

Local Happenings

Ranger Geo. Clark and R. H. Lane of Lexington made a trip out to Arbutuck last Thursday, and after hitting the timber line they had to buck the snow, managing to make it to within about two miles of the station. At Dorian cabin there was 16 inches of old snow, and it began snowing on Thursday afternoon at about 6:00 o'clock, and was still at it when these gentlemen left on their return to town at 11 o'clock Friday. About ten inches of snow had fallen in this time. It is the opinion of Mr. Clark that there is a shortage of snow in the mountains for the time of year, but plenty of time left in which to have it pile up. Mr. Lane was interested in getting a wood allotment, and during the time the ranger was there he marked trees sufficient for 100 cords of wood. A number of different parties are busy in that locality now cutting cord wood.

J. J. Nys returned home on Monday from Portland, coming up with Roy Missidine. Mr. Nys reports that his little daughter, Kathryn, is now at the Doernbecker hospital where she is slowly recovering from the effects of her relapse after a spell of flu that had kept her confined to bed at the Nys home in Heppner for a period of 23 days. Mrs. Nys will remain at Portland while the daughter is convalescing.

Sam Hughes was called to The Dalles on Friday by the very serious illness of his brother, John, who is suffering from a stroke of paralysis, and is now under the care of two physicians in that city, and in a very serious condition. Mr. Hughes was formerly a resident of this county, being engaged in the mercantile business at Hardman for a number of years before going to Fossil, where he served for eight years as postmaster during the Wilson administration.

Jas. Murtha, prominent sheepman of Condon, was a visitor here on Friday, remaining over until Saturday. Conditions on Rock creek range have not been the best this fall and winter and it has been necessary to do a lot of feeding. While here Mr. Murtha was looking after business affairs, and being accompanied by Mrs. Murtha, they enjoyed a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Monahan.

It is reported from Ione that Ellis Minor suffered the loss of a number of ewes and lambs that were caught in the storm on the hills north of that place last Friday. Mr. Minor was moving his band of ewes to the Cool ranch below Ione, preparatory to the lambing season, but the call of nature could not be postponed because of weather conditions, hence the loss suffered by Mr. Minor.

John Pieper, pioneer farmer of Pieper's canyon, was a Saturday visitor in this city. Mr. Pieper was hoping for a good fall of snow, and we are glad to say that whether he had ordered it or not, this week has brought what might be considered a fair supply.

Mrs. M. L. Curran is in a Portland hospital recovering from a recent operation, which it is expected will keep her in the city for several weeks. During her absence her daughter, Mrs. Jared C. Aiken, is in charge of the Curran Hat shop.

Clyde Saling arrived from Corvallis on Wednesday. He will go out to the C. H. Bartholomew ranch at Pine City, where he will work during the coming season. Mr. Saling has spent several summers at the Bartholomew place.

Circuit court is scheduled to convene for the adjourned December term on January 29, with Judge Fee presiding. The jury venire drawn for December has been held over.

John C. Ball, who has been confined to his bed for the past two weeks, suffering with influenza, is reported to be improving, and is now able to be up a little.

M. L. Case came home last evening from Portland where he accompanied his son, Jean, who underwent an operation at the hands of specialists in the city.

H. L. Holboke, who now resides in Clark's canyon, was a visitor in the city on Monday.

Robert Jarmon of Echo, sophomore in engineering at Corvallis, was one of the men who placed on the first rifle team at the end of the second week of firing. The firing of intercollegiate challenge matches started January 14 and will continue until March 9. A week is given to the firing of matches. Every week the R. O. T. C. varsity rifle team competes against several teams. More than 60 colleges have been challenged and accepted.—Echo News.

K. G. Warner, flockmaster of Pilot Rock and retiring president of the Oregon Wool Growers association, spent a few hours at Heppner on Saturday, looking after business. Mr. Warner served for three years as president of the association of wool men, in which capacity he gave splendid satisfaction.

Oral Scott was the victim of an automobile accident Tuesday morning when the newly fallen snow caused his car to turn over at the intersection of the Blackhorse road with the O-W. Highway. No personal injury resulted and the only damage to the car was a bent steering rod.

Roy Campbell, Social Ridge farmer, was a visitor in Heppner on Monday, just before it began to snow. A big covering of the beautiful over the wheat fields of that section will be of great benefit, as there was a shortage so far of necessary moisture.

The Eastern Star Cheer club will meet at the home of Mrs. Earl Gordon, First National apartments, on Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Business will be the election of officers for the coming year, and a good attendance of the membership is desired.

Frank Turner returned on Saturday from Portland. He went to the city with J. J. Nys and family to take their little daughter Kathryn to the hospital. He was accompanied home by Mrs. C. J. Walker who was returning from a trip to Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Goodman, who have been guests at the home of their son, Dean T. Goodman and family for several weeks, departed for their home at Portland on Sunday, being taken as far as Arlington by their son.

Dr. and Mrs. Fred E. Farrow and son Freddie returned Saturday evening from San Diego, where they were called by the illness and death of Mr. Farrow's father, who died from pneumonia following an attack of influenza.

Mrs. M. L. Curran, who underwent a major operation at St. Vincent's hospital in Portland the past week, is reported to be getting along well, and is being cared for by her daughter, Helene, a graduate nurse.

John Farley, high school student, who in hours out of school clerks for D. A. Wilson, is very ill this week at his home, suffering from influenza.

Harold Cohn and Garnet Barratt were visitors in Pendleton on Friday, and while there attended a meeting of the Pendleton lodge of Elks.

Harold Dobyns, district supervisor of government trappers for the U. S. Biological survey, was in Heppner Tuesday.

Born—At Heppner hospital on Friday, January 18, to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Baldwin of this city, an 8½ pound son.

Ed Kelly, farming the J. O. Turner ranch at Swaggart's buttes, was shopping in the city on Saturday.

Harlan McCurdy was a business visitor in the city Tuesday from his farm home in the Ione vicinity.

Mrs. Harold Case is in Portland this week on business.

WOULD HARNES COLUMBIA. Farmers Union News.

The little model of the Columbia river steamer Harvest Queen, which graced the speakers' table at the recent meeting in Portland of the Pacific Northwest Agricultural Rate Conference, must have had a lovely time, for not since the days when its own prototype and the Twin City, the Empire and the Joseph N. Teal plied the Columbia river, have braver words been said for an open river with truck and railroad lines feeding a capable water system of transportation for Southeastern Oregon and Southern Idaho.

Not since earlier days, either, has there been a larger mustering of forces friendly to the proposal that 300 miles of water running to the sea should be put at work.

Government operation of a transportation system on the Columbia, by the Inland Waterways or some similar corporation, and immediate approval of the Umatilla rapids project will be urged upon federal authorities with all the weight which membership in the conference can muster, and with active assistance of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, directors of which several days later unanimously approved the proposal to open the upper Columbia and Snake rivers to either barge or river boat transportation.

H. R. Richards of The Dalles, after being re-elected as chairman of the conference, was empowered to appoint an executive committee with power to act on any questions that may arise in regard to river transportation, and this committee undoubtedly will keep an interested eye on events at the Eastern Oregon Wheat League "outlook" conference at Arlington, February 11 to 13, when the matter of better

Milady's Beauty Secrets
By Helena Rubinstein

All orators are dumb when beauty pleads.—Shakespeare.

If you have begun in early maturity to give your hair the attention and care that it needs and deserves, you will probably have very little need to pay special attention to these needs I am outlining today. However, I am not very optimistic on this subject. I am very much afraid that the average woman thinks of the nightly brushing as excellent for any other woman but herself, and that even her shampoos are either of the bit and miss variety or they are professionally given, in which case the hair is usually subjected to the bad after effects of the drying machines.

There are many reasons, even a few natural ones for unhealthy hair. Tight hats is a general alibi and there is some good sense to it, since the vogue for close fitting felts has certainly done much to shut out proper ventilation and to obscure the hair from the strengthening effects of light and air. Altogether, there are many reasons for poor hair, and the correctives are so simple that I am sure you will find it only a matter of a little thought and effort to develop new strength and beauty even to the most faded and scant locks.

The most deservedly popular of all special hair treatments is the hot oil. I have actually known of instances where a woman considerably past her youth has stimulated new growth and beautiful growth through bi-weekly hot oil treatments. The method is as follows: Heat from one to two tablespoonfuls of balsam oil in a little enamel cup. Make sure that it is quite warm, and yet not so hot it can injure the surface of the scalp. Part the hair in small subdivisions and then rub the hot oil into the partings, using either your fingertips or a small toothbrush kept especially for the purpose. Be sure that the entire surface of the scalp has been treated. Then bind up your head in a warm towel and allow the oil to remain on for from two hours to an overnight period. In the morning, shampoo with an herbal shampoo, using plenty of water and working up a generous lather. Rinse thoroughly and repeat the application of shampoo.

You will find that by using the type of shampoo specially designed for dry hair, that the effects of your hot oil treatment will be doubly beneficial.

For dry and falling hair, the next most common trouble is dandruff. Dandruff is a disease. It is not, as so many people think, a natural condition developing from an abnormally dry scalp. The only sensible way to treat the condition is through the regular use of a medicated dandruff lotion.

transportation, with special reference to a barge line down the Columbia will be taken up.

W. W. Harrah of Pendleton, who appeared on the Portland program with an emphatic declaration that "it is time we ask that the river be used," is chairman of the committee on transportation preparing for the Arlington conference and is expected to bring in some very pertinent material regarding barge lines, feeder truck lines, freight rates in general and related matters. On his committee are most of the directors of the Eastern Oregon Wheat League, which is an outgrowth of the growers' conference at Moro three years ago.

"All we ask," said Chairman Richards, "is to use for the betterment of mankind the great water that passes our doors. Times have changed since the railroads were built; roads have been provided into the back country; and we must have cheaper transportation for our products."
