POLIOMYELITIS.

(From State Board of Health.)

During the winter and spring months of 1928 the prevalence of infantile paralysis was greater in the United States than usual although the number of cases was not large. Since about the first of June there has been an increase throughout the country. There has been an increasing number of cases in this state. Now is the time to be on the watch for early cases which usually forewarn an epidemic. This is the most crucial period in the development of epidemic conditions with this disease.

The only safeguard is eternal vigilance on the part of health officials, the medical profession, nurses and parents. Responsibility for the safety of their children rests principally on the parents. Do not try to run away from infantile paralysis or poliomyelitis, as it is called, after the epidemic begins. Remain at home and guard the children against fatigue and indiscretions of diet. Give them a little extra rest during the day and watch their temperatures. To keep the children in their own yards during an epidemic is the only safeguard against infantile paralysis as there is no prophylactic for the disease.

Since we do not definitely know how this disease is transmitted the safe rule is to isolate all who are ill, especially children, until a diagnosis shows that they are suffering from a non-communicable disease. All cases of infantile paralysis should be isolated as completely as possible in a clean bare room that is well screened to keep out insects. The necessary attendant should be allowed to come in contact with the case. All discharges should be disinfected. Eating utensils and soiled clothing should be boiled.

During the acute stage the patient should be kept quiet. Joints will not stiffen and hopeless wasting will not occur during this stage. Rest gives the damaged cord the best chance to repair, and it is sometimes necessary to apply a plaster cast or other immobilizing device. The hospitalization of infantile paralysis cases insures complete rest as well as the proper isolation and quarantine that is necessary.

When the acute stage is over muscle training should begin. Deformity can be prevented by keeping the feet at right angles to the legs to avoid the most common deformity, a dropped foot. Manipulation during the acute stage may increase the amount of disability and in some cases has produced incurable deformities. On the other hand, muscle training and other constructive measures have accomplished results which are just short of miraculous. Expert care is needed more in infantile paralysis than in any other disease. Some cases get well without any treatment. However, it is the experience of crippled children hospitals that most of the almost hopelessly deformed cases have been treated without any regard for the true pathology of this disease.

The only way of eradicating contagious abortion in dairy herds is through separating those showing reaction to the test, followed by cleaning and disinfecting the barn, then replacing with abortion-free females and finally testing the herd frequently to catch any new infection. The entire process of freeing the experiment station herd at Corvallis of this disease is described in a new bulletin, No. 232.

RATHER UNUSUAL

Taxi Driver Returns $25,000 Jewelry

Chicago.—Carl Tronsted, taxi driver, found a case on the running board of his cab which contained a glittering display of jewels.

After making the discovery, he sat up all night long with a pistol guarding the jewel case.

In the morning he took it to the cab company. An inquiry, and it was found that the loss has been reported by Commander William Heard, U. S. N., en route to Panama with his wife. The gems were worth $25,000.

The most unusual part of this story, some say, is that it happened in Chicago!

Cat Spurns Fish and Milk, Lives on Diet

New York.—Here's a modern feline for you!

Last fall an emaciated kitten crawled into the confectionery store of Harry Goodman.

The kitten refused fish, meat, milk and all other delicacies that usually whet the feline appetite. Ever since the cat has subsisted entirely on a diet of crackers and water and has grown fat.

The cat eats 150 crackers and drinks a quart of water each day.

We Have Our Doubts About This

Iowa City.—While fishing in a river Francis Suelpl landed two fish in one cast. He hooked a three-quarter pound catfish.

As he pulled it in a ten and a quarter pounder attempted to swallow the little one!

Hot Stuff!

Pittsburg.—Edward Fisher was fined $50 for tossing hot pennies among two score youngsters who were serenading a wedding couple. His act resulted in slight burns to several boys and girls.

Some Appetite!

Lexington, Ky.—One and one fourth pounds of canned salmon, two and a half pounds of pork and beans, one and one fourth pound of onions, one half jelly roll, one fourth pound of candy, one half pound of oranges, one half pound of crackers, three bottles of "pop" and three glasses of water.

This ten and three quarter pound supper was eaten at a restaurant by Charles Belt, seven, who suffered no ill effects.

She: "Well, why didn't you stop?"
"What's all the loud talk in the dining room, sister?"
"Father and mother are swapping animals."
"Swapping animals?"
"Yep. She passed the buck to him and got his goat."

plucked him, cooked him and the minister has eaten him!"
"How sad! But we must look at the bright side of things. Anyhow, we can be thankful your brother has entered the ministry for he would never have been any use as a lay-man."

An elderly lady entered a shop and asked to be shown some tablecloths.

The salesman brought some, but nothing seemed to suit her.
"Haven't you anything new?" she asked. The perspiring shopman brought another pile and said:
"These are the newest pattern, madam. You will notice the edge runs right around the border and the center is in the middle."
"Dear me, yes, so it does. I will take half a dozen of those," said the lady.

Visitor: "Is Mr. Jones home?"
Mrs. Jones: "No; he went to the cemetery this morning."
Visitor: "When will he be back?"
Mrs. Jones: "Never, I hope!"
