

BOARDMAN

On Friday, August 24, little Miss Echo Coats was six years of age so her mother arranged a very pleasant party for her on that afternoon. The little guests enjoyed a number of games and best of all the birthday cake, ice cream, melon and other goodies. Each small guest was given an all day sucker dressed in a cunning "hankie" as a favor. The hostess received a number of dainty gifts. Guests present were Ruth and Stanley King, Janet and Mardell Gorham, Helen and Catherine Mead, A. T. and Orthon Hereim, Mary Smith and Grace Gillespie. Assisting Mrs. Coats was Mrs. Z. J. Gillespie and Mrs. Guy Barlow.

Earl Cramer and son Basil and A. T. Hereim, Sr., came home Saturday night for a visit with home folks. They have been picking pears near Zillah, Wn., and returned Sunday afternoon to resume work in the fruit. Basil remained here with his grandparents and will enter school next week.

Willard Baker left Saturday for his home in Longview, Wn., after spending the summer with his aunt, Mrs. Howard Bates. He was anxious to get home to see a new baby brother who had arrived during his absence.

Hector Wicklander and Buster Rands came home Sunday from a jaunt to Klamath Falls.

Robert Partlow was up Sunday from Quinton where he has been employed for a few days.

"Tempus fugit" and it surely "fugit" with startling rapidity, and just another short week and time for preparations for the North Morrow County fair is at hand. This will be held Sept. 14 and 15 at Irrigon. Get your exhibits lined up and in readiness. There isn't any quicker way of making a little pin money although that is not the prime purpose of the fair; still it is a simple, easy and pleasant way together in a few shekels. Exhibit your flowers, your canned fruit, meats, your best vegetables, your live stock, your fancy work, so that Boardman may win her share of the premiums and at the same time show the world what we can do here in the way of farm crops, vegetables, home economics, etc. The president, Mrs. W. C. Ison and secretary, Mrs. O. Coryell, have both worked hard and the Irrigon folks are all busy with plans for entertaining the crowds on both fair days.

Mrs. Hines and two sons of Port Angeles, Wn., visited friends on the project last week.

A. T. Hereim, Jr., celebrated his 8th birthday on Tuesday, August 21, when he had a number of his friends at his home for the afternoon. After a number of games the youngsters enjoyed a lunch. All day suckers dressed as quaint ladies and caps made of yellow and white crepe paper were given the children. Guests were Janet and Mardell Gorham, Catherine and Helen Mead, Gordon, Carol, Freddy and Helen Gross, Norine Olson, Echo Coats, Matthew Harju and A. T. and Orthon Hereim.

Boys' Clothes

The old swimmin' hole and fishin' pole, rough clothes and dirty nose, are only memories with the boy these days. It's back to school and study. Life is just one white collar after another for him. Despite it all, however, you can give him a good deal of consolation by buying him that much needed Fall Suit here. He'll feel proud of it and forget his woes.

Regardless of what his age may be, every robust, red-blooded American youngster takes as much pride in his personal appearance as does the business man. To appear in the classroom clad in one of the nifty Suits we are now offering, is enough to make any lad draw the envy of his classmates.

Last year's suit, very likely threadbare and misshapen after the constant wear of a peppy youngster, has done its service. Bring your boy to us now and let us outfit him from head to toe.
