Dr. Frank Crane Says:

WAR ANYWHERE DISASTROUS President Coolidge delivered a message on Decoration Day of this year in which he pointed out the fact that no matter where a war might break out in the world it would be prejudicial to this country. War is simply lawlessness and destruction and the commercial interests of the United States are so widespread, our investments and trade relations are so far reaching that it is almost impossible to conceive of any conflict anywhere on earth which would not affect us injuriously. The President also stressed the fact that the United States is engaged in warfare only for the protection of American citizens. It is incumbent upon every nation to protect its own citizens. Unfortunately the plan of Woodrow Wilson for a league of nations did not receive universal support. While this writer enthusiastically supported Mr. Wilson's idea he holds no brief for any one plan. Equally to be approved are the efforts of Secretary of State Kellogg to conclude a treaty with European powers for the complete outlawing of war. Just so we arrive at a stage of civilization where war is not countenanced and glorified it makes no difference by what route we get there. Mr. Coolidge also laid stress upon the best argument of the most intelligent pacifists, to wit, that "the chief defenses of America lie not in her armed forces but in the industry, prosperity and patriotism of her people; these are of far greater importance than preparedness." The same day at Thiaucourt, France, General Pershing addressed an audience where he said that "millions of graves cry out against war, and the big nations must show the way to durable peace." He continued that war threatened civilization because of the "falloacious theory that war is an essential element in the national policy of a government," and an erroneous belief that nations become great through aggressive undertakings. General Pershing insisted that history disproves that the expansion of one modern civilized nation at the expense of the other can be permanent. "There would appear to be no longer any reason," he said, "why the leading civilized powers could not agree among themselves to the general principle of the elimination of war as an avowed instrument of national policy." It need not interfere with the necessities of reasonable armament, he said, "nor the fulfillment of consistent obligations." The day is coming when public opinion, that final arbiter of destiny, will rapidly turn against war.

CARD OF THANKS. We are very grateful to all the friends and neighbors who so kindly ministered to us in the hour of sorrow; especially do we thank those who during the long illness of our father, visited him and cheered him in his affliction; and for the many beautiful floral offerings. gor. But Borah made a great Hoover speech and a fine doctrinal Republican speech. ... Last night when he warmed up on the bureau government that has been growing upon the nation, I enthused with him, and it was here that he spanked Smith and the McNary-Haugen proposal—my how he ripped the Tammany boss, and his splendid oratory, very best English. When he cut loose on immigration the great audience roared. He showed Smith's scheme up; his plan to bring in the cheap southern European labor as against the present quota based upon the English, Irish, Scotch, Germans and other northern Europeans; how it means the building of a stronger Tammany machine—and I know what this means for I have had contact in New York City with the workings of the organization. He ribbed the governor and his Mr. Raskob and I never saw a more joyous crowd in my life than was this great audience of his. This meeting is said to be typical of scores of such meetings held in all states over the South, and the Hoover sentiment is so strong that many of the rock-ribbed southern states are now in the doubtful column, and may be counted for the Republican nominees on the sixth of November. At any rate, we may all be certain of how the election goes during the early hours of the seventh. There will be the greatest vote ever cast for presidential nominees, and predictions are freely made that the total will exceed 40 millions. While the registration in Morrow county shows but a small increase over former years, it is expected the amount necessary to be raised by direct taxation $1,200.00 (Signed) J. C. BALLENGER, Mayor. Attest: W. A. PRICE, Recorder.

Sunday School Lesson International Sunday School Lesson for November 4. WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY. Romans 13:1-10, 13, 14. By REV. SAMUEL D. PRICE D. D. This quarterly Temperance Lesson comes on World's Temperance Sunday, just before the national election. Scientific temperance teaching is a part of the curriculum in the public schools in every state in the Union. By all these means the growing youth of every generation are taught that alcohol is a poison and should not be used for beverage purposes. Such education is a world matter, for right is absolute and not relative. The nations of the earth are looking to the U. S. A. to note the outcome of the greatest experiment in opposing the organized liquor traffic that has ever been tried in the world. A quarter of a century ago temperance was a decidedly unpopular subject. Today it is about the biggest item of interest in the country. This letter to the Romans was written from Corinth, a most licentious city where liquor was used most freely to help the abandon in immoralities. Corinth was the playground for the Romans and there they sought to outdo the worst in the Imperial City. With all that in mind Paul calls attention to the high place that rulers should have in the estimation of the people. Their office was always to be respected for all power, in the last analysis, was derived from God. Taxes, too excessive, were not to be thought of as extortions but as their just obligation in helping to provide for their own benefit as well as for the common good. If only they would purpose to keep the law they would have no ill will toward either the law or those who were enforcing it. They could think back to what Jesus had said: "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's." The law of God was held very definitely before them. Anything that tended to hurt their neighbor must be avoided. This is finely stated for every age in the injunction: "Owe no man anything, save to love one another." The very opposite of this is the result when any one makes use of alcohol as a beverage. Alcohol is inherently a poison and its reaction is uniform. Personal liberty ceases as an argument when our neighbor is hurt by what we give or sell him. Society is injured when one, claiming independence of action, causes damage or even danger to those who have a right to live in safety. That part of the Ten Commandments which deals with neighborly relationships is brought into review. Then all is summarized in "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Having lived at least two years in Corinth and his previous missionary journey and now again for three months, Paul is necessarily familiar with causes of evil. From his sad experiences he tells them about conduct that is so hurtful as he says: "Let us walk becomingly, as in the day; not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and jealousy." The Corinthians had been making provision for the flesh not only to its destruction but also the loss of spiritual life itself. Morals are improved, business advances, money saved, life protected just in proportion as alcoholic beverages are given up. The statistician continuously proves this. The development of the automobile industry is a good field of research for anyone who doubts these facts.
