

Local Happenings

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Curran are doing some extensive improvement work to their residence property in southeast Heppner. Besides redecorating the interior, they are moving the garage to the rear of the property and are preparing for new flower gardens and other landscaping features. They expect to be moved into their home in the near future. Among other improvements Mr. and Mrs. Curran have installed a new electric range and electric refrigerator.

Chas. H. Latourell visited with friends at Tillamook during the past week, and while there enjoyed some salmon fishing. He was accompanied on the journey by Geo. Dykstra who reports a mighty fine trip, though it rained a little on the way. George does not consider himself much of a fisherman and his luck was poor, but Mr. Latourell landed a number of the big fish.

Egbert Young, Eight Mile farmer, was looking after business in town on Saturday. Spring plowing is moving along rapidly out his way and Mr. Young states the ground works finer than it has for many seasons. Some overly wet spots still abound in the fields, but little inconvenience is caused and in the main the soil turns over easily and pulverizes well.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Flatau of Portland spent the week-end at Heppner, visiting at the home of Mrs. Flatau's daughter, Mrs. Miller Huston. A son of Mrs. Flatau, Ralph Boyd, also resides at Heppner, being employed at the J. C. Penney company store. Mr. and Mrs. Flatau returned to Portland on Sunday.

Walter Smith was up from Portland over the week end, looking after business at Ione and Heppner. He is now engaged in business in the city with Joe Knappenberg and they are putting out a tooth paste that is reported to be very fine and meeting with success in the promotion of a new industry.

Leo Gorgor of the firm of Gorgor Bros., extensive grain growers of the north Ione section, was looking after business here on Saturday. Mr. Gorgor is hoping for warmer weather, assisted by a few warm rains, which he feels will be just the proper thing to bring along the grain.

John Miller, who farms northeast of Lexington, was here on Monday accompanied by Mrs. Miller and their young son. He is one of the wheatraisers of that section turning from mule power to tractor farming, having recently purchased an International machine to do the work.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Robison of Eight Mile were visitors here on Saturday. Mrs. Robison is teacher of the Willow Way school, and came to the city to take in the declamation contest.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Cohn departed by motor for Ellensburg, Wash., on Sunday for a visit of several days at the home of Mrs. Cohn's relatives.

John S. Johnson, living north of Ione, was in this city on Saturday for a short time, while looking after business.

Austin Smith and wife were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Smith in this city. They now reside at The Dalles where Mr. Smith is engaged in running a service station.

District Attorney Notson was a visitor at Pendleton yesterday. He went over to consult with Judge Fee on legal matters, and also to attend a meeting of the bar association for the 6th judicial district.

Glenn Corey and Ashford Maddox of The Dalles made an official visit to the local office of Pacific Power & Light company on Friday. The former is district manager and the latter chief clerk of the company.

Clyde Wright of Rhea creek was in town on Monday. He reports considerable raise in the waters of the creek as a result of the warm wind of Sunday which melted the snow on the foothills.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Morgan and Mrs. Frank Engelman were Ione folks in Heppner on Saturday afternoon and evening to take in the declamatory contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Anderson have been enjoying a visit from their daughter, Mrs. Charles Crites, of Newberg, at their farm home on Eight Mile.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young, of Ione, were in the city on Saturday to attend the declamatory contest at the school auditorium.

Chas. Edwards, was in the city from his home on Butter creek Tuesday, enjoying greeting his old-time Heppner friends.

R. M. Akers, Ione merchant, accompanied by two sons and David H. Grabill, spent a few hours here on Monday.

ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH.
Rev. Thomas J. Brady, Pastor.

Next Sunday the only mass in Heppner will be at 8 o'clock and not at 8:30 as usual, the reason for this half hour advance is that the pastor will go to Boardman immediately after the second mass there at 11 o'clock in Root's hall. There will be no evening devotions in Heppner on that day as the pastor will remain in Boardman to attend to certain matters in connection with the erection of the new church there. The entire Boardman congregation is expected to assist at this meeting. Plans will be laid for construction work upon the new church which will be called St. Mary's Church of the Immaculate Conception.

On next Saturday morning there will be mass in the church in Heppner in preparation for first holy communion of the children, and for confirmation. This mass will be at 7 o'clock in the morning and will be followed by instruction in Christian Doctrine.

The congregation extends its prayerful sympathy and condolence to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Farley and their immediate relatives, over the death of little William Farley who passed away in Pendleton April 13, and who was buried from the church in Heppner at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Monday, April 15. A high mass had been offered by the pastor on Monday at 8 o'clock, before a large and devout crowd.

Two Lexington Men Get Mention for Mythical O. S. C. Eleven.

Dallas "Dal" Ward, '27

Harvey "Pap Hayseed" McAllister, '27

When Harvey McAllister attended Oregon State college he was known as "Pap Hayseed," and though he played football there in the 90's he is still remembered as one of the best centers ever produced at the college. He may be a trifle fleshier now than he was at the time the accompanying picture was taken, thirty odd years wrecking their change in physique as they have made the football of today a different game from that of the 90's. Still who would mistake the likeness of the stalwart Lexington youth?

Oscar Arnerberg, '29, has made an attempt to pick an all-time Oregon State college football team from interviews with men who have been in close touch with campus teams over a long period of years. In telling the results in the current issue of the Oregon State Monthly, he says: "Every age can not have its Howard Maple for a quarterback nor can every Oregon State eleven have its Pap Hayseed for a center. But the combination of years can have its combination of Maple, Pap Hayseed (Harvey McAllister), and Chrisman, and Keck and Hubbard and so on that will together form an eleven that could be practically invincible.

"Just why no one has heretofore picked an all-time Oregon State football team is not known unless it is the fear of the consequences. For each college generation has had its bright lights in the football firmament and each generation jealously maintains its luminaries were the brightest. Yet McAllister played in the 90's while Maple did not hold the stage until the late 20's, but each was supreme in his department."

Lexington was not content with producing Pap Hayseed to make a niche in the O. S. C. football hall of fame. "Dal" Ward, who played with many of the same bunch who treated the New York Violets to the famous 1928 Thanksgiving party, and who is mentioned for a place at end on the mythical all-time team, also hails from our neighboring city.

Results of Thinking

Benefits from never wasting anything are clearly emphasized if we, as a scientist would, think about the matter, consider our condition and possibilities of "arriving" if we are prudent.

Just notice how people who save regularly do succeed.
