Heart Heart

BY JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

Man Immortal

Of course he is. Everything in nature—in and upon this big, wonderful world, proclaims the fact to thinking man. It is for us to see and know.

There is not a chemical atom in man's physical body that can be destroyed, saved by the All-wise Being who created it. For that matter, nothing that is in or upon this earth can be annihilated, save by its Creator.

Suppose I burn this sheet of paper, on which I am putting these thoughts; a few particles of ash will remain. But have I destroyed anything? Nothing—except the form of matter, and mere form is not substance.

I have simply dispersed a few atoms, which were clinging to each other, in conformity with fixed laws through which Man may operate, but over which he has no control.

of pellagra, and his long studies demonstrated how that dread disease could be eliminated.

Now Dr. Goldberger is dead, leaving little money for his family. Legislation has been urged to provide a pension for his family now that his comparatively small salary has stopped. We are in favor of this legislation, and of steps being taken to protect the families and cherish the memories of all of our Soldiers of Science.

To the Editor Gazette Times:

I am presuming that yours is the official paper of our county, then why is it that we never see published the proceedings of the county court? As I understand the official paper, it is the method to keep the people informed as to how their money is being spent. And I for one, if the court is playing football

BAPTISM AND THE LORD'S SUPPER

Matthew 23: 19, 20; I Corinthians 11: 23-26.

REV. SAMUEL D. PRICE, D. D.

The two sacraments in the Christian Church are named in this title. The dictionary defines "sacrament" as an outward and visible sign of an inward and spiritual grace, instituted by Jesus Christ. To the Roman soldier the word meant an oath or pledge, that was taken especially when about to go forth for war or on a mission for his country.

The Scripture portions, aside from those named above, for intimate study are Matthew 3:13-17; Acts 2:38-41; Romans 6:1-14. Then it is recommended that you turn to each word in both a general and Bible dictionary.

Baptism is introduced by John the Baptist during his preaching in the wilderness. He taught that people who became penitent because of their sins and purposed to live a different life should give public testimony thereto as they received the rite of Baptism, which would signify this inward working of grace. The Old Testament has symbolic cleansing. Jesus, coming from Nazareth, sought this Baptism, not that He had committed any sin, but that He might thus formally take our law place before Jehovah.

When the Risen Lord gave His great commission He instructed the apostles, and their followers, to go everywhere, proclaim repentance from sin through the Crucified One and then direct the converts to register the consciousness of the change of heart and their purpose after now obedience in this rite of Baptism.

The Lord's Supper was instituted just after the observance of the Jewish Passover in the upper room in Jerusalem. Unleavened bread was used as a symbol and also the cup, concerning which He said in invitation, "Drink ye all of it." The rich meaning is set forth by Paul in the passage from I Corinthians. This Scripture is used by every Christian minister as he celebrates this Sacrament. The symbolism brings to mind the body and blood of Jesus Christ, which were given in sacrifice on the cross. The ministrant will break a piece of the bread and pour the grape juice during the service. Prayer is offered repeatedly, and particularly in setting these elements apart for this holy use. A very helpful book to give to any first communicant is "Coming to the Communion," by Rev. Charles R. Erdman, D.D.

This Memorial Supper has also a promise and links between the Ascension and the Second Advent, which is a truth to be believed by all Christians and not only by those who especially emphasize the Return of our Lord. Another name for this Supper is Eucharist. This means "Giving of thanks." Solemnity of course inheres in such a memorial and pledge, but it should also be rich with joy because of the blessings that have been made possible. In the service the believer accepts what has been done for him and likewise pledges renewed and full obedience to his Saviour.
