

Where Many of Our Presidents Came From

Many American great men were born without the proverbial silver spoon. On their entry into the world they had merely their birthright, health and the love of their parents. The pictures above show the birthplaces of Herbert Hoover, president-elect, Calvin Coolidge and six presidents of the past. These presidents among others first saw the light of day in the rural districts of America, and rose from obscurity to the highest office in the land.

begin to dread the long hours of labor; if you begin to lose weight, then it is time that you take steps to find the cause of these symptoms. A very thorough examination may show the beginning of a disease. Should you be told that you have an ailment do not worry too much but congratulate yourself that the condition was discovered at a time when it was curable. Do not wait until you are down and out before caring for yourself.

Whatever it is, fatigue requires speedy and continuous expert supervision in order to avoid disease. Poisonous products manufactured inside the body give ample warning, by the occurrence of fatigue, that dangerous results may develop. They should be headed off early and your future health guarded by removing underlying causes.

CARD OF THANKS.
We wish to thank all those who assisted in the illness and burial of our beloved son and brother. Also for all the lovely floral offerings.
Mr. and Mrs. S. G. McMillan and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lotus Robison of Hardman were visitors here the first of the week.

What the Grange Wants.

The National Grange at its session in Washington last week declared through National Master Taber that the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill is dead, and Mr. Taber presented a substitute program upon which farmers should unite for agricultural rehabilitation, which includes: Wider organization of the farmers themselves for improvement purposes; better balanced crop production in all sections; extensive research to find industrial uses for surplus farm products; increased duties on many agricultural imports; broadened powers of the tariff commission; equality for the farmer on a level with other producers; application to agriculture of the same type of adjustments of the tariff laws as have been necessary to accommodate industry. Specifically, the use of the export devaluation plan as a means of making the tariff effective on those stable farm crops of which we still produce a surplus.

Better Shipping Facilities Needed.

Hope for the apple industry in Oregon has been growing vigorously for some time, owing to an increased demand for American apples in foreign countries, but there must be a change in the manner of handling and transportation so that the fruit will reach the ultimate market in fit condition for sale and consumption. Recent advices from Hamburg spoke of the apples arriving there in a "general unsatisfactory condition," also, says the dispatch, "supplies of Pacific northwest Jonathans are heavy and the fruit is soft, bruised and decayed." No trade profitable to the apple growers can be established unless the fruit can be laid down sound and in good order.

Grange Progress in Oregon.

State Master Palmeter in his report to the National Grange says: The report of the national secretary for September 30th credits Oregon with fourteen new subordinate, three Pomona, five juvenile and six reorganized subordinate Granges, a total of twenty-eight organizations for the year and a net gain of more than a thousand in membership. For the last six years each report from Oregon has shown an increase in both organizations, and for three years in succession we led the nation in the number of Granges organized. Two heretofore unorganized counties have been added to the fold—Klamath and Curry—and we now have Grange organizations in every county in Oregon but one.

Oregon Gets Even Break.

The American Railway Express company has made a reduction in its rates on mixed shipments of fruit and nuts which will give growers of Oregon and Washington an equality with those of California, a result which was brought about by the efforts of the Portland Chamber of Commerce and the Portland Traffic and Transportation association. The new rates apply to shipments of fruit, nuts and confections, on which California has enjoyed a basic rate while Oregon and Washington shippers were forced to pay a higher tariff. A ten-pound package of such commodities may now be shipped from Portland to New York express offices for $1.05 and to Illinois points for 90 cents.

Try This Memory Test.
A Delaware Grange meeting, says the bulletin, was thoroughly enlightened when, with no advance notice, each man present was called upon to describe the dress his wife wore upon her wedding day. The descriptions were ludicrous rather than accurate.

There is no export movement yet in the wheat market.

HARDMAN.

Mrs. Sperry is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harvey Harshman at Eight Mile. Lucille Farrans spent the weekend at the home of her uncle, G. A. Farrans.

J. J. McDonald has purchased the Anson Wright property here and will move his family from the Rhea creek ranch where they have made their home for the past year.

Glen Hadley of Boardman was in Heppner last week.

Miss Zetta Bleakman is absent from her classes on account of a severe cold.

A dance will be given at the I. O. O. F. hall December 1.

THAT TIRED FEELING

(From State Board of Health.)

Fatigue which is the result of work, play or exercise in regular and moderate amounts is not harmful. It is really beneficial for it develops wholesome rest and sleep which prepares the body for further, and sometimes greater activities. This is the kind of fatigue that goes with a healthy body. There is, however, a complete physical and mental exhaustion that is not natural or normal, but is a danger signal that, if unheeded, may lead to material injury or a complete breakdown. It is well to know that this condition is commonly an early symptom of oncoming disease.

A tired feeling that does not react to rest and sleep and which can not be explained by an activity of the brain or muscle may be due to some form of infection. Influenza, typhoid, and many other communicable diseases usually begin with periods of malaise or a tired uneasy feeling. Low grade chronic infections which come on insidiously are frequently accompanied by periods of feeling tired.

An abscessed tooth, a chronic appendix, diseased tonsils, can each throw enough poison into the human system to cause that tired feeling. Self medication often makes this condition worse. The only safe way is to find and remove the cause.

If your work which for years seldom annoyed you begins to look bigger and bigger everyday; if you
