

Local Happenings

Attending the convention of the Churches of Christ of eastern Oregon in Heppner this week, is Elijah V. Stivers of Eugene, Oregon, representing the preachers' pension department of the United Christian Missionary society. Mr. Stivers was pastor of First Christian church of Eugene for more than ten years, but owing to a physical breakdown about a year ago, he has been compelled to give up pastoral work for a time. He is accompanied by Mrs. Stivers and her mother, Mrs. Clara Esson. Mrs. Esson is now quite well recovered from a protracted illness.

Chas. Hemrich was a visitor here over Monday from his Willamette valley farm. He is located some 19 miles southwest of Portland, has a farm of 105 acres and 70 of this in crop of oats and barley that is looking fine. Summer is on in the valley now and vegetation is growing wonderfully. After caring for some business matters here on Monday, Mr. Hemrich departed for home. We almost forgot to mention that Charley arrived in time for the picnic at the Olden farm on Rhea creek Sunday, where he did his bit in disposing of the fine dinner.

Richard Peterson spent Wednesday in Heppner from his new home on the John Day above Kimberley. He reports that weather conditions have been pretty good over that way, but a little rain is needed, as only showers have visited the Kimberley section recently. Mr. Peterson is milking ten cows and sends his cream to Heppner, and he expects to increase his production of butterfat as time goes on.

Ed Buschke states that he has in 1100 acres of wheat on his place, known as the Schriver ranch southwest of Ione a few miles, and it is looking good now, that the grain has got ahead of the tar weed. Mr. Buschke has 900 acres of summerfallow that is in excellent condition. Mr. Buschke was in town Wednesday to consult a physician, being threatened with a case of erysipelas.

E. H. Turner, who farms out north of Ione, was looking after business here on Wednesday. He reports that weeds are bad in his particular locality, and further that the rains have passed them up so far this season. Good rains at this time would help immensely in giving the wheat a run on the weeds, and he hopes they will soon come.

Mrs. John McCullough and daughters Odile and May Groshens were here for the funeral of the late John McCullough. They were driven up from Portland by Charles Groshens, nephew of Mrs. McCullough, and the party returned to their home in the city on Wednesday.

W. V. Pedro started shearing his sheep on Tuesday. He was in town Monday getting his wool sacks, and stated to the editor of this paper that he expected to be one busy man for a short time while the wool was being gathered and the sheep off to the summer range.

W. F. Mahrt, Deico light dealer of Hardman was in Heppner on Tuesday, having just returned from a state meeting of company representatives held in Eugene. He reports things coming along well in the Hardman neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Moore departed Sunday morning for Portland, where a physician will be consulted on behalf of Mrs. Moore, who has not been well of late. Philip Mahoney drove Mr. and Mrs. Moore to the city.

Albert Adkins, who will represent Willow Lodge No. 66, I. O. O. F. at the grand lodge in session this week at Medford, departed on Sunday for Gresham, being accompanied by Mrs. Adkins and the children, and Mrs. Alice Adkins, his mother. After a short visit at Cottage Grove on their return, Mrs. Alice Adkins will go on to Centralia, Wash., to be with the family of her son, Harley, while he and his wife are on a vacation of two weeks in the east.

Charley Groshens, a former Heppner boy, but for many years a resident of Portland where he is now engaged in the garage business, came up from the city on Monday to attend the funeral of the late John McCullough on Tuesday. He reports business in his line in the city as pretty quiet these days.

Mr. and Mrs. David Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Crawford motored to Portland Saturday, where Mr. Wilson was called to see a representative of one of his wholesale houses. They returned home Sunday evening.

Harold Cohn, who has been in Portland with his wife and young son, Richard, returned home on Sunday. He reports that the boy is now taking treatment under a specialist, but the outcome is uncertain.

Earl Hallock, cashier of Farmers & Stockgrowers National bank, and an enthusiastic disciple of Isaac Walton, motored over to East lake Saturday evening to have a go at the big eastern brook trout.

It is the suggestion of Case Furniture company that all parties who desire flowers for Decoration Day, get their orders in early; they will thus be assured of better flowers and prompt delivery.

Dempsey Boyer, Monument rancher, was a visitor at Heppner the first of the week. Mr. Boyer is in the dairy and stock business and reports that he is progressing nicely.

Mat Halvorsen, Ione wheatraiser, and Cole Smith, warehouseman, were early Monday visitors in Heppner, spending a short time here looking after business matters.

B. R. Patterson departed the end of the week for Portland where he will spend a week. Mr. Dagenais has charge of the drug store during Mr. Patterson's absence.

Mrs. E. L. Vinton and son Dick of Coquille were in Heppner on Tuesday to attend the funeral of John McCullough. She departed for home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Barlow, Rhea creek residents, were in town for a while on Tuesday.
