BETTER MARKETING METHODS NEEDED.

WHAT the farmers throughout the country need is a better system of marketing.

Every farmer in the nation suffers from the antiquated marketing methods now employed. Somehow or other, most Easterners look upon the farm problem as remote. But actually, the East has as much of a problem as the West.

The sixteen states on the Atlantic seaboard produce, in value, more than a fifth of all the corn grown in the United States.

They produce two thirds of all the buckwheat; nearly half the potatoes, cabbage, celery, tomatoes and peaches; a third of the apples and about a quarter of the carrots, lettuce, peas, onions and hay.

Their production of dairy products is nearly a third. They rate a sixth in live stock. Their output is quite large in all standard cereals.

True, these Eastern farmers live close to big markets. They are not affected by an exportable surplus.

However, the slow routing between farm and table is a tremendous handicap to them.

Look over the facts given above, then decide for yourself whether the East has a farm problem or not!

ALL SET FOR THE WORLD'S SERIES.

HURRAY! The baseball contests are growing keener—the big leagues are getting more pep into their playing—the bleacher fans are shouting more vociferously—the radio baseball fans are listening in more frequently—the world's series are on the way!

Soon the greatest baseball event on the globe will be on, and naturally fans are getting pretty much excited over the prospect. And why shouldn't they be? For one thing, everyone will be able to enjoy the games this year—with radios, mechanical score boards, and the wide variety of devices that can bring play-by-play news of the games instantly to persons in all parts of the country.

Time was when a great athletic event could be watched only by actual eye-witnesses. Now the actual eye-witnesses are only an insignificant percentage of the total number of persons "seeing" the event.

For one person who sits in the bleachers or grand stand, there are thousands who listen in to the radio, or watch the swiftly moving figures on a mechanical score board.

What a gorgeous thing it is to think that eighteen men may be engaged in a game somewhere on a field, and that the entire nation may be able to watch every movement of every one of the eighteen men.

Radio and inventions of its kind are making the world smaller, and yet larger, every day. They reduce the distance between city and city, nation and nation, drawing all together in bonds of friendship. They enlarge the spiritual and mental outlook of the world. They make the world a greater, more wonderful place to live in, and add a

Dr. Frank Crane Says:

THE BLACK SHEEP.

A WOMAN has written to me, wanting to know what to do in the case of her son. She says he won't go to school, he won't do useful work and tends generally to consort with dissolute companions.

I may as well confess right now that I cannot answer her question. I know all the arguments about love and kind treatment and psychological study and patience and so on, and I know also that there are cases that none of these things fit.

I do not suppose there is one family among my readers unable to confess to some sort of black sheep; some boy or girl that persists in going wrong in spite of everything.

Much is said of preachers' sons who turn out badly and the implication is that they have been treated too strictly in their youth, so that in later years they rebel.

Some say that children should be carefully disciplined and rigidly instructed, but such children have not always done so well in later years.

In fact I have known the children of utterly loose and careless parents to turn out to be strict models of propriety, and others who have had every advantage of favorable environment go swiftly to the dogs.

Some say that children should be given their freedom and allowed to do as they please, but that does not always work.

You may talk about your heredity and about a child inheriting the bad traits of his grand uncle and about environment and about the whole trouble with children being that they are not properly disciplined. All this is very interesting reading. But the fact remains that the irresponsible and wayward sheep is in almost every family of my acquaintance.

Not long ago a prominent banker showed me a letter he had from his son, telling him that if he did not receive some money immediately he would commit suicide. The reply of the banker may not have been judicious, but it was interesting. He said to his son: "I have no money to send you, but don't let that deter you."

Mind and Muscle. Lasting Energy. Young Women Swimmers. Investing Widows.

Gene Tunney, retired world champion, dined and praised by literary celebrities and respectable British nobility, says, 'I don't know why you make so much fuss over me. What is boxing? The ability to co-ordinate mind and muscle at a critical moment, that is all.'

Boxing today is nothing. Twelve thousand years ago co-ordination of mind and muscle meant the difference between life and death.

Now what counts is co-ordination between mind and the mechanism of an "automatic" or an airplane.

Germanic blood possesses lasting energy. Von Hindenburg, President of the German Republic, past eighty goes hunting chamois in the high mountains. It is dangerous, difficult sport, even for young men, chasing those small goats.

President Hainisch of Austria, is running for a third term. He is seventy years old, and his mother, EIGHTY-NINE YEARS OLD, is campaigning for him.

Her son doesn't want a third term, but she, president of the Austrian Feminist Party, thinks it his duty to keep on working.

A fine young American, Ethel Hertle, won Mr. Wrigley's ten-mile swim for women and his $10,000, defeating fifty-three other women, including the Channel marvel, Gertrude Ederle, in 5 hours, 34 minutes, 36 seconds.

A fine achievement, BUT those swimming young women are not using their energy as Providence and Nature want it used.

Miss Ethel Hertle should stop long distance swimming, find a worthy young man of the right type, thin body, a big head, good brain, kind heart, earnest, ambitious, sincere. Then Ethel Hertle should marry him, putting her mind on Nancy Hanks, whose championship was represented by Abraham Lincoln.

Wrigley should offer $100,000 for the best baby.

Government agents announced that A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, was swindled out of $70,000 in a land fraud. "Other distinguished and intelligent men were their victims."

If lying letters and prospectuses can get $70,000 from the president of Harvard, what chance has a poor widow seeking to increase her small inheritance?

No woman should buy land unless she has seen it and has the approving opinions of three business men not interested in the sale. And this is not written by a real estate theorist.

Australia votes to end prohibition, and by a majority of more than two to one, in New South Wales, and the Federal territory of Canberra. In industrial districts, the women's votes were solidly against prohibition.

In New Zealand, long ago, women voted prohibition in, then voted it out. They decided that bringing a bottle home and drinking it all at once, were more of a nuisance than men drinking at the public house.

Something More About Church Army Members

By REV. STANLEY MOORE
With the coming of the members of the Church Army to Heppner on the 20th of this month it is interesting to know something about each one and note how each comes from a different walk of life and now is doing this splendid work as laymen within Christ's church.

Captain Frank Bloxham, the leader of this group, is a native of Birmingham, a large industrial city in the center of England and has been in the Church Army for about five years. Prior to this he was active in church activities while carrying on his secular occupation as a mechanical engineer in one of the largest works in the Midlands. Since answering the call to full-time service he has worked in various parts of the old country on a mission caravan in the rural sections seeking to win men's hearts to his Lord and Master. Coming to this country in the early part of last year, Captain Bloxham has worked in the New England states and in the southern and midwestern states in evangelistic effort. He has found in this rather extensive tour that the main thing that is needed is that the Jesus of history become the Jesus of personal, practical experience to all men. During the world war the captain was in Flanders with the 58th Division and he speaks from that help to live our lives today.

Captain Charles L. Conder hails from a small industrial town in the West Riding of Yorkshire. From school days until early manhood he was a general clerk in the office of a farmers' agricultural trading society, a cooperative concern of the River Calder valley. His ambitions were in the circle of commerce but these were not fulfilled for the hand of God was to intervene. Always an active worker in the church, a growing consciousness came to him that God needed witnesses in the world to extend the Kingdom of Heaven on earth. Leaving his business career he answered the call and joined the ranks of the Church Army for training. Since training he has been at work in the diocese of Bradford as the missionary in charge of the diocesan mission van. Last winter his work was in that part of Yorkshire known as Bronte land, familiar to all readers of the Brontes. In April of this year he came over to this country and until August was in Connecticut carrying on missions in the rural parts.

Captain George Hill, the youngest member of the party, has only been with the Church Army since January of this year and his experience, though short, in the homeland on the mission vans has proved of great value to him during his work in this country. Like all members of the society he has been in secular work before offering himself for service and was engaged as an assistant in an outfitting store. His work this summer has been that of

With breathless interest the class listened to the teacher's account of her encounter with the tramp. With a dramatic gesture she reached the climax of her story and then concluded, saying, "And then I fainted." Little Bobbie gazed with awe and admiration at his teacher, and was the first to break the silence. "With yer left or yer right?" he asked.

The Wife: "Hubby, wht kept you out so late last night?" Hubby (intoxicated): "I (hic) been out with a chiffonier." The Wife: "Chiffonier? Why you don't even know what you're talking about. A chiffonier is a well little dresser." Hubby: "Yes, that's her."

THE CHRISTIAN BASIS FOR TOTAL ABSTINENCE. 1 Corinthians 8:1-12. By REV. SAMUEL D. PRICE, D. D.

The quarterly temperance lesson has been a feature of the International Uniform series for many years. Its introduction in the Sunday school was followed by the scientific temperance instruction in the public schools in the various states of the Union. The general purpose is to teach the basic fact that alcohol is a poison and the effect that such a poison has on individual and society. The whole subject is a live one today, not only in America but throughout the world. In the United States the study is especially pertinent as the wet and dry issue has such a prominent place in the coming presidential election.

A moral issue is much more than an individual matter. Every one exerts a far reaching influence, both conscious and unconscious. Paul had a case in hand when he wrote to the Corinthians from Ephesus, during his third missionary journey. Idol worship prevailed and any religion involved a sacrifice of one kind or another. Animals were slain to propitiate the various gods, and there were many of these so-called deities. The priests of the various cults could eat only a very small portion of meat resulting from such slaughter. Both the economic and natural thing to do was to offer the meat for sale, for there was nothing the matter with it from the standpoint of food.

At once a serious and conscientious question was raised in the minds of both Jews and Christians. They must not in any way partake of food which had first been offered to idols. Such food might be on any table where they were a guest. This whole matter was an issue at the Council in Jerusalem and it was mutually agreed between Jew and Gentile Christians that they would abstain from any use of such meats. This same question kept arising as the Gospel was taken to any new territory where the identical conditions were local. The case had to be argued through each time, and every group convinced that they must give up things that may have been customary in the old life because of the new implications, though no actual physical harm would result if continued. In eating such food they were surely relating themselves to the worship of idols.

The Corinthians were told that the question of personal liberty should not decide the matter. They must face the effect of their actions on others. Doing as they pleased would become a "stumbling block to the weak." Many will not think things through, but will permit the action of another to determine their course. Every life is an open book, which is read by others and their lives are influenced accordingly.

Without raising in any way the question of individual rights Paul reveals how eager he is to always render the utmost help to others. It is easy to imagine the short man standing as upright as possible and declaring as a working principle "Wherefore, if meat causeth my brother to stumble, I will eat no flesh for evermore."
