

Local Happenings

Jasper V. Crawford of the Heppner Gazette Times was in Florence last Saturday, spending most of the day here. He wanted to get first hand information about conditions along the coast and began his trek at Astoria and until arriving at Florence had hardly lost sight of the sea. He is delighted with the scenery, particularly that part of it from Waldport south, and he has no kick about the roads even where the highway is not built, contending that they are good enough for tourists who enjoy the scenery as nature made it. The conditions around Florence are subject to wonderful development for the attraction of the tourist as well as for the actual resident, he stated.—The Siuslaw Oar.

Mr. and Mrs. Vawter Crawford, accompanied by their niece, Miss Jean Crawford, who has been visiting Heppner relatives for the last two weeks, departed Saturday for Joseph, Miss Jean returning to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Crawford, while the elder Crawfords expected to spend a few days visiting at the homes of O. G. and Mrs. Everett Hayes, a daughter. O. G. Crawford recently disposed of his newspaper interests in Joseph and has under contemplation a move to a new location.

Jared Aiken, in charge of the state branch of a large fire insurance company, arrived in Heppner Friday for a visit of a few days with old time friends while transacting business for his company. Driving over from Bend he was accompanied by Jasper Crawford. The boys report a fine trip as far as the branch with roads fine, but the enforced detour from Ceell to Ione over the heavy dirt roads made anything but an ideal ending.

J. O. Turner, in charge of the Ferguson and Bergstrom combine, moved the machine Monday from the Ferguson farm up Single canyon to the Bergstrom farm in Eight Mile, a distance of some 30 miles. After cutting some 100 acres of grain, averaging 30 bushels, the machine was forced to quit because of the large amount of green Jim Hill mustard. The field will be finished as soon as the mustard dies.

Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Johnston will leave early Friday for La Grande where the doctor goes to attend the meeting of the Eastern Oregon District Medical association, convening there on Saturday. On the program this year will appear the names of many prominent physicians of the Pacific Northwest, and a very interesting meeting is expected. Dr. Johnson is president of the district association this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Gemmill and children, accompanied by Mr. Gemmill's mother, expect to leave Sunday for Seaside for an outing. From Seaside Mr. and Mrs. Gemmill will go on to Medford in time to attend the state American Legion convention, which convenes there August 2nd.

Sheriff McDuffee was called to Portland on business Monday. Going down he was accompanied by Mrs. Lillian Cochran, returning to the city after a visit of a month here, and Miss Elma White, also returning to her home in the city after a visit of two weeks at the S. E. Notson home.

Mrs. C. C. Patterson and daughter, Miss Mary Patterson, returned home the first of the week. They have been away for two weeks, during which time Mrs. Patterson visited with friends in Portland and Miss Mary visited at Onalaska, Wn., Portland and Eugene.

District Attorney Notson is preparing the complaint for foreclosing the 1920 delinquent tax roll, which he says is some job. It may be some weeks before it is ready for publication.

Miss Ethel Moore departed Tuesday morning for Monmouth where she will attend the summer session at the state normal school.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Phelps returned Tuesday morning from a stay of a few days in Portland. In spite of the heat, which Mr. Phelps says was even more noticeable there than in Heppner, they enjoyed their visit. Just as they were leaving the big fire of Tuesday morning occurred and from the alarms being turned in from every direction they judged nearly the entire Portland fire department was being called out. They could not tell the extent of the fire, but from the great volume of black smoke arising they knew it must be a large one.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Challis departed from Heppner on the 17th for Pendleton, expecting to go on later to California. Mr. Challis, who has been connected in the Heppner meat market with C. Burkenbine, was forced to withdraw from the business because of ill health following an appendicitis operation which he underwent some time past, leaving Mr. Burkenbine now in sole charge of the business.

Roy Fugate, with the predatory animal division of the U. S. Biological Survey, in connection with the county agent's office, is putting on a rabbit poisoning campaign in north Morrow county which, it is believed, will rid the section of a great number of the pest.

Escorting four carloads of stock to the North Portland yards, J. W. Beymer of Heppner is in the city. Mr. Beymer is in the banking business as well as the livestock business, as are many other bankers in the up-state sections of Oregon.—Tuesday's Oregonian.

R. J. Carsner, state legislator and prominent stockman of Spray, was in Heppner the first of the week on business. He reports the water supply holding out well in the mountains this summer, and the range good though it is beginning to dry up.

Elmer F. Peterson, former Morrow county boy, now with a large insurance company for which he sells group insurance over a large territory out of Portland, passed through Heppner Monday.

Krebs and Hynds on their farms near Ceell have started harvesting their second crop of alfalfa hay. The crop is exceptionally good, according to reports. Six mowers are working there at present.

Ruth Enberg of Portland has been visiting for the last two weeks with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. O. Bergstrom of Eight Mile and her cousin, Mrs. Carl Allyn of Lexington.

C. J. D. Baman, commander of the local American Legion post, plans to attend the state American Legion convention at Medford, August 2, 3 and 4.

A Bigger Job Than the Panama Canal

The Panama Canal has long been regarded as the world's greatest engineering feat.

But in the past ten years a job has been started in this country calling for the application of even greater technical and construction skill.

This is the electrification of America.

Expressed in terms of accomplishment to date, this has meant tripling the output of electrical energy in this country—an increase of 59 1/2 million kilowatt hours.

It has necessitated the raising and expending of billions of new capital, and recruiting, training and directing 235,000 men and women in the complicated business of furnishing electrical service.

Measured in terms of service, it has meant bringing the benefits of electricity to 14,445,000 more customers than were served in 1918. Complete electrification of America, through the individual enterprise of electric light and power companies, is the goal of this industry.

As a result of the electrical expansion of the past seven years:

- Eighteen and a half million of our 26 million homes are now electrified;
- Six million homes are provided with amusement and education by radio;
- Eighteen million telephones handle 75 million messages a day; and
- Urban and interurban electric lines carry fifteen and a half billion passengers each year.

FIRE! Contagious!

Nothing is more "catching" than fire. No one knows when and where it will break out. Nor how long a share it may run.

Communicated fires are responsible for a large share of the enormous total annual fire-loss. And the innocent suffer along with the careless.

Your final protection against monetary damage by such fires is adequate insurance in a good, sound company. We can furnish it.
