called attention to the large sum of money that Morrow county had already spent on the Heppner-Spray road in co-operation with the Bu-reau of Public Roads. The ulti-mate result of this expenditure is the completion of a considerable mileage of good road that is at the present time of little general use. However, it strikes us that as matters have stood in relation to this highway, and the views concerning it taken by the state highway com-mission, this may have been pretty good strategy on the part of the county court of Morrow county. In the first place, it has not been possithe first place, it has not been possi-ble so far to get the state highway commission to place this road on the state map, and therefore the lack of co-operation on the part of the state. The calls for extensions and closing of gaps in highways the state over have, of necessity, put the commission up against the problem of having sufficient funds, and naturally they have assumed the policy of placing no more roads on the state map until present projects are completed. This is their side of the picture, and it has made progress slow on this particular piece of road work.

understand, has favored this work from the beginning, and they have co-operated to such an extent that forest service as they do, they fully realize what it means to have good and accessible roads leading into the reserve. This last summer the government suffered heavy loss in timber and outlay for labor in fight-ing fires because of the fact that it was not possible to reach the scene of devastation promptly, the condition of the roads being such that it was almost impossible to get firefighters and supplies to sustain them on the ground before the fires thus sustained mounted into hundreds of thousands of dollars. As suggested in our article last issue, we feel it is time that some steps were taken to back up the members of the county court when they go to Portland to present their claims for the completion of this link in the state highway system, and we are glad to note that this head all through the discussions, and at the opening of its national convention in Washington last week shown above, and the comment and we are glad to note that this head agricultural program. sink in the state highway system, and we are glad to note that this suggestion was gladly received by the members of the Heppner luncheon club, composed of the young business men of this city, and they have pledged their support to Commissioner Bleakman and the members of the county court in their efforts to get further coopgration in the work of completing the Heppner Per-Spray road. They will have a delegation in the city at such times as members of the court are there, and will give all the moral support they can to the propositions that come up Concerted action should get the road on the map, and when this is accomplished, its completion will be assured

ATTRACTION OF THE OLD

Laying aside all sex appeal and things of that sort many people believe that old persons are more interesting than young ones.

There comes a time in a man's life when a woman of forty is more interesting than one of eighteen. Beside the mature woman a girl is rather crude.

People who go to Europe love to poke around among the antiquities. There is a sort of sentimental interest in anything that is old. Many people despise America because it is too new.

There is no doubt that the old has a certain sentimental value. H. G. Wells says that when every house is heated by electricity millionaires will have smoke coming out of their chimneys to give them an antique appearance-artificial smoke.

At Hampton Court in England is a grapevine which brings the government more than six thousand dellars a year.

Only a little of the money is derived from the grapes it bears. Most of it comes from admission paid to see the vine because it is almost 160 years old.

There is only one thing that interests man more than the new.

Anything that endures-whether it be a bit of canvas, a scrap of ancient oriental tapestry, an Eutruscan wine jar, a bit of Mayan inscription on a volcanic rock from the forests of Guatemala, a printed page, or a lofty sequoia redwood-interests and fascinates

The fact that it has existed from the time his unknown ancestors lived, and will continue to resist the ravages of time long after he is dead, has something to do with his interest.

Mortal man looking at something which contains a touch of immortality is awed and fascinated.
