

Hints for the Home

by Nancy Hart

Are you afflicted with a dead-white bathroom in these days when everyone else is having gay, colorful tiled baths with smart touches of black in the fixtures? Grieve not—for you can easily transform your dull room by using colored linens and accessories and a clever treatment for the walls.

Fancy a cloud-blue papered wall splattered with silver stars, wood-work in the same blue, with thin voile curtains of palest pink and a bath mat in French blue and coral.

Or picture on the wall above the bath a decorative panel of paper—perhaps a sea-gull or golden motif—on a ground of pale sea-green paper; accessories showing a subtle touch of black.

You can waterproof almost any paper, you know, by hanging it as usual and when dry, applying two coats of ordinary glue size. When thoroughly dry, paint with two coats of white waterproof varnish, and you'll have a glazed surface that may be washed with soap and water.

As a Scot Scrambles Eggs
Sauté a chopped onion in 3 tbs. butter, then remove the onion and add 1½ cups cooked tomato, 2 teaspoons sugar, salt and pepper to taste and 5 eggs well beaten. Cook the same as scrambled eggs and serve on hot buttered toast.

A Spicy Salad Dressing
For beet, lettuce or string bean salad try this dressing which uses 1 ts. salt, 1¼ ts. mustard, pepper and paprika to taste, 1 tbl. vinegar, ¼ cup olive oil, 1 tbl. horseradish, 2 tbs. tomato catsup, 2 chopped chives. Mix dry ingredients, add vinegar, catsup and horseradish and a lump of ice. Gradually add oil and beat thoroughly.

Spots on Wall Paper
To remove grease spots on the wall, rub the paper gently with a flannel cloth which has been moistened with alcohol.

THE EXAMINATION OF FOOD-HANDLERS

(From State Board of Health.)

Communicable diseases are often conveyed by food. Food-handlers should, therefore, appreciate the necessity of being frequently examined. By so doing, business losses and the illness and possible death of consumers of infected food will be prevented.

The need for the supervision of milk supplies has been demonstrated by a number of outbreaks of septic sore throat. There is no doubt of the milk-borne character of this infection as it has been traced to milk in a number of epidemics. Had the milk been properly pasteurized the outbreaks would not have occurred. However, it is not to pasteurization that your attention is being called at this time but rather to what might be done to prevent infection getting into the milk.

Septic sore throat can usually be traced not only to one particular dairy but to one particular cow. She in turn received her infection from a human being suffering with the disease. Had the milkster who was ill taken proper precautions the epidemic could have been averted. The milkster undoubtedly knew that he was not well but did not realize that he was sick enough to need a physician.

What should a milkster do under these circumstances? He should keep away from the cows and everything connected with the dairy. The employer should notify the health officer without delay so that a thorough investigation can be made. The inconvenience caused by the temporary loss of a milkster will be little when compared with the cost of a preventable epidemic.

Persons engaged in handling food should appreciate the fact that many communicable diseases can be transmitted through food. If the are ill they should think of the many people whose lives are endangered. Many lives have been lost from septic sore throat and other preventable communicable diseases. Persons who harbor disease germs but show no symptoms of the disease are known as "carriers." Carriers can only be detected by painstaking laboratory examinations. Carriers must be isolated and prevented from engaging in food handling. All persons who in any way come in contact with food should be free from communicable diseases and not be carriers. A minimum of human contact with food should be insisted upon.

WICKLANDER-BAKER.

A quiet wedding was solemnized May 16 at Arlington at 7:30 p. m. when Chas. Wicklander and Miss Lily Baker of Milwaukee, Wis., were united in marriage by the Rev. Alexander Hawthorne. The bride wore a beautiful dress of olive green silk crepe and grey fur, and carried a lovely bouquet of locust and chestnut blossoms. Mr. and Mrs. Brice Dillabough stood up with the couple. The ring ceremony was beautifully said. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Royal Rands and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mead. Immediately after the wedding, a lovely dinner party was enjoyed by all at the Arlington hotel. We are glad to welcome Mrs. Wicklander in the community and extend our heartiest wishes to the happy couple.—Boardman correspondent.

"You hit your husband with a chair? Pray tell me why you did it, Mabel."

"I did it," sighed the lady fair, "Because I could not lift the table."

as Plymouth Dealer

EXTREME care is exercised in choosing Plymouth dealers to make sure that each new organization is amply equipped in facilities and in personnel to render all present and future Plymouth owners the high quality of attention and service that the public expects of a representative of Chrysler Motors.

This new dealer in your community, like Plymouth dealers everywhere, is pledged to policies of business ethics in keeping with the character and excellence of the Plymouth car itself.

Today's Plymouth combines a fine quality appeal with its price appeal. Its full-size roominess and comfort—its ruggedness of construction—its extra power—its new engineering features—its more remarkable pick-up—its marvelous smoothness—its typically Chrysler smartness—make it the real value investment of the low-priced field.

Plymouth has, too, the great safety assurance of Chrysler weatherproof internal-expanding 4-wheel hydraulic brakes—and is so well designed in every way that it leads its field in every phase of economical operation and upkeep.

Visit the showroom of this new Plymouth dealer and examine the fine array of cars. Above all, take out a Plymouth and drive it yourself. You'll find the experience a revelation. 262
