

How the Electoral Vote Stood in Five Presidential Elections.

The total electoral vote for 1928 will be 531. A candidate for the presidency in this election must have at least 266 electoral votes to win.

These five maps show the distribution of the electoral votes in the last five Presidential elections. The shaded portions of the maps show the regions contributing their electoral votes to the losing parties.

Hints for the Home by Nancy Hart

Speaking of ultra-violet ray treatments for children and grown-ups—Did you know forty million hens now use these same rays and prove their efficacy by yielding 40 to 50 per cent more eggs?

Science has discovered hens lay best when exposed directly to the sun's ultra-violet rays which they receive in ample quantity during summer. In fall and winter, however, little or none reaches them, for violet rays cannot penetrate through ordinary glass into the hen house.

Therefore, science presents the hens with special windows of a translucent material that does transmit the health-giving rays. And presto—the deed is done. The new "windows" are strongly constructed over a wire base, can be bought by the foot, and installed without expert help.

To the many farm women who have experimented long with egg-laying formulas, this knowledge that concentrated sunlight is all a good hen needs is most encouraging.

Paper Towels for Kitchen

A roll of paper toweling should be in every kitchen, for it has many economical uses, such as wiping out pans, cleaning the sink, cleaning stove, etc. Use it also to give a quick final polish to glassware.

Rich Pear Jam

Peel and core about three pounds ripe pears; chop or slice very thin and measure four solid cups fruit into large kettle. Add seven and a half level cups sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard one minute. Remove from fire and stir in one bottle liquid pectin. Skim, pour and seal at once.

Simple Salads Best

Salads need not be elaborate in order to be delicious and wholesome. In fact, a number of the most satisfying salads are the simplest. Iced lettuce hearts with Roquefort or Russian dressing, apple and celery salad, shredded cabbage, green pepper and onion with plain cream dressing, left-over vegetables molded in lemon-flavored gelatin—all these are easy to prepare and all are favorites with the family.

An Easy Remembrance

A birthday card from the Sunday school, a greeting card of sympathy from the congregational organizations in time of illness or affliction, a welcome to new members—all help to keep up the spirit of friendliness and service and do not make too great a demand upon the time of pastor and committee members.

WHY THE RECLAMMATION SERVICE STARTS NO NEW PROJECTS.

October SUNSET

It is strange how partisan political bias warps the vision and misguides the pen. The Oregon Journal, under ordinary circumstances an ably edited paper whose staff can calmly and factually appraise the difficulties and problems confronting the Nation and the Northwest, has suddenly remembered that its complexion is Democratic and that a campaign is under way. So it proceeds to pan Dr. Hubert Work, former Secretary of the Interior and Hoover's campaign manager, accusing him of hostility to the Northwest because he, according to the Oregon Journal, consistently opposed the starting of new Northwestern irrigation projects.

We have panned Dr. Work's Indian Bureau for several years and shall continue to pan it until it has been completely reorganized, but it seems to us that the usually sincere Journal in its Democratic zeal has stooped pretty low when it twists well known facts for the sake of questioning political gain. The Journal bases its attack on the assertion that Reclamation Service projects in the Northwest "are rapidly paying themselves out and have proven their ability to provide homes and a splendid living for families on them." Therefore, according to the Journal, Dr. Work through his opposition to more new projects in the Northwest has demonstrated that he is a Republican viper because he is deliberately blocking the progress of the Northwest which has regularly voted Republican since the first wood-burning locomotive came to Portland. For muddled-up reasoning this political editorial takes the leather-up holstered wedding cake.

The facts are that a commission of eminent engineers and economists under leadership of Dr. Elwood Mead, asked to take charge of the Reclamation Service and pull its shaky projects out of the hole, recommended the writing off of almost thirty million dollars invested by the nation in these projects. The commission also recommended that the payments due the nation from the settlers be extended and that these payments be varied from year to year on the basis of average production and crop prices per acre. In addition it recommended that no new projects be started until the existing ones were completed and until expert investigation had proven each proposed new project to be really feasible, with a reasonable chance of success for the settlers. It also suggested that on these new projects the State should undertake by contract the colonization of the land, the financing of the settlers and their expert agricultural guidance.

The policy worked out by Dr. Mead and recommended by the commission is beginning to pull the existing Reclamation Service projects out of the hole. Several new projects in the State of Oregon have been approved, but Oregon has shown no inclination to assume the burden of seeking, financing and guiding necessary settlers. Why? Because the State of Oregon has on its hand and on its treasury the weight of several irrigation enterprises on which the settlers made such a "splendid living" districts which "paid themselves out so rapidly" with Irish dividends that the State had to meet the overdue bond interest.

The Oregon Journal, being an ably edited paper, knows these conditions, but it just couldn't resist the temptation to deliver a nasty political below-the-belt blow. Which is one reason why the general public declines to pay much attention to the political editorials in any partisan paper.

Poor politics and poor journalism, we call it.

"O how amiable are thy dwellings; thou Lord of hosts!"—Ps. 84:1.

As the result of a motor accident, a lady being removed to the hospital was attended by a doctor, who remarked: "I'll sew that scalp wound for you for four pounds."

Patient: "Good heavens, doctor, I only want plain sewing, you know, not hemstitching and embroidery."

"Oh, my dear Madame, she fell into a cataleptic fit and woke up in the middle of the funeral. The noise of the organ and the choir awakened her."

"That settles it. There'll be no music at my mother-in-law's funeral."

Look Again!

No, this is not a snake. It is a giant cucumber discovered on his farm by W. H. Howard of LeCompton, Kan., when he sought an unusual item to enter at the local fair. This vegetable is four feet four inches long and closely resembles a snake. Mr. Howard won two first prizes at the fair with this cucumber.
