CONTEST WINNERS MEET UMATILLA

Inter-County Declamatory Contest to Follow Local Fray.

On May 5th, the winners of the Morrow County Declamatory contest will meet the winners of the Umatilla County Declamatory contest for district honors at the public school auditorium in Heppner. This important step was taken this week by those behind declamatory work in the two counties, and comes as an adjunct to the county contest to be held Saturday, April 28, in the auditorium.

From all indications the third annual declamatory contest of Morrow county will be much larger and better than either of the two preceding. More and more schools throughout the county are taking an active interest and are entering contestants and with the enlarged facilities for holding it an ever larger and more enthusiastic audience is expected.

The Morrow County Declamatory league was organized three years ago and every school in the county is a member. Every school boy and girl in the county has a chance to enter the contest and win a prize. Competent judges from outside the county are selected and on the decision of these, gold and silver medals are awarded the winners. In order to defray the expenses of the judges and the purchase of medals an admission will be charged. On the two previous occasions the contest has hardly broken even, leaving a slight deficit to be made up. However, with the increased housing facilities and the larger interest being taken it is hoped that a better financial situation will result this year.

It is hoped that the inter-county contest may become an annual affair. Competent judges will be secured this year and prizes awarded the winners.

Tuberculosis Symptoms Discussed by Dr. Otis

(From State Board of Health.)

"There are various symptoms which the patient, as well as the physician, has learned to associate with possible pulmonary tuberculosis," declared Dr. Edward O. Otis, in discussing the Early Diagnosis Campaign which state and local tuberculosis associations conducted on a nation-wide basis during March. For 25 years Dr. Otis was professor of pulmonary diseases at Tufts Medical college, Boston, Massachusetts. He has been a specialist in tuberculosis in Boston since 1880, and is the author of several standard works on tuberculosis.

"Spitting of blood invariably sends the patient post-haste to the doctor, although it does not always denote pulmonary tuberculosis. A long drawn out cold or cough, loss of appetite and digestive disturbances are suggestive symptoms. Other symptoms are loss of weight and strength, or increasing fatigue. With women, cessation or intermission of the menstrual flow period is a suspicious symptom. No one of these symptoms may be caused by an active tuberculosis, but they are highly suggestive, and should lead a person straight to his doctor's office for a physical examination of the lungs.

"The past history of the patient is most important. What the doctor wants to know is the general health history of his life from the cradle to the present moment. Has he been a 'contact case'? What children's diseases has he had, particularly whooping cough, for this disease is prone to leave the lungs in a susceptible condition. Has he been exposed to mineral or metallic dust? Has he had sufficient rest and sleep and proper nourishment? In brief, the doctor wishes to find out any event or habit in his life that may have a bearing on his present condition. It is a strange fact that patients often lie to a doctor in the hope of obtaining a favorable diagnosis, so I personally feel that it is desirable for a physician to ask the necessary questions in obtaining the history himself so he may observe his patient, both as to his physical appearance, his mentality and his honesty.

"The temperature is also an important fact, but, to mean very much, must be taken three times a day for a week. The patient's observation is usually that his temperature rises during the afternoon if active tuberculosis is present. In the early diagnosis the doctor will probably not find tubercle bacilli in the sputum, but will perhaps advise that it should be examined several times. It might even be thought advisable to have x-ray plates taken. It is well always to remember that the most important evidence in making an early diagnosis of pulmonary tuberculosis are the symptoms carefully elicited and studied.

"Whatever the situation, the patient's duty is to go to his doctor at the first unusual symptom. In the case of pulmonary tuberculosis, hope of cure lies in early discovery, so let your doctor decide."

World War Veteran Answers Final Call

Elmer McDaniel, of Hardman, died at the home of Mrs. Albert Rea in this city, where he had been for a week or more under the care of a physician and treated for pneumonia, early Monday morning. Funeral services were held at Hardman on Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. F. R. Spaulding of this city delivering the sermon, and burial was in the Hardman cemetery under the auspices of Heppner Post American Legion, of which the deceased was a member.

The funeral services were very largely attended by the people of the Hardman community, and a large number went out from Heppner, among these being members of the Legion and Auxiliary. The ladies quartette of the Heppner Auxiliary sang, Mesdames Paul Gemmill, Chas. Smith, Jas. Burgess and Alva Jones, with Mrs. Walter Moore at the piano. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

Elmer McDaniel was born at Hardman, Oregon, on November 8, 1895, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam McDaniel, and grew up in that community. When the World War came on and Uncle Sam was calling for volunteers, he entered the service of his country and was in the marine corps with the American Expeditionary forces in France from Feb. 24, 1918 to Dec. 24, 1918. He was wounded in the service, and was also gassed, and this undoubtedly added to his physical ailments and hastened his death. In France he participated in the engagements of Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Wood, and his record as a soldier was remarkably good.

He was married on March 6, 1920, to Ethel Allen of Hardman, and is survived by the widow and three children, Vera, Rena and Cecil, besides his parents, brothers and sisters and many other relatives residing in this county.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION WARNS AGAINST SCHOOLS

Washington, D. C., March 31.—The United States Civil Service Commission has sent out a circular letter to advertising managers of newspapers and periodicals throughout the country citing figures which indicate the practical worthlessness of widely advertised correspondence courses in preparation for forest ranger examinations.

The commission says in the letter that it has made a survey of the examination papers of 1081 competitors in the forest ranger examination held last October, disclosing the following results:

Of 675 competitors who had no correspondence training, 189 passed the examination.

Of 337 competitors who had taken a correspondence course in preparation for the examination, exactly 18 passed.

Sixty-nine were noncommittal as to training in advance. All of these failed.

The commission quoted the following statement from a circular recently issued by the United States Forest Service regarding advertising of correspondence schools which give training for forest ranger examinations:

"Many of the statements in these advertisements are misleading and in some cases absolutely false. These advertisements frequently convey the impression that the forest ranger's job is largely a part-time job, or a convenient means for an outing in the woods, while, as a matter of fact, the position of forest ranger is a permanent one of considerable responsibility, requiring arduous work often under difficult conditions, and with definite requirements as to experience and ability. Forest Service officials doubt the value of correspondence schools under ordinary circumstances in furnishing proper preparation for forest ranger positions."

All Din created a lot of interest and excitement here the past week by his feat of driving a car blindfolded. On Thursday afternoon he had company in the car with him, and people reasoned that it was through mental telepathy that he was able to guide the machine through traffic and successfully make proper turns and stops, but on Saturday he tackled the job alone, and was just as successful, and perhaps more so, as there were many more cars in the city and driving was consequently much more difficult. Whether being able to see or not, as some claimed All Din was, his stunt is a good one, and created a lot of interest.

County Clerk Anderson has been busy this week sending out cards certifying the registration lists of the county. Every registered voter to date is getting one of these cards and it is a reminder that the person receiving it has his or her name on the lists in the precinct as shown by the record. On this card is the notation: "You need not register again for state or county elections unless you remove from the precinct named on the card, or have failed to vote during a two-year period." If being registered in the precinct does not meet with the approval of the voter, he should not fail to re-register, as electors can not be sworn in on election day. These little cards should prove beneficial to each elector, and they should follow the admonition, "keep this card."

Former Resident Here Dies at Weiser, Idaho

The following account of the death of Charles M. Jones, many years a resident of this city and engaged in the barber business here, is sent us by Maurice Ball, of Council, Idaho; this account of the death of Mr. Jones is from a Weiser paper.

Charles M. Jones, resident of Weiser for about twenty years, died here Saturday evening at the age of seventy years. He leaves a wife, an adopted daughter and other relatives here and at Nampa.

Mr. Jones was born at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, and when two years old moved to Pasadena, California, with his parents. During his residence here the deceased was employed as barber, having owned a shop of his own and working at others.

There were five children by a former marriage, all of whom are dead. A son, Roy, died in Panama about six weeks ago and Mr. Jones planned to meet the body on its arrival in San Francisco, March 24. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the Methodist church with Mrs. Robert Smylie officiating. Burial was at Hillcrest, beside a son who cut the cornerstone for the Weiser Methodist church of which the deceased was an early member.

A quartette, A. D. Stanton, Claude Allen, E. W. Horner and H. P. Cummock, sang two numbers at the service.

We judge the death of Mr. Jones must have been the 15th of March, but there was no date on the clipping to indicate just when his death did occur. Mr. Ball's letter enclosing clipping was dated April 7.

DUTCH OPERETTA COMING APRIL 25

Annual School Production Expected to Surpass Former Offerings.

Windmills, clog dances, Dutch dialect, bright colored tulips and winsome Holland maidens are all combined to make the annual operetta of Heppner high school an unusually colorful and musical affair. Where can one find tulips but in Holland? And acting upon this hunch Professor McSpindle and his group of botany students land in Holland in search of rare specimens, and they certainly find them! Many unusual complications face the group of American students, and American pluck finally triumphs over the plots of the villain, and everyone finds his—or her—tulips!

In point of rhyme, rhythm and plot as well as in the melody and swing of its music, the operetta is easily superior to the average high school production.

Because of conflicting dates the production has been put off until somewhat later than the annual operettas are usually given. April 25th has been set as the fate for the production.

All members of the cast bid fair to make names for themselves as future operetta stars. Clair Cox in the role of Burgomaster Von Ooster and Ellis Thomson as his clerk, Hans, supply a considerable amount of the fun, while Gerald Slocum and Bob Turner as American high school students, proceed to show the burgomaster and his clerk a few American tricks that they did not learn in high school.

The part of McSpindle, the near sighted botany prof, is well filled by John Conder, and playing opposite him, in the role of Aunt Anna, a staid and lovable Dutch lady, is Margaret Notson.

Of course, the story would be incomplete without a heroine, so Pat Monahan obligingly becomes the winsome Christina and captures one of the young Americans, while her friend Katinka, played by Anna McDavid, accounts for the other one.

Then in addition to these "Dutch villagers" appear in a number of songs that are both witty and pretty.

Mrs. Walter Moore is directing the music and Mrs. Harold Cohn has charge of the folk dances and steps which assure the fact that those features of the operetta will be successful. All told the production gives every promise of being successful and as the first operetta to be held in the new building, its appearance is being awaited with some interest by the community.

Was Pioneer Settler of Morrow County

In the passing recently, in Portland, of Mrs. Sofia Caroline Carlson, another of the pioneer settlers of Morrow county has been called to her reward. Mrs. Carlson, wife of Andrew Carlson, died on March 31st, at Deerr sanitarium, where she had been a patient for some time, suffering from a disease of long standing and of a cancerous nature. Her home was at 3609 70th street, S. E., where with her husband she had resided since 1915.

Mrs. Carlson is survived by her husband, Andrew Carlson, and the following children: Carl Emil Carlson, Victor Leonard Carlson, Mrs. Amanda Warfield and Bernard Carlson, all of Ione, Oregon; Mrs. Hilda S. White, Vancouver, Wash., and Mrs. Edith Olson of Parkrose, Oregon; one sister, Mrs. Lottie Anderson of Ione.

Mrs. Carlson came to Morrow county with her husband in 1880, from Kewanee, Ill. They settled on a homestead near Gooseberry where Mr. Carlson succeeded in developing one of the best farms in that part of the county. Mrs. Carlson was long known and respected in that community where her family grew up. Retiring from active work in 1913, Mr. Carlson and wife removed to Portland where they had since resided.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, April 3, at 2:30 p. m., from the Immanuel Lutheran church, corner of 19th and Irving streets, Portland, and interment was in Rose City cemetery.

ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH.

Rev. Thomas J. Brady, Pastor.

The Easter solemnities in Heppner and Ione were attended by large congregations and everything was impressively carried out. The altars in the church were scenes of loveliness being banked by swarms of beautiful white flowers, a donation from the Ladies' Altar Society. The choir in Heppner was under the direction of Mrs. Walter E. Moore and the singers acquitted themselves with credit in the rendition of a very lovely special mass. The pastor preached at both services in each place, and crowds approached the sacraments.

Next Sunday, April 15th, there will be mass in Heppner at 11 o'clock after the pastor has returned from Boardman where he will celebrate a first mass at 7:45 in the morning and preach, and distribute Holy Communion. The mass in Boardman will be celebrated in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Farley and at such an early hour so as to permit the pastor to return to Heppner for the second service at 11 o'clock, after which Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be given.

Next Saturday afternoon the pastor will conduct a class of Christian Doctrine in Ione at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edw. A. Lindeken, the class beginning at 2:30 and lasting until 3:30. All children who have not been confirmed must attend this class. Immediately after this instruction the pastor will go to Boardman for a second class at 4:30.

A special Children's Day Mass will be celebrated in the church at Heppner on April 29 at 9 in the morning. Children are especially invited to this mass. Details will be given later. Little James Johnson of Heppner made his first Holy Communion in the church last Sunday at the 8:30 mass.

CANTATA WELL RECEIVED.

A very large audience was attracted to the Christian church on Sunday evening by the presentation of the Easter cantata, "Resurrection Morn," the offering of the combined choirs of the Methodist, Christian and Episcopal churches, under the direction of Mrs. Milton W. Bowto, with Mrs. Roy Missidine at the piano. The singers were all in good form, and their work in ensemble, trios, duets, quartets and solos was well received by all present. The theme of the cantata was in harmony with the Easter season, and was a faithful presentation of the events leading up to Easter morn and the great climax of that event in the Christian religion. The presentation of the Easter cantata emphasized again the pleasure to be derived from bringing the singers of the community together, and other historical days should be remembered in a like manner.

LOCAL GIRL IN CONTEST.

Miss Grace Buschke, popular telephone operator of Heppner, has entered the contest sponsored by the Pacific Legion as a representative of the local Legion Auxiliary unit. In Heppner the places of business authorized to issue votes are Peoples Hardware Co., Hiatt & Dix, Mrs. M. L. Curran, Cohn Auto Co., A. R. Reid and Central Market.

HEPPNER TROUNCED BY PENDELTONIANS

Reorganization Being Effected for Leage Opener at Ione Next Sunday.

Heppner's unseasoned ball tossers stubbed their toe Sunday when they met the Pendleton Buckaroo team on Rodeo field. The Pendleton gang showed mid-season form and enjoyed the game as a little batting practice. We could not say for sure, as they came in so fast, but it seems there were something like 16 of the visitors crossed the home platter while but one lone Heppner lad was able to do the trick.

Three pitchers, Myers, Warmuth and Bettles, performed for the visitors, all showing their arms to be working nicely, while Drake, working out for the first time this season, did not want to sacrifice his arm, hence lobbed them across for the Bucks to swing on. This they did nicely and on one occasion presented their entire line-up at the plate to view the deliveries.

It was merely a case of an unorganized team versus one well organized. Several Heppner players were recognized playing out of their positions, which together with no practice made it look pretty bad. They are snapping out of it this week in practice and a different looking crew will journey to Ione next Sunday to open the Wheatland league season. Drake is getting his arm in shape and will be received by his old running-mate, Clair LaFleur. This alone will improve the situation at least 100 per cent, and with a reorganized infield there will be a world of difference.

Fred Hoskins, who performed in the capacity last season, will most likely be found again on first base. Van Marter should retain his place at second, and Cason on third. Then there are four good bats in view for the short position, Matthews, Hiler, Thorne and Erwin. The outfield performed nicely in the Pendleton game and the same faces will more than likely be seen in the outer lot, with the possible exception of Thorne, who, should he be used in the infield, will be replaced by either Hiler, Matthews or Erwin. Anderson and Aiken are quite certain of their berth.

Heppner will need to be reorganized in good shape if they succeed in taking the opener from Ione, for that little city has had her crew working hard for the past two weeks and they are rounding into good form. We haven't all the dope, but Pitcher Ford, late of the Longview Rangers, will be on the mound for them, while the majority of positions will be filled by old faces. A red-hot game is in store for fans who attend.

Condon plays at Arlington, and Wasco at Umatilla, Sunday.

Certified Seed Potatoes Arrive Here From Weston

C. W. Smith, county agent, went to Weston on Wednesday where he received a consignment of 75 sacks of certified seed potatoes. These are the Nettle Gem variety and the shipment arrived at the office of Mr. Smith here today by truck.

The potatoes will be distributed to those who have already left their orders for them with the County Agent, and for the time being there will be none to spare out of this shipment to others who might wish them. Another shipment will be delivered a little later to the Irigton potato growers, who were not ready to receive their consignment at this time.

IS IT INSPIRED?

The authority of the Bible must rest very largely on the answer to this question. If the Bible is not an inspired book then it has not authority, and if it has no authority it is merely advisory, and if it is merely advisory we can take it or leave it and that will be that. What do you think? "The Inspiration of the Bible" will be the Sunday evening topic at the Church of Christ.

The question concerning predestination will be answered also at the evening time and we will have a dandy song service.
