ABOUT TO ARRIVE.

AFTER simmering and brewing for eight years, the Heppner-Spray road is about cooked. The county, bureau of public roads, and the state have all begun to center their interests in this direction and indications are that the time is ripe for a convergence of these interests in a material plan for construction of the uncompleted portions.

Lawrence seaway would fill that need. Proponents of inland waterways have an ally at the White House. Let us hope that plans are advanced, and constructive steps taken, during the next session of congress.

MANAGER SIGSBEE of the Star theater is to be congratulated on bringing his show house up to a standard comparable to that of much larger cities than Heppner. In appearance and in quality of entertainment offered, the Star ranks among the higher type of theater.

Muffins for Breakfast Delight if Rightly Made

On a cold "nippy" morning in fall, when you rise reluctantly after the third call and creep downstairs to see what mother has for breakfast, and it's muffins, piping hot, with dates or raisins in them, "ain't life grand?"

That is, of course, if the muffins are good. You can tell, even before tasting them, for a "good" muffin has very distinct characteristics, as described by the home economics specialists at O. S. C.

And their beauty is more than skin deep, for they will taste as good as they look. The grain is rather even, although not as fine as in cake. But above all, a really good muffin will have no "tunnels" in it, for these are caused by incorrect or excessive beating.

Fall is the muffin making is usually due to about three causes, singly or in combination, the home economics department has found. Either the ingredients are not in correct proportion, the mixing was not properly done, or the baking temperature was not right.

Everyone should be on the alert to put in a favorable word where it will do good. And if it takes more than words, if the pocketbook should need to be tapped, there should be no hesitancy in giving a reasonable sum to bring about the completion of this road. But above all, keep the Heppner-Spray road in mind first, until it is an actuality.

WATERWAYS—A CRYING NEED.

THE development of inland waterways, to provide cheaper transportation for farm products, is one phase of President Hoover's farm relief program that has as yet had scant attention. As much as marketing and tariff aids, and possibly more than any subsidy, it is desired by the farmers of the Middle West and Northwest.

Are farm products to be allowed to rot because of the lack of adequate inland waterways which, surely it seems would provide a more economical method of transportation? The prohibitive freight rates have been one of the chief drawbacks of agricultural prosperity.

What has been done? Largely for the benefit of the farmer, the Ohio, Mississippi, Illinois and Missouri waterways system is being developed at great expense to the government. But what is needed too is a great water route connecting the Great Lakes directly with the large Eastern seaports.

Campaign on to Eliminate 'One Eyed' Car from Road

Salem, Ore., Oct. 30.—Hazards of night driving will be considerably lessened during the coming winter months if Secretary of State Hal E. Hoss is successful in his plans to eliminate the "one-eyed" automobiles, or cars with only one head light, from Oregon highways.

Tests at the Oregon experiment station show that buttermilk is equal in value to skim milk, that is, three or four pounds of buttermilk to one pound of grain, for greatest efficiency. Both skim milk and buttermilk are rich in protein—a food element necessary to keep the ration properly balanced with the requirements of the body.

The harvest moon is here, and with it the problem of storing the winter's supply of vegetables. The Oregon experiment station recommends careful attention to three essentials of proper storage—sufficient protection from freezing, a moisture supply regulated according to the type of vegetable stored, and ample ventilation.

TRUTH VS. FICTION

I wonder if all of the beautiful, the true, the brave, the noble, the benevolent, the lovely in this world, exist only in fiction? I wonder if all that is hard, rasping, disappointing, tragic, hateful, belongs to the stern reality of this life?

Yet, the successful novel-writer of today finds success and approval of the masses, by writing a tangled web of intricate plot, and clothing it in verbiage as far removed from the real as possible.

Take the characters in any good novel; set them free in any country, community, or neighborhood; they would never perform as the fiction-writer has made them do. I challenge the scholar—the thinker—to produce a personnel who could do as the fiction-writer portrays.

Then, fiction as done today, is not "true to life." It is what the author and publisher think should happen under the chain of circumstances.

In addition to giving warnings, I will issue orders to that effect. Heretofore violators have gotten off with warnings, but I believe a offense serious enough to justify a fine. A combination of wet pavement, high speed, and a car with one headlight only, results too often in an accident.

Tests at the Oregon experiment station show that buttermilk is equal in value to skim milk, that is, three or four pounds of buttermilk to one pound of grain, for greatest efficiency. Both skim milk and buttermilk are rich in protein—a food element necessary to keep the ration properly balanced with the requirements of the body.

Can you imagine a nice juicy grape pie without any seeds in it? It is really quite easily accomplished. Just slip the skins off enough grapes for the pie, and put them in one container. Then cook the pulp just enough to loosen the seeds, and then put through a coarse sieve. Fun the skins and the pulp together and proceed as usual.

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for November 10, WORLD PEACE THROUGH MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING, Isaiah 2:2-4; Acts 17:22-28; John 4:20-21, Rev. Samuel D. Price, D.D.

In addition to the above Scripture the following has been indicated for study by the Lessons Committee: Isaiah 11:6-10; 19:23-25; Ephesians 4:4-6, 12-19. In fact, the Bible is a Peace Book and reveals the only basis for mutual understanding that will be effective in all cases. The boldness of the various writers is a marvel. No matter how distressing were present conditions they, by faith and through divine revelation declared that peaceful conditions would come. The boldest claim of all was that this peace should come about through the advent of the Prince of Peace.

It remains for the world to see how literally the prophecy of Jerusalem as a peace center will be fulfilled. It must have ceased a gasp when Isaiah proclaimed a highway uniting warlike Egypt and Assyria with Jerusalem en route. Here were nations that were always at variance and each was striving for the possession of Palestine as the key to the other. A wonderful portrayal of peace is given under the parable of beating the swords into plowshares and the spears into pruning hooks. Up to this time nations had been impoverished by the cost of war and they had not thought of using war-making materials for peaceful pursuits. The very idea of being a student of war methods was to be abandoned. Paul advances the teaching as he addresses the cultured and philosophical audience in Athens. He sought to impress them with the idea of the brotherhood of man through the Fatherhood of God. As such they should not lift menacing arms against each other. There is culture in the pursuits of peace even more than in the conquests from wars. Manhood is advanced in other ways than by acquiring skill in murder.

Jesus startled the woman of Samaria at the well of Jacob when he proposed kindly dealings between the Jews and Samaritans, who for generations had been at bitter enmity. War is too often caused by national ambition which is fostered by national boasting about superiority. This Teacher of Peace asserted that place of worship had no value: it was a heart condition as the individual spirit sought communion with the Supreme Spirit. Being greatly interested in a common cause goes away with local pride and self-interest. The Christian in indeed a world citizen and as such he sees the true worth in his brethren in all parts of the earth.

Were half the power that fills the world with terror, Were half the wealth bestowed on camps and courts, Given to redeem the human mind from error, There were no need of arsenals and forts. —Longfellow.
