

WEEKLY WASHINGTON NEWS SUMMARY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8.—Exact-ly a month remains before election. Within that period, observers now are generally agreed, Governor Alfred E. Smith must make tremendous and virtually impossible gains in order to win. Every indication points to a Hoover-Curtis victory, and by a decisive margin.

When the Democratic candidate began his western trip three weeks ago, it was unanimously agreed that a golden opportunity to bolster his cause lay before him. With the result of that 6,000 mile journey carefully tabulated and estimated, Governor Smith's venture beyond the Mississippi quite evidently has failed to accomplish its purpose. No notable increase in Smith sentiment is reported from the states which he visited, and that should leave all of them safely Republican, as they were in both 1920 and 1924.

The failure of the Democratic candidate to arouse the west, according to a consensus of opinion, is due to his lack of a program for a sound national administration. Given a chance to tell the serious-minded folk of that section exactly how he proposed to run the government, if elected, he contented himself with abstract discussion of several unrelated issues, without getting down to practical discussion of the problems involved. As a result, he left his audience without information as to his program on the tariff, on fiscal policies, on immigration and other equally important questions, and these oversights have shown his weakness.

Herbert Hoover, in contrast to his opponent, has been adhering to a well considered campaign program. From the start of his campaign, his purpose seems to have been to convince the voters that he has a thorough understanding of every major issue involved in this campaign. With the splendid record of the Coolidge administration as an example, Mr. Hoover has devoted his speeches to analysis of the big problems still to be solved, and has succeeded in convincing the country that he is the man to continue the present even and prosperous trend of conditions.

That his course is drawing to him men of every school of thought is constantly evident. One of the most recent converts to the Hoover program is B. F. Yoakum, life-long democrat and pioneer railroad builder, who has probably opened more agricultural land to settlement through transportation facilities than any living railroad man. For a number of years, Mr. Yoakum has been a careful student of the agricultural problem. Since Governor Smith began his flirtation with the McNary-Haugen bill, Mr. Yoakum has come out squarely for the Republican program of farm relief as outlined by Herbert Hoover, endorsing his plan for development of a nation-wide farm commodity marketing system through government aid.

The assurance that stability of government will be continued under Herbert Hoover has also been an important factor in the decision of 86 editors of Democratic and Independent newspapers to support the Republican national ticket. Their newspapers are located in 15 states.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan tersely summed up the advantage of the Hoover-Curtis ticket in the middle west recently by pointing out that employment in most industrial centers is as general or better than it has ever been, that the refusal of the Democratic candidate even to discuss the tariff leaves the middle west uncertain about his intentions, but inclined to distrust them from previous experience, and, that the failure of Governor Smith to understand the importance of such great projects as the St. Lawrence waterway takes much interest away from his candidacy in the inland industrial and agricultural states.

For the remainder of the campaign, Mr. Hoover's plans call for about one speech each week, in which he will continue his plan of discussing the issues. The extensive preparation which he devotes to each one of his speeches has made them clear-cut, concise dissertations on the more important questions which the majority of the voters are interested in, rather than spasmodic efforts at working up interest through attacks on his opponent.

Hints for the Home
by Nancy Hart

Against the wall directly above the sideboard all your treasures of silver and glass must show themselves. If it is an uninteresting background, the beauty of each piece is dimmed. So too much thought cannot be given to the decoration of the over-sideboard space.

A fine mirror or color print reproduction of some Old Master painting is always appropriate for this use; a wall hanging of broad in deep, rich colors makes a delightful background for old silver or porcelain.

But whatever you use, this space deserves very special consideration, for the sideboard is naturally the dominant decorative spot in the room.

Southern Goulash
Cook a pound of chopped beef in 2 tablespoons butter for 5 minutes. Add 1 quart canned tomatoes, 1/2 cup quick-cooking tapioca, 1 green pepper and 1 onion, chopped, 2 teaspoons salt and a little cayenne. Let simmer for half an hour; just before serving add 2 cups grated cheese.

Peach and Pimiento Salad
Drain juice from can of sliced peaches; add 1 tablespoon vinegar and enough water to make a pint. Heat to boiling and dissolve in it one package of lemon-flavored gelatin. When cool and about to thicken, add the peaches and one shredded pimiento. Mold and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Hint for Linoleum Floors
Before laying linoleum, varnish the wrong side and lay it over a layer of thick brown paper. This will give you a damp-proof floor and makes the linoleum wear longer.

Good Dish for Little Folks
Cook tops of bunch of celery in stock. In separate kettle cook a quantity of rice. When done, add the celery stock until mixture is quite thick. Add a little tomato juice or part of tomato and cook until rice is permeated with meat flavor.

Heppner's Community Course
Educational - Entertaining
For Heppner's Growing Generation

WE, A COMMITTEE OF HEPPNER CITIZENS, have but one aim in mind in sponsoring the above-named course, namely: to give the children of our community an opportunity to see and hear a class of entertainment which we believe to be inspiring and educational.

We feel that a town which does not provide such a type of entertainment is not doing full justice to its future citizens.

It is for this reason that we are making an appeal to all liberal-minded citizens of our community to support the course.

Season tickets for adults will be sold next Monday and Tuesday by pupils of the Heppner schools. The price is $2.50. But when you buy a ticket you are helping the pupil from whom the ticket is purchased, to the amount of 25c on his or her season ticket. Every child who sells five adult season tickets will be admitted free to each number of the course.

Every number of this course will be well worth your time to attend. With the exception of one number, to be given on a Saturday, each number will appear on a week-day night. The first number is next Thursday night in the Heppner school auditorium.

The surplus, if any should accrue from putting on this course will be placed in a fund to be used for a similar purpose in the future.

Your liberal consideration and generous support will be greatly appreciated.
