when making a trip to Portland."

INCOME TAX AGAIN.

ONCE more the income tax, like the ghost at the feast, has risen almost unbidden, in Oregon, as the state commission to study taxation has brought it up for consideration again. These commissions send a shiver up the spinal column, for before they have finished they always get on the wrong track; they try to find ways to get more money from the people of the state in taxes, instead of trying to readjust the burden more equitably, or recommending that the state spend less. The whole problem of state taxation is very simple, get legislators with backbone and intelligence sufficient to vote down appropriation bills, regardless of popular vote.

But there is much to recommend a shift of part of the tax load to income, and it will persist in bobbing up. More favor, we believe, if it were simplified and put on a different basis. The present intricate system beyond the grasp of any person who is not a trained accountant, and is an unnecessary annoyance to most of us. Hence returns are often not accurate, and hence, also, experts evade the law in a hundred ways. It is a game with them, like the law.

A simple, small tax on gross incomes would be preferable and more just. It would put a premium on good management instead of penalizing intelligence and thrift. It would be accepted as a light and reasonable charge on business.

Dr. Frank Crane Says:

ETERNAL CHILDREN

SOMEBODY said that a man has four ambitions; to plant a tree, to write a book, to build a house and to beget a son.

There is something peculiarly satisfying to a man when he has a son. It may be a survival of the old feeling that one must have an heir to inherit his estate.

In China they sometimes drown the girl babies because they do not want so many girls around, and prefer boys.

The affection between a man and his son is peculiarly tender. It is not the same kind of feeling that he has for his wife or for his daughter.

Somewhat the son seems to carry his own personality and when he looks at him he feels that his life has not been in vain.

A man at a banquet the other day got up and said:

"I am lonely. Nearly every man here tonight has his son with him. I have only the memory of mine."

Then he disclosed the fact that his son was somewhere in France either in an unmarked grave or lying unidentified near some wire fence or in a ditch.

The father wanted to go, but he was too old; they wanted young men. The son never came back.

It may be a faint consolation, but this boy has one advantage in that he will always be a boy.

We lose our children in two ways. They either die or grow up. In either case they separate from us.

The eternal children are the ones who die. They always linger in our memory as children. We expect to see them in the next world as children. They will always be children.

But those who grow up and develop their own personality and individuality swing away from us.

Perhaps after all the loneliest person is the one who has seen his loved ones grow away from him, rather than the one who has lost them by death.

The latter has them always with him in his memory, but to the former that memory is clouded by the reality.

NOT PLEASED WITH SMITH.

IT IS quite evident that our worthy journalistic neighbor of Pendleton, the East Oregonian, is not pleased because Al Smith is progressing toward the goal of becoming democratic nominee for president. The reasons for this discontent and aversion to Smith are in the main good enough, but it would seem to be putting it rather strong to say that nine-tenths of the propaganda favoring Smith comes from republican sources. We might admit in a general way it would be quite satisfactory to the republicans to have Smith the nominee, should the democrats thus choose, but they have fish of their own to fry and may be pretty much "het up" before a choice is made in their own camp. There seems to be a pretty active Smith organization in the democratic ranks that is promoting his interests in a very active manner. Hear what the E. O. has to say:

"Ex-Governor Oswald West uses forcible language in dealing with the subject of Al Smith and his campaign for the democratic nomination for president, but he is justified. The Smith view as publicly expressed is that the democratic party is a saloon party and should frankly say so. In New York he upheld state annulment of the dry amendment and he favors a democratic platform calling for a return of state option. That is the gospel according to Tammany but Oregon democrats should be able to do a little thinking for themselves. Don't they know that nine-tenths of the Smith propaganda comes from republican sources and that the strategy is to march the democratic army into a swamp where they will be helpless when the battle starts? If they are not aware of this fact they have much to learn about modern political methods and it is time to wake up."

WOMEN MAKE BEST SCORE.

INFORMATION on traffic accidents received by the Oregon State Motor association indicates that women drivers have fewer accidents than do men drivers.

From a study of the traffic accidents in the District of Columbia it was found that of all the persons licensed to operate automobiles 85 per cent were men and 15 per cent women. Of the 82 fatal accidents in the District of Columbia in 1927, 91.6 per cent involved men drivers and 24 per cent women drivers. The drivers of 6 per cent of the fatal accidents were unidentified. In California a study of 1,000 fatal motor vehicle accidents showed that men drivers were involved in 910 cases and women in 46. Forty-four of the cases studied were hit-and-run cases so that the driver was not identified.

The California traffic authorities estimate that 20 per cent of those holding drivers' licenses are women. On this basis, women numbering only one-fifth of the automobile drivers of the state were involved in less than 5 per cent of the fatal accidents.

Additional candidates in the field of Morrow county politics this week are Mrs. Lucy E. Rodgers for county school superintendent, and J. Perry Conder for joint representative of Morrow and Umatilla counties in the legislature. Mrs. Rodgers has been one of the grade teachers in Heppner school during the past two years, where she has given splendid service. Prior to coming to Heppner her teaching experience extended over a period of five years in the state of Washington. She is a graduate of Belknap Normal, holds a life certificate and does not lack in proper qualifications for the office she seeks. Mr. Conder is running on the slogan "A Morrow County Man in the Legislature," and it is not known at present whether he will have opposition, though there is talk of a man coming out over in Umatilla county, and as the heavy vote is over that way, and the people there have a habit of standing by their home man, it will take a lively campaign on the part of a man from this end of the district if he wins the nomination.

Farmer's Wife Makes Cake.

All Meat, Bad Diet.

Crime as a Business.

Wireless Flight, Perhaps.

This will interest farmers' wives. Mrs. James Hamilton, of Pawhuska, Okla., not satisfied with thirty cents a dozen for fresh eggs, developed this idea. She knew how to make good angel cake. Eleven eggs make a cake that sells for a dollar. Cost of other ingredients amount to little. Mrs. Hamilton put her eggs in angel cake and got nearly one dollar a dozen.

Many farm wives, however, far from any angel cake market, can sympathize with an Irish farmer asked by an efficiency man, "Do you know what the ducks swimming in that mudhole would be worth in London?" "I do," replied the farmer, "and have you any idea what the puddle of water would be worth in hell if I had it there?" The market is the problem.

Stefansson, Arctic explorer, tests in a hospital, under medical supervision, a diet consisting exclusively of fresh meat and water. Thousands within the Arctic Circle live on such a diet for months at a time, some of them eating as much as twenty pounds of fresh meat in a day.

But it is not a good diet. Men were put on the earth to cultivate it and should eat all of its products, the spices and the oranges of the South, and the red meat from the West. But if compelled to choose between all meat and all vegetables, choose the meat.

You probably will not live as long but you will think more. A vegetable diet is not good for thinking.

As regards crime, the city of Cleveland excels in police efficiency. The percentage is 83, against 63 in Baltimore, 36 in Kansas City, 16 in St. Louis. The National Crime Commission publishes Dr. Louis N. Robinson's statement that police inefficiency and leniency in courts have made crime almost the safest business in the United States. The percentage of failure is lower than in the retail grocery business, for instance.

In Chicago insurance companies notify the citizens that they will insure against bombing of buildings by various branches of crime, bootleggers, competing labor organizations, etc. If you can't discourage crime, the next best is to insure against it—although it doesn't help much if you happen to be at home for the bombing.

A new flying machine idea based on "free energy" or "magnetic power" interests Lindbergh and others. It burns no fuel, is expected to fly for 2,000 hours, and Lester J. Hendrich, the inventor, is full of hope. It is only hope as yet, although the working model performs well. Eventually, no doubt, as Tesla and others believe, flying machines will pick up "wireless power" from the earth, borrowing from Niagara, the Colorado River and other sources as they fly around the world. That they solve power problems, and 1,000 miles an hour speed will annihilate distance.

A French flier surpasses the American "loop record" by turning eleven hundred and eleven aerial somersaults with a monoplane in four hours and fifty-six minutes. That is exactly as unimportant as the number of back somersaults turned by a circus actor. It is thinking and inventing that count, not "stunts."

Moscow statistics for 1927 show four divorces for every five marriages. Divorces may equal marriages. Some young Russians, according to report, are divorced five and six times in one year.

Russian authorities say this is a proof of good morals, proving that young people insist on retaining the marriage status, even if they change every month, and that they will not sink to promiscuity. This must stimulate in our young "trial" and "companionate" marriage enthusiasts.
