Woman's Common Sense Mellon Quotes Franklin Bells to Protect Birds The Kentucky Derby

Naming a Commission to study law enforcement, President Hoover wisely includes one woman, Dr. Ada L. Comstock.

Her experience as an educator will enable her to tell other members that the turn toward crime is taken in childhood.

Furthermore, women's common-sense often enables them to take short cuts that men would not find.

Secretary Mellon will not resign. He himself is authority for that statement.

That is good news for the whole country, particularly good news for President Hoover, who understands business and knows what it means to have in the treasury the ablest business man in America.

Mr. Mellon says, quoting Benjamin Franklin, "I am deficient, I am afraid, in the Christian virtue of resignation."

Virginia Hogan, twelve-year-old Irish-American girl from Omaha, wins the National Spelling Bee. And, this will surprise you. Teru Hayashi, a Japanese boy, was number four in the competition. "Panacea" eliminated him.

President Hoover's Commission on Prosperity, outlining our gigantic resources, added that Americans had barely scratched the surface of national wealth.

As an efficiency engineer, President Hoover may suggest a way of cutting down waste.

We make a great fuss, as we should do, about ten billions lent to Europe, and we waste that amount every year.

At Riverside, a suburb of Chicago, citizens like cats and birds that do not like each other.

A local ordinance now compels owners to put bells around their cats' necks to warn and protect birds.

Cats without bells will be executed.

Those that like birds and cannot do without cats will adopt the idea elsewhere.

If acquired characteristics can be inherited, as undoubtedly they can, after some generations cats will steal up on the birds without ringing the bell until the final spring.

The Kentucky Derby was won by a small racehorse named "Clyde Van Dusen," weighing only 835 pounds, called by reporters "an equine mouse."

The equine mouse had "Man-O-War" for a father, and from that father it got energy enabling it to kick mud into the faces of other horses for a mile and a quarter.

Some rich men leave sons that are mental mice.

Nature attends to that to prevent a race of super-men. The rich father's money holds the son back.

Beauty Secrets

By HELENA RUBINSTEIN.

Care for the Eyes Out-of-Doors
How about your eyes? Do they fill with tears and give you a drowsy look after you have been out in the wind awhile? And do they smart and burn at night, look bloodshot, reddened and inflamed? And are there fine little lines deepening at the corners and on the lids?

Important at every time, but especially important during the outdoor season is regular daily care of the eyes. They depend for their health and lustre upon the blood and circulation. At this time the blood is usually thin and the circulation sluggish so that the eyes are not properly fed or refreshed. Winds whip against them, irritating the delicate tissues. Dust is blown into them, causing further irritation. And the bright sunlight puts additional strain upon the delicate eye nerves and muscles, besides furnishing cause for squint-lines around the eyes.

Wash your eyes night and morning, using an eye-cup and a good eye lotion which you may make yourself by dissolving boric acid in boiling water, in the proportion of one tablespoon to a pint.

To strengthen the eye muscles practice this exercise as you lie in bed at night before sleeping or upon waking in the morning:

Roll the eyes toward the ceiling as far back as you can see, then down until you are looking at the tip of your nose. Repeat about ten times.

Then turn the eyes slowly to the left side and back toward the right side. Then look downward, then upward and to each side again. Continue thus, doing each movement about five times.

Now roll the eyes all around three times, then close them. Repeat until you have done this exercise twelve times.

IT IS A CASE OF HOW WELL DRESSED WE ARE, NOT HOW CHEAP

Every man has some regard and respect for his own appearance. None of us want to be a distinguished character for the cheapest kind of odd figure bargain clothes.

It isn't how cheap and sloven we want to look. It's how well dressed we want to be. And that's just why men who want to gressive go to a recognize-look better and more proed tailor—the man who knows the business in other ways than commercial bargaining.

Have your clothes Tailor Made and there will be less guess work and no feeling of discomfort.

They cost less in the end.
