MEMORIAL DAY.

THE end of May is fast approach ing, and with the end of this month comes that important day known as Memorial Day, in honor of our soldiers who have passed on. We should approach this day with reverence and gratitude.

pelled, scattered to the winds; the recent reception in the United States to German flyers prove this beyond the possibility of a doubt. But in our cemeteries lie those he-roes who have given their lives that America might live, and to these we owe our sincere sympathy and everence. Let us do them honor. And let us not limit our decorations to the graves of active parti-cipants in wars. On Decoration Day we must remember all of those we have loved who are gone, and all of our national heroes and lead-ers. For each person in his or her ers. For each person in his or her own way is a soldier, battling against heavy odds, overcoming handicaps, making sacrifices for others, and helping in the growth and progress of the Nation. Let us on Memoriai Day honor all those who have gone before and smoothed the way for those now living.

Make Decoration Day the occa sion for a visit to the graves, not only of soldiers, but also of all whom you have loved or admired and who have departed this life. Be freshly inspired by the noble example of their lives. It will do your soul good.

THE IMPORTANCE OF MUSIC. Northing rivals music in importance as a cultural factor. The Playground and Recreation Association of America, recognizing this, are doing some splendid work in extending music in rural America. The association plans to promote music education and community music activities in small towns, with the cooperation of school au-thorities. It plans to put music teachers into the rural schools.

One half of the population of the United States lives in towns of less than 2,500. Many of these towns are in a state of musicl isolation.

The endeavor to bring music into the lives of these small towns is a worthy one.
The National Music Week committee is also doing wonderful work in the direction of bringing music to the ears of all who care to hear. Of course the great agency that brings music within everyone's

The radio brings music into the omes, but musical education is also necessary, and the effort to place music teachers in every school in the country should be rewarded with success. In a survey several towns were found in which there were not more than a half dozen persons who could read the notes of the scale. This is a condition that must be remedied.

Musical talent in the young must not be allowed to die because of the lack of facilities for training.

Music is a real, vital thing that belongs in the life of every com-munity. It is an essential, not a

POWER OF THE RURAL PRESS. (Portland Oregonian)

T IS not disparagement of the ex cellent personal attributes of the republican nominee for Secretary of State, Mr. Hal E. Hoss, to say that at the outset of the campaign he was perhaps the least experienced, in political matters, if not the least well known of three candidates. Mr. Corey and Mr. Handley had formed contacts such as gave assurance of familiarity with public affairs. The former as public service commissioner, the latter as state senator and in other capacities, had had opportunity to develop the technique of the art of seeking prefer-ment. Beyond a period in the ap-pointive position of secretary to the governor, Mr. Hoss on the other hand had confined his activities to warns his personal and newspaper con-

There was nevertheless that about Mr. Hoss which claimed the confidence and the admiration of his fellows in journalism. They honored him in their own counsels and, when he announced his candidacy for state office, they clustered about his standard. The rural press of Oregon, more than a hundred newspapers strong, was nearly without exception for Hoss, with whom its publishers had become acquainted at editorial conventions and publishers had become acquainted at editorial conventions and through his labors in the interests of the craft. Largely, it is apparent, these served as offsets to the strong personal following which Mr. Corey commanded, particularly in eastern Oregon, and which Mr. Handley had in Portland and elsewhere. The value of the right kind of publicity, assuming a meritorious subject, has not recently had a better demonstration than in this episode.

The country press of the state has measurably indicated that it can be a power. It has vindicated, too, we think, the principle that power counts for most when it is employed with prudence and dis-cretion. There was very much that as admirable about the campaign as a whole for the secretaryship It was free from defamation, con-didates and their supporters alike conducted an amicable canvass there was no mudslinging then and there will be no recriminations now. It is a pleasing augury of a high type of journalistic responsi-

THE GOOD FIGHT.

WE HAVE fought the good fight" W—and lost. So, is expressed the feeling of the many friends and supporters of S. E. Notson whose congressional aspirations, for the moment at least, have been tossed aside by will of the electorate. They have nothing to be ashamed of in their efforts to promote Mr. Notson's candidacy, and his record re-mains one of unblemished citizenship. The overwhelming majority by which Mr. Notson carried his home county is a high tribute to the esteem in which he is held by those who know him best. That he is a who know him best. That he is a sportsman of the first water is shown by the way he has taken defeat. His ideals of government have prompted him to accept the voters' decision as true expression of their wish, and he was among the first to The rifts between nations are no more. AN APPRECIATION.

Editor Gazette Times: Through the columns of your paper, I desire to express my sincere thanks for the support given me by the voters in the primary election, last Friday. I have no criticism of those who after considering the best interests of the country and the best interests of the party found it necessary in following their best judgment to vote for some other candidate. THE NAPOLEONIC COMPLEX

WE OFTEN hear of Napoleons of business, Napoleons of finance or Napoleons of this, that or the other.

We generally mean a man who has determined to accomplish his purpose and crushes everybody and everything ruthlessly to Napoleon was a tyrant that stopped at nothing to gain his own ambitions. He was ruthless and he never looked at the interests of anybody else but at his own advantage.

He was diametrically opposed to Jesus of Nazareth. The latter went about doing good. His object was the betterment of his fellows and he had no selfish ambitions of his own.

The purpose of Napoleon was to make Napoleon great and, if any man stood in his way, woe to that man! The jails and penitentiaries of the world are full of Napoleons

Almost every criminal is a monster of selfishness. If he had thought of the welfare of others he would not be a malefactor. All crime, in its last analysis, is but super egotism. No man that takes Napoleon for his model is going to be of help to his fellow men or is going to be praised by them. It is not the domination of some great man or leader that the world needs. It is for men to be of great service. Napoleon lusted to be the master of all. The Nazarene called himself the servant of all.

If you care to get the facts of some matters taken up in Judge Benge's office on the morning of May 2nd, 1928, and answers that were given itsend a road/meeting held in the Elkhorn restaurant at Heppner. Judge Duby and Engliner Baldock were present and the main object of the meeting was the completion of the Spray road. Fin nees seemed to be the only thing lacking. Heppner business men were very insistent on those roads being opened up that tourists could see Morrow county.

Whether they would be so insistent at this date is questioned now as the main body of travelers over the road seems to be those who draw checks on Heppner banks, checks payable to Pendleton dealers. The finance proposition was argued to quite an extent and when it came my turn to express myself I made the statement that the only way to carry a road bond issue in Morrow county, would be to assure the farmers that they would be considered in the road program. Mr. Notson took my side of the matter and commented quite for cibly upon it and the outcome was a county road map formulated and an election held and the bond issue was a county road map formulated and an election held and the bond issue was a county road map formulated and an election held and the bond issue was a election held and the bond issue was carried.

The Heppner-Vinson section is finished, the Spray section given a lot of work, the Ione-Gooseberry road extended. Lexington has a six-mile section north Clarks Canyon a few miles, and now Lexington-Jarmon road is under way. The farmers voted those bonds because they wanted roads but did not do so with the expectation that they were to wait until Morrow county could do the work with one crusher working just a part of the year and taking four months to set up for another job.

When will the citizens of Morgan.

taking four months to set up for another job.

When will the citizens of Morgan, McNabb, Lower Rhea creek, Ione-Boardman, Upper Rhea creek, Upper Willow creek and other sections have a chance to haul their produce over improved roads?

There is a way of getting at the cost of road building in Morrow county. Why not get some competent man to go into the cost of constructing roads in the county from the first project on down to last November and include all expenditures including salaries, materials, machinery, etc., and report the cost of crushing rock and grading, surfacing, etc. Then if we are getting the work done cheaper and better than other countels we can finish up the job and go out contracting, but if we are paying more we should junk our outfit and finish up by contracts. Let the tuxpayers get informed on facts.
