

Local Happenings

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cox departed on Sunday on their journey to the old home at Galax, Virginia. They will make the trip by auto, going by way of Lincoln highway to Omaha, and then turning south. On the way they contemplate making some stops to visit relatives, and expect to return home in March, traveling the southern route and north thru California. Mr. Cox had finished with the fall seeding on the farm, so he and Mrs. Cox are taking advantage of the season intervening until spring work for a good visit with the home folks in "Ol' Virginia."

Rev. and Mrs. E. V. Stivers of Eugene were visitors in this city over Monday night, leaving on Tuesday morning for Pendleton. At the Christian church on Monday evening, Mr. Stivers presented to the official board the proposed pension plan of the church, which is intended to provide funds for caring for aged and disabled ministers, and widows and children of ministers. Mr. Stivers represents the general convention of the church in this work.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Dix on Friday afternoon Miss Harriet Case entertained the Past Matrons club, at which time there were book reviews by Mrs. W. P. Mahoney who presented "Henry the Eighth," and Mrs. Harry Tamblin an essay on "Hunky." Other members of the club present were Mesdames W. E. Prun, Frank Gilliam, C. C. Patterson, C. L. Sweek, Rebecca Patterson and W. O. Dix. Dainty refreshments were served.

Wm. Kummerland, pioneer resident of Heppner flat, was looking after business here on Saturday. He reports this one of the longest drawn out dry seasons that he has experienced in many long years of residence in Morrow county, but expects everything to come out okeh, as it is a long time before another crop season rolls around, and anything might happen between now and then.

J. C. Hoskins, brother of Fred Hoskins of this county, and a one-time Heppner boy, now engaged in breeding pure bred Rambouillet sheep near Stanfield, was a Heppner business visitor Tuesday in company with M. E. Hotchkiss also of Stanfield. Mr. Hoskins reports the ram market not too good this season.

Mrs. Richard Wells arrived home on Friday evening after spending the week in Portland visiting with relatives. She is this week visiting her sister, Mrs. Knotts at Pilot Rock and with the family of D. C. Wells at Pendleton.

Harlan McCurdy, sheepman residing on Willow creek below Ione, was looking after affairs of business at Heppner on Monday.

Otto Lindstrom, extensive wheat-raiser of the Morgan section, was a business visitor in Heppner on Saturday. He had been postponing the fall seeding, owing to the continued dry weather, but stated that he could not put off the job longer and expected to start his drills this week.

Earl and Leonard Gilliam, Jim Cowins and Art Berry, the latter an insurance man from Vancouver, Wash., composed a hunting party returning from the Ukiah district the first of the week. Earl Gilliam, Mr. Cowins and Mr. Berry each bagged a fine buck.

Hugh Sproat, ex-secretary of Oregon Woolgrowers association, now with the Federal Land bank at Spokane, was here on Sunday conferring with President Mahoney of the woolgrowers, and looking after business in connection with the land bank.

Al Bergstrom, of the firm of Bergstrom and Kane, made a business trip to Pendleton on Tuesday after truck tires and rims. Al says that he made the round trip in 3 hours and 20 minutes, which may be considered pretty fair time.

Mrs. Hessie Kinny, while at work at the J. D. Cash residence on Monday, had the misfortune to receive a badly sprained ankle when she stepped on a loose board, the injury compelling her to return home while being cared for.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kilcup were Monday visitors in Heppner from their home this side of Ione. The range conditions, because of the continued dry weather, are none too good this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cash are the proud parents of a baby daughter, born at their home in this city on Sunday, October 20. Mother and child are reported to be getting along well.

Mrs. Mahala Minor and son Stanley Minor returned on Sunday from Ritter hot springs where they spent a couple of weeks enjoying the advantages of this popular health resort.

Mrs. J. G. Clouston and baby daughter came over from their Pendleton home Tuesday and are guests this week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Devin.

Attorney C. L. Sweek arrived home the first of the week from a business visit to Canyon City and Portland which occupied several days of the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Clark spent a short time in the city Wednesday from their home at Eight Mile. Mrs. Clark is quite fully recovered from her recent illness.

Earl Murray who is interested in farming north of Ione was looking after business here on Saturday afternoon.

Among Heppnerites attending the Oregon-Idaho grid classic in Portland Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Poulson, Mr. and Mrs. Gay M. Anderson and Gay Jr., David A. Wilson, Dean T. Goodman, Paul M. Gemmill and C. L. Sweek.

Mrs. J. W. Stephens and Mrs. Hattie Bleakman were Hardman ladies visiting Heppner on Tuesday, spending a short time here while shopping.

Gus Wilcox, engaged in farming on the ranch formerly owned by Louis Padberg west of Lexington, spent a few hours at Heppner Monday.

Martin Lovgren was in town for a few hours on Monday from his farm home in the Eight Mile country.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peterson of Ukiah were Heppner visitors Saturday.
