Those who partook of the sumptuous feast which was prepared in honor of the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Isom, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Swift of Heppner, Elsie Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Swift and children, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howell of Lexington, Dollie Lucille and Rollins Farrens, Ted Burnside, Esther Adams, Will Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Chapel of Hardman.

Miss Hildegard Williams visited with friends in Prosser, Washington, on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Katherine Gentry visited in Heppner over the week-end.

Miss Opal McDaniel has returned home from Echo where she has been working.

Mary Saling went to Edgar Young's ranch in Eight Mile where she will work.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim McDaniel of Alpine were visiting relatives here on Sunday.

Dr. D. A. Thompson of Portland was a luncheon guest Thursday at the J. R. Johnson home.

The post office department has made a new ruling effective at once regarding the delivery on rural routes of parcel post packages too large to be put in the box. These packages can not be left at the box unless someone is at the box to receive it or else have at the post office a written order assuming all responsibility in case of loss.

For example if you have ordered a new Easter bonnet from Montgomery-Sears the rural carrier cannot leave it at your box unless you are there to receive it or leave a written order that it be delivered at the box. Frequent thefts of packages from rural boxes is apparently the reason for this order but at any rate keep it in mind and if you are expecting a package, don't condemn Victor if it doesn't come. He is not permitted to deliver it except under the above rulings.

County Agent Smith will hold a meeting here Friday night for the club
