WE HOPE HE MAY WIN.

BY THE appointment of Congressman N. J. Sinnott to a federal judgeship, there is now a vacanacy in the office of representative from the second congressional district, and it will be necessary for a candidate to be nominated for the place at the coming primaries. The time having passed for the proper filing of candidates, it will be necessary to write in the names of the aspirants, at least this appears to be the only way to get the names on the ballot at this late date, and the time will be short for making the campaign.

In the person of Samuel E. Notson, Morrow county has a candidate for this office. Mr. Notson, having entered the race, will be quite active in promoting his interests from this time on, and it is the sincere hope of this paper that he may win. We are not giving him any other than first place among all those so far mentioned in the race; we feel that he is good timber for a congressman from the second district, and would be a credit to the state at large, a fit successor to Nick Sinnott, who has so ably represented the district and state for the past fifteen years.

Mr. Notson is not unknown to the people of this district, as he has been quite active in party affairs for many years, has made many stump speeches over this part of Oregon, and has a host of friends who will be glad to write in his name and boost him along to final success.

A CONTRAST IN THE NEWS.

Oregonian.

Portland's strongest sermon against drinking was preached yesterday. It came not from the pulpit, but from the city's jail and hospitals, where maimed, wounded and imprisoned revelers told their stories of alcoholic indulgence that ended in tragedy. While members of the "I'll-never-touch-another-drop" club held their regular weke-end meeting at the city jail, hospital attaches were busy with scalpels and needles trying to repair damage done to at least six victims of indulgence in liquor.—Police reporter's account in The Oregonian.

The same Oregonian in which the foregoing appeared as the preface to a story in detail, presented a Washington dispatch which set forth the renewed activities and ambitions of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. There was the usual parade of notable names, the cognomens of more or less illustrious capitalists, of labor leaders, of profound—more or less profound—scholars and savants. These gentlemen, so the dispatch informed us, are new converts to the wet cause, and are resolved to fight to the last ditch for the repeal of the prohibition amendment. We do not question their motives. We assume they are more or less honorable men, more or less unselfishly advocating that which they conceive to be the public welfare.

But the two stories afford a striking study in contrast. The one presents its sordid tale of the evil that comes through liquor, even while prohibition is in effect. The other paints, inferentially, a glowing picture of improved conditions should liquor be made lawful again. And we would ask this—for it is pertinent—of the gentlemen who are such eminent advocates of the figment "personal liberty": Would the repeal of prohibition remove from liquor the murder and lust which now reside therein, and which always have been found therein? Would the repeal of prohibition result in a decreased consumption of the stuff that men, in the wisdom of their hearts, know is hurtful alike to body and spirit? Would the repeal of prohibition place more automobiles, the property of working men, on the highways? If they answer honestly, they must answer "no" to each.

It is true that illicit liquor is consumed. But it is no ttrue that a majority of people, or even a large proportion of the population, seek out this ilicit liquor, or partake of it. The saloon is gone from the corner. To install it again, or create a comparable substitute, would be to work great injury upon earning power, saving power and moral welfare.

MIRACLES UPON MIRACLES.

THE whole world is excited now about the three brave fliers who crossed from Europe, making the first successful east-to-west transatlantic flight. After the sacrifice of several lives, man has made another conquest of the skies.

We are throwing our hats into the air and cheering the pluck of the three flyers, who certainly more than deserve the plaudits that are coming their way.

This event makes us pause to reflect on the miracles that have come to pass practically within our own lives. We think of the advent of the phonograph, the motion picture, the telephone, the telegraph—and remember the famous first words transmitted by that instrument:

"What Hath God Wrought."

Then we recall more recent inventions and discoveries that almost make these miracles seem commonplace.

And so it happened that when three brave flyers landed on Greenly Island in the icy Far North, news of the landing reached the civilized world at once through the use of that marvelous boon to humanity, the radio.

Modern miracles of science have demolished distance. Man has conquered the air and the sea. Just think of what man has done and what man still may do!

But it would be vanity indeed to give ourselves all the credit for these miraculous accomplishments.

We can only repeat the significant words of Morse:

"What Hath God Wrought."

LIVING AND DEAD.

Portland Telegram.

ROY, RAY AND HUGH D'AUTREMONT murdered four men.

Willos and Kelley died because they were in a prison break in which there was loss of life.

Today as a little bunch of flowers are but a stem over the graves of the prison break participants, the three brothers rest in prison cells which will be their homes until their fiendish crime has cooled sufficiently to permit some sob sisters to initiate a move for their release. Manipulators of the law perhaps could explain.

AMERICAN FOREST WEEK.

THIS week, from April 22 to April 28, has been set aside this year as American Forest Week.

The purpose of American Forest Week is to stir up the people to the appalling economic waste entailed by our failure to utilize and protect forest land that is not taken over by fields and pastures.

Farmers as well as commercial timberland owners must be alive to the great forestry problems of the nation.

The depredation of our forests presents a tremendous problem.

It deserves the attention of every wide-awake American.

This year fires in National Forests of the East and South have up to the present time shown an increase of 50 per cent over the number during the same period of 1927.

Fire prevention and the suppression of incendiarism are crying needs. Carelessness is responsible for a great many forest fires. They are unwarranted and wasteful.

Such observances as American Forest Week, it is hoped, will have a salutary effect in making the citizenry aware of the grave danger forests are in, under present conditions. The welfare of our National Forests has a driect bearing upon the welfare of the Nation itself.

The forestry problem is a problem for the Nation as a whole, and it is hoped every American citizen will find some way of doing his "bit" for the forests during American Forest Week—and during other weeks as well!

A REAL MAN NEEDED.

Pendleton East Oregonian.

THE status of the Umatilla rapids project is such that it would be a tragedy not to have this district well represented in Congress. Due in considerable part to Nick Sinnott's efforts the project has been surveyed both from an engineering standpoint and from an economic viewpoint. These reports being favorable a measure for constructing the project is now before congress and the bill has been favorably reported by the senate and house committees. That is real progress but the big test is yet to come.

We need a congressman of character, vision and energy. The district has important relations with the federal government involving several different departments and naturally the character of our representative and his readiness to be of service has a big effect upon the results secured. Many of the duties of a congressman are of purely local benefit in different sections but work for the use of the Columbia for its three fold purposes is a cause in which the whole state is interested, likewise the state of Washington.

Anyone running for congress from eastern Oregon who fails to enthuse over this project will show lack of interest in the biggest thing we have awaiting action.

Vivid Youth, Dull Age. Making Mississippi Safe. Depew Wise Man. Could Coolidge Say No?

In youth impressions are vivid, and last into old age. Therefore, the manuscript of "Alice in Wonderland" sells for $75,259, a record price, more than would have been paid for the manuscript of Dante's "Inferno," or of Voltaire's "Zadig," each word worth a thousand "Alice in Wonderland" manuscripts.

Years dull imagination. Millions that remember "Robinson Crusoe," "Swiss Family Robinson," "Gulliver's Travels" vividly have a faint impression of more important books read later.

Washington reporters say, probably inaccurately, that President Coolidge is shocked at the suggestion of $750,000,000 to make the Mississippi River safe.

A country that could give TEN THOUSAND MILLIONS TO EUROPE, add half a billion a year to railroad receipts, and plan, wisely, to cut $200,000,000 a year from corporation taxes, need not shudder at the thought of spending part of a billion to make the Mississippi safe.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW, dead in his ninety-fourth year, older than the Republican party, which he served long and faithfully, said: "I have lived long because I could laugh at anything."

Of Napoleon, it was said that in his youth "no one ever saw him laugh." He didn't live ninety-three years, but he did live more in one day than amiable Mr. Depew in all his ninety-four years.

Chauncey Depew attended 8,000 banquets and never let boredom drive him into eating too much. That's wisdom.

He campaigned for Lincoln, got $1.75 for his first legal services, lived under twenty-four Presidents, from Andrew Jackson to Calvin Coolidge, and knew thirteen of them personally. How many can name the twenty-four from Jackson on?

Mr. Darrow of the House Naval Affairs Committee, told President Coolidge his friends "still hoped he would be a candidate." The President replied: "I am afraid they will have to be disappointed."

Die-hard Coolidge enthusiasts will find SOME comfort in that word "afraid." A man cannot help being persuaded if arguments are good.

Suppose the President were convinced, as he may be, that his renomination and re-election, a second time, would boom business, increase employment, stabilize prosperity, and free his party from oil stain danger, could he continue to say no?

Aviation is a reality, says General Atterbury, and railroads should know it. He is said to plan for the Pennsylvania a part railroad, part flying machine service from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The traveler would spend daylight in the flying machine, night hours on the train, cross the continent in forty-eight hours, avoiding mountain flying. This rumor is not guaranteed.

New York merchants report business excellent in women's apparel. They buy more of it and less of it, more garments, less material in them. Paper underwear for ladies makes its appearance in several stores.

Silk of wood, underwear of paper—not pleasant news for cotton growers.

Old British builders of wooden ships who said ships made of steel would sink in heavy storms would be interested in the Leviathan's latest trip.

She reached New York with her forecastle deck smashed, deck structures badly twisted by a wave said to be 150 feet high, that dropped 1,000,000 pounds of water on her deck at once.

Men, build ships that the ocean cannot sink. Water waves are heavier than air waves. Airships will soon be built that no air wave will worry.

Dr. Frank Crane Says:

THE JOYS OF ACCURACY

A common fault and a common element of weakness is the habit of exaggeration. You have often heard a young flapper say that upon such and such an occasion she nearly died or that there were millions of people at the ball game, or some other manifest exaggeration.

This is a habit that is easily slipped into, but it is an element of weakness.

The trouble is that people get to discounting your statements and are apt to believe nothing that you say. They think that you are always exaggerating everything.

The Christian Science Monitor points out that one of the values of studying arithmetic is to become accustomed to the joys of accuracy.

If one will acquire the habit of stating as nearly as may be possible exactly what is the fact, if his reputation for stating the facts cleanly is once established, it will be a great element of strength.

Profanity and over-exaggeration and extreme utterances always show that our passions outrun our information.

Always state, the best you can, just exactly what occurred. Accustom yourself to accuracy and modest claims. Then you will be credited with the habit of truth-telling and people will believe what you say.

There may be joy, a certain kind of joy, in exaggeration. It may appeal to the imagination to overstate things.

But there is as much pleasure, after we get used to it, in being accurate and in telling only what is true.
