

NORTH MORROW FAIR AT IRRIGON SUCCESS

Club Work Big Feature; O. S. C. Scholarships Awarded.

(Mrs. A. T. Herlein, Boardman Correspondent.)

The most successful North Morrow County fair yet held closed Saturday night with a big dance by O'Sullivan's orchestra playing. The fair was held at Irrigon September 6-7, with a good display of products of the project. The monstrosities in the vegetable line were monstrous, the sunflower heads were almost as large as wash tubs, the melons looked luscious, the fancy-work displayed excellent handiwork, the grapes looked tempting. That canning is not a lost art in this modern age was evident by the rows on end of fruits, jellies, preserves, pickles and meats, but that the modern housewife prefers to have her bread baked by a baker instead of the drudgery of the old method was shown by the lack of entries in that department, only three loaves being entered and one plate of rolls. However, there were a number of delicious-looking cakes and pies.

Jess Badger was superintendent of the vegetables, Frank Frederickson of the fruits and melons, Chas. Saling of the farm crops, Hugh Grimm of bees and honey, Roscoe Williams of poultry, Mrs. Geo. Haskell and Miss Snow McCoy domestic art, Mrs. Smith flowers and plants which were exceptionally beautiful, Mrs. Reliks, Mrs. Alquist and Mrs. Nick Falier domestic science which had the greatest number of entries, Geo. Haskell livestock, always a small exhibit for local ranchers do not like to take their milk cows away from home for it always means less milk in the pail for a day or so.

Outstanding was the boys' and girls' club work, Mrs. Lucy Rodgers superintendent of sewing and cooking exhibits and Chas. W. Smith superintendent of boys' exhibits. That Mrs. Rodgers and Mr. Smith are beginning to see the fruits of their labors in this work was shown by the fact that there were 98 exhibitors this year. Last year where one calf and a few sheep were shown, this year there were 19 calves and 25 sheep. Irrigon deserves special praise for her club work, most of her clubs completing work 100 per cent. To Mrs. W. C. Isom who had charge of sewing, Mrs. I. Coryell, cooking, Frank Frederickson, sheep, and Mr. Leicht, calf, should go much credit for this success. W. O. King, leader of the Boardman calf and lamb clubs, had an excellent showing, most of his boys and girls also completing their work. A truck load of calves and sheep were taken from here. All the first prizes in the lamb club went to Boardman members. It is hot here in the summer and children lose interest unless they have constant encouragement, help and prodding on the part of both parents and leader. There were 98 exhibitors this year. Miss Helen Cowgill of O. S. C. judged the sewing and cooking and Richard Kuhener also from the college judged the sheep and calf club work.

Prize winners in the various divisions were: sewing, division 1, Francine King first, Bessie Wilson Francine King, Boardman, first, Bessie Wilson, Irrigon, second—Francine was the only girl to complete her work in this club; division 2 sewing, Dorothy Isom, Irrigon, first, Muri Farrans, Hardman, second; cooking division 1, Norine Olson, Boardman, first, Lillian Hango, Boardman, second; division 2, Dorothy Isom, Irrigon, first, Eleanor Corey, Irrigon, second, Owen Bleakman of Hardman received first for his work in the garden club and his sister Neva second.

In the lamb club Delbert Machan of Boardman received first for the best ewe raised lamb for market, and Freda Frederickson of Irrigon was second. John Partlow, Boardman, had the best bummer lamb for breeding purposes, and Donald Isom, Irrigon, had second best. George Wicklander of Boardman had the best bummer lamb for market purposes, and Geo. Graves, Boardman, the best ewe raised lamb for breeding purposes. George Wicklander received the blue ribbon for the best bummer lamb for market, Clayton Shane, Boardman, second. Clayton had an especially well trained lamb which "led like a lamb." That a bummer lamb has an equal chance with a ewe-raised lamb was shown by some of the fine specimens exhibited. The boys and girls showed a lack of training in handling their animals at judging time but since this was their first attempt they will no doubt show marked improvement next year. The calves were shown in four divisions, the Jersey Jr. blue ribbon going to Mabel Cool of Ione with Ernest Johnston of Irrigon second. Jersey Sr. first went to Arthur Collins of Irrigon and second to Calvin Allen, also of Irrigon. Wiley Benefiel had the best Holstein in the senior class and Kenneth Duggan, Boardman, second. Delbert Machan of Boardman won first in the Holstein Jr., and Verna Jones of Irrigon second.

Through the efforts of County Agent Smith money was raised from various sources—contributed by Heppner banks, business houses and interested farmers—for the champion in each division, and a $15 club scholarship to attend summer school at O. S. C. will be given. The fortunate winners of these scholarships are Eleanor Carey, Irrigon cooking; Dorothy Isom, Irrigon sewing; Owen Bleakman, Hardman garden; George Graves, Boardman sheep; Mabel Cool, Ione calf; Myrtle Green, Elight Mile poultry. Mrs. Cool of Ione has offered a purebred Jersey calf to the winner of the champion calf next year. Saturday morning the 4-H clubs had a parade, lambs and calves being led by their owners and the cooking and sewing clubs forming groups of marchers and with the 13 calves and 25 lambs made quite a pretentious array. In the afternoon the various clubs put on an entertainment before an audience that taxed the capacity of the gymnasium. Tableaux, a playlet, musical selections, recitations, duets, etc. comprised the program with Mr. Frederickson, sheep club, receiving the prize for a clever little negro comedy skit ending with a melodramatic contest which proved popular, although some of the other numbers had taken more preparation.

The Pomona granges each had a booth this year which was a new departure and a pleasing one. Boardman carried off first prize for her booth, having scored the most points. The Willows grange booth was beautiful in colors and arrangement but Boardman had a greater variety of products. Irrigon received third. Only one farmer entered the general farm display but his was a fine booth arranged by Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Reliks. Miss Irma Dennis, home economics teacher of Heppner judged the fancy work and cooking. Walter Holt of Pendleton judged the fruits and melons and farm products.

The Boardman Home Economics club has been working all summer filling a hope chest which was on display in the booth. It is a beautiful chest and filled to capacity with things that would delight the heart of any prospective bride or mature housewife. This with a coverlet were given away.

The fair will be held next year at Boardman and it is hoped that our community will do as well as our neighbor.

Friday, September 6, was Miss Francis Spike's birthday, so Mrs. Marschat and Miss Henry entertained a few friends for the evening, having two tables of bridge. At the close of an interesting game a dainty luncheon was served. Present were Miss Katherine Brown, Eldon Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gorman, Miss Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Marschat and the honor guest, Miss Spike.

Mrs. Glen Hadley was pleased to have her sister, Mrs. Ralph Gribble and family of Oregon City with her for a visit. On Friday in addition to the Gribbles, Bert Bleakman and children and Mrs. Mary McDaniel of Hardman were overnight guests. All attended the fair on Saturday.

That greater interest is being shown each year in the fair was shown by the fact that visitors were present from Echo, Heppner, Hermiston, Ione—in fact from miles in all directions.

Dorothy Isom and Verna Jones of Irrigon were the winning demonstration team at the fair and will have a trip to the state fair where they will demonstrate. They were members of the sewing team demonstrating on Friday. It is not known whether Dorothy will get to go or not as she leaves shortly to attend the Cheno normal. If she cannot go, Mrs. Isom, club leader, must train another girl to take her place.

Mrs. Elva Perry is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Guy Barlow. She came with Mrs. Ida Harlow and daughter Juanita of Monument who returned to their home on Friday.

A sort of summer flu has been prevalent the past two weeks. The Chaffees are having a siege this week.

Mrs. Chas. Goodwin left this week for Burns where her husband is employed.

Jess Mathis drove to Burns on Tuesday, driving his truck.

On Friday evening members of the Greenfield grange put on some degree work at Irrigon—some tableaux that were well portrayed. On Saturday evening the Willows grange put on some fine floor work preceding the dance.

Mr. Kuhener of the college who judged the club livestock at the fair stated his reasons for the various decisions. Many of the sheep were thin, he stated, and a number had weak backs. He was handicapped also by having to judge Rambouillet with black face or coarse wool sheep.

One reason George Graves was awarded the championship was because of the excellent report he had, being the most complete and comprehensive of any of the reports in the sheep club and containing also the story of his work.

Boardman girls who joined the cooking and sewing clubs will have until November 1 to complete their work, and thus will be able to obtain their club pins, so if mothers will urge the girls on a bit they will complete their work. The honors in club work are unlimited for one having the patience, perseverance and ambition.

William Harju spent the past week in Pendleton visiting friends and returned Monday evening.

GAMES ON OREGON GRID LIST FOR '29

EUGENE—University of Oregon will have one of the toughest football schedules of any school on the Pacific Coast conference this season. And if Jack W. Benefiel, Oregon's graduate manager, had his way about it, California and Southern California also would have been on the Web-foot schedule.

As is, Oregon plays five conference games and an 8,200-mile trip to Miami to play University of Florida. Before the Florida encounter Oregon also meets University of Hawaii and St. Mary's college in post-season classes.

The Oregon team will travel 10,732 miles this season. Its trip to Florida from practically the uppermost northern part of the United States to the other extreme in the south-eastern direction is said to be the furthest any team will have ever traveled for any football game. The total mileage from Eugene to Miami and return is 8,205 miles. The mileage and season's schedule follows:

	Mileage
Sept. 28—Pacific at Eugene	000
Oct. 6—Stanford at Palo Alto	1,360
Oct. 12—Willamette at Eugene	000
Oct. 19—Idaho at Portland	250
Oct. 26—Washington at Seattle	664
Nov. 2—U. C. L. A. at Eugene	000
Nov. 16—Oregon State at Eugene	000
Nov. 23—U. of Hawaii at Portland	250
Nov. 28—St. Mary's at San Francisco	000
Dec. 7—Miami at Florida (St. Mary's on the way)	8,205
Total	10,732

Loose smut of grain can best be controlled by the hot water treatment, but to get successful results by this method it is essential that directions for its use be followed carefully. These directions may be obtained from the farm crops department of Oregon State college. Loose smut is not the same as the stinking smut common in the Pacific northwest.
