

Local Happenings

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Hale of Tacoma, stopped over in Heppner for a short time Tuesday on their way to Walla Walla for a visit with Mr. Hale's mother and other relatives residing there. Edward will be remembered as the son of the late Ed Hale, and was formerly a Heppner boy. He is engaged in the work of door making at Tacoma, and he and his wife and their little daughter are having their summer vacation at this time. Mr. Hale expected to return to Heppner this week end to do some work on his father's grave in Masonic cemetery. He left Heppner in 1915 and this is his first visit here since. Mr. Hale is deaf and dumb, as is also his wife, but they seem to get along just as well as folks who have the full use of their five senses, and they greatly enjoy making motor trips over the country. His home has been at Tacoma for the past ten years.

Elbert Cox and family returned here on Sunday. They have been absent from Heppner since last summer, leaving here for the old home in Virginia, where they had expected to live. The urge to return to Oregon was too great, however, so they began working back this way a few months ago, stopping enroute in Ohio for some time and then resuming their journey west. They were traveling by automobile and report having had a very pleasant journey and are glad to get back to Heppner again.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Doolittle and their children, Paul and Margaret, returned home Tuesday afternoon after an absence of six weeks. During this time they visited for ten days at Hood River, spent some time at the coast, and for the past three weeks were at Centralia, Wn. A trip was also taken to Rainier National Park, and some other points of interest, and on the way home several days were spent in Portland. Withal, the outing proved very enjoyable, but all were glad to reach their Heppner home again.

B. G. Sigsbee was called to Portland Sunday night on receipt of word announcing the death of his cousin, Emery Leazer, who had passed away earlier in the day. Mr. Leazer was formerly a resident of this place, where his family resided for many years. His death followed an operation for the amputation of one of his legs which had been afflicted for a number of years. His funeral was held in Portland Monday.

Miss Winnifred Austin, daughter of Chas. Austin and sister of Mrs. Lewis Cason is spending a part of her summer vacation at the Austin home near Reid's mill in the mountains. She is a teacher in the schools at Seattle, and Mrs. Cason has a position with the state normal school at Ashland. The ladies will depart soon to take up their school work.

Mrs. Mattie Adkins returned during the week from a visit with her son, Cleve Adkins and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elder at Wapato, Wash. Another son, Cyril Adkins, and wife of Emmett Idaho, were also at Wapato at the time and Mrs. Adkins greatly enjoyed this reunion with members of her family.

Frank Turner announces the sale recently of the Boyer place on Hinton creek by the owner, L. D. May, to Garnet Barratt. Mr. Barratt contemplates making his home on this place with his family, and from there will be able to operate the big ranch of W. B. Barratt & Son.

J. A. Adams was down from Hardman on Tuesday. The people up that way are enjoying mighty pleasant weather these days and will soon be in position to welcome the fall rains, as harvest is well along and will soon be completed.

Mrs. Lena Coleman and daughters Mary and Francis White returned home on Sunday from a visit of two weeks at Caldwell, Idaho, with the family of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Boyd.

Grain still rolls in at a lively rate in the Ione section and quite a number of farmers in that vicinity are yet busy with the combines. It would remind one of former years, when the country tributary to Ione enjoyed bumper crops that the warehouses and elevators were not able to hold, and the ground all round about was covered with immense piles of sacked wheat. This is about the case this year and some relief will have to come pretty soon if there is not as much grain on the outside as there is within the storehouses. The grain market at Ione is like it is at Heppner—very inactive at the present because of the prevailing low price of wheat.

Frank Turner departed Friday morning with the household goods of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Missildine, which he took to their new home near Scappoose, in his big truck. Going with Mr. Turner was Mrs. Clive Huston, who was returning to Portland to prepare their household goods for shipment here, Mr. Turner bringing up the load on his truck. The Hustons will be located again on the farm in the Eight Mile section.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey O. Bauman departed on Saturday on a trip to Spokane and Ritzville, where the Bauman family resided about 16 years ago before coming to Morrow county. Before returning home they expect to visit western Washington, taking in Seattle and Olympia, and return home by way of Portland.

William Huebner, formerly located in Sand Hollow where he operated a chicken ranch and raised wheat, is a visitor here from his home in Forest Grove. Mr. Huebner was recently bereft of his wife, who passed away at their home in the valley some six weeks ago.

James M. Burgess, superintendent of the local schools, and Mrs. Burgess returned on Saturday from Elk Lake, Ore., where they spent the summer season. Mr. Burgess has been quite busy since arriving home in getting ready for the opening of school on Monday next.

Mrs. Frank Evans of Walla Walla accompanied by Mr. Franklin of Los Angeles, a friend of the J. C. Brown family residing at Redlands, Calif., spent a short time in this city on Saturday, driving over in the forenoon and returning to Walla Walla in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Eph Eskelson drove to Walla Walla on Friday to meet their daughter, Miss Gladys Bengt, who was returning from summer school at Evanston, Ill. Miss Bengt will be one of the teachers in the Lexington school this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Bergstrom of Eight Mile were visitors here Monday for a short while.

Mrs. T. A. Hughes and little daughter have been spending the week in Heppner. Mr. Hughes was down from his mountain camp to visit with them the first of the week. Mrs. Hughes expects to return to Portland this week end.

W. W. Head, editor of Ione Independent and pastor of the Congregational church at that place, was a visitor in Heppner Monday.

Erik Bergstrom, leading wheat-raiser of the Gooseberry section, was attending to matters of business in this city on Monday.

Attorney C. L. Sweek and family returned the end of the week from their outing of a couple of weeks, spent at the beach near Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Breslin and daughter Teresa returned Saturday from their vacation spent at Newport and other coast points.

Roy Missildine and family departed on Friday for their new home on the Columbia highway near Scappoose.

Mrs. Lee Sprinkel is visiting with relatives in Walla Walla this week.

For Income-Producing Property

When income-producing property is damaged or destroyed by fire, there is two-fold injury. There is the actual property-damage, and there is the impairment of income.

There is now an auxiliary form of fire insurance for such properties, called Use-and-Occupancy Insurance—supplementing the usual Fire Insurance.

This indemnifies the property-holder for loss of prospective profits, and for the payment of fixed charges, while the property is non-productive.

Let us explain it to you in detail.
