COLUMBUS.

THE most heroic story of historytopher Columbus and the discovery of America—is to be celebrated on October 12. On that day in 1492 when Columbus discovered a new continent, who could have guessed what an important part of the globe that continent would become, containing, as it does, several of the greatest nations of the world.

The story of Columbus in itself is inspiring and magnificent—the is inspiring and magnineent—the story of a brave pioneer who feared no disaster, spared no effort, to prove to his own satisfaction and to the satisfaction of Europe that the world was indeed round. Little hon-or was paid to Columbus during his life-time; he was jeered and thought crazy; his path was beset with difficulties and dismay, his accomplishments disbelieved, his theories discounted. Yet today his name is held in reverence the world over.

Since the days of Columbus the Eastern and Western worlds are close neighbors; Lindbergh, by spanning the Atlantic in an airplane showed us how close they really In the days of Columbus the way from Europe to America was beset with perils, both real and imaginary, and sailors on comparatively short trips always feared, tremblingly, that they would come to the 'edge of the world" and fall

Now we do not fear the "edge of the world"; science and improved methods of transportation have destroyed the bugaboos of the past; now a man may talk in one continent, and by radio, be heard across the seas; distance has been demolished-travel has become a pleasure instead of a hazardous undertaking. Yet we still cannot even glimpse the mystery of life, the Divine Purpose of it all-and probably never shall. We know more and more about ourselves—but have no more about ourselves but have no more knowledge than in the past of the workings of Providence. But just as Columbus praised God for his accomplishment, so must we too as Columbus praised God for the so must we too of constructive and sane adjustment of a situation which is vital to a praise God for the things that have continuance of American prosper-

We who have not to face the martyrdom of a Columbus, nor encounter the difficulties that he encountered, should surely not be swayed from the spiritual by the mechanical and scientific discoveries of this age. The Soul of Man is more important than man's accomplishments, important though they may be.

Br. Frank Crane Says:

One of the most striking passages of that ancient collection of literature known as the Bible, is "He hangeth the north over an empty place." It is found in the Book of Job.

The queer part of it is that astronomically the north is a somewhat empty place. In a measure you can see for yourself that

All this is called to mind when we read of General Nobile's flight over the Pole a short time ago . He discovered again what had already been discovered, that when you get to the North Pole you find nothing there-just frozen emptiness

It is simply a record to make, a sort of impossible line to toe, but all those fanciful dreams of Simms, Hole, and the like, about there being an undiscovered country up there, are pure fiction.

The only part of this globe that is habitable is the temperate

General Nobile's discoveries, as well as those of others, reveal that the north is to be added to the oceans and the deserts and the mountain ranges as pure waste. A deal of the universe, as far as we can see, is waste in the sense of not being habitable by man. We cannot live in the seas, and life is difficult in the high mountain ranges.

Considering how vast is the universe, and how many of the stars are simply blazing balls of fire utterly uninhabitable by any form of life, and how gigantic are the distances between the stellar bodies, and even what a great portion of this planet is not habitable, one's philosophy of life unconsciously limits the import-
