YOUR EARS.

(From State Board of Health.)

The human ear is a very sensitive organ. The outer ear, the part you see, is a sort of sound collector which directs sound into the outer passage leading to the ear drum.

die ear, it is called, connecting the drum with the inner ear where the nerve endings from the brain terminate. These nerves, like tiny telephone wires, carry the sound impression to the brain.

At the end of the outer passage is a tightly stretched bit of membrane called the ear drum. Behind it is another passage leading to the throat. Three tiny bones form a bridge across this passage, the mid-due to impacted wax in the outer ear, or to running ears, or an infection in the middle ear. Many of these troubles can be corrected. Measles, diphtheria, pneumonia or influenza quite often leave the hearing defective and it is very important to know this with as little delay as possible so that the ear may be treated properly before the defects become serious.

Good hearing is a valuable possession. Take care of it always. Never put anything into the ear, and avoid, as far as possible, colds, sore throat and all infections that cause the ear passage to become obstructed or inflamed.

U. of O. Plays Uclax For Dad's Day Game

University of Oregon, Eugene,

Oct. 30.—The Oregon football team, maintaining a tie for second place in the Pacific conference, will play its fourth conference game of the season when it meets U. C. L. A. at the annual Dad's Day celebration in Eugene, next Saturday.

The game with the Uclax from Los Angeles will be Oregon's first appearance in Eugene, and U. C. L. A.'s first game outside Los Angeles. Oregon returned to Eugene this week after winning from Washington at Seattle, 14 to 0.

Last year Oregon defeated the southern team in the south, after being scored upon early in the game. The Bruins will come to Eugene fresh from a 20 to 0 victory over Pomona.

For Sale or Lease—480 acres, 300 plow land balance pasture; fenced in four fields; plenty water, springs and well; 6-room house; barn and other buildings; good garden spot; 1 1/2 mile from town. Address Box 43, Heppner.

A young woman in a certain section of Oregon, where beaver abound, is desirous—like many of her sex—of possessing a fur coat. She has written the state game commission requesting that she be granted a permit which will entitle her to trap enough beaver to provide skins for the desired coat. Request rejected.

Keep Pounding

You wouldn't expect to break up a large slab of marbel in a day with a tack hammer, and a tap every other day. For this job you would use a heavy sledge and wield it constantly.

Neither should one expect a small ad to do a big job. The tack hammer has its place, and so has the small advertisement. Either with continuous pounding will bring results.

But if it's a big job to be done quickly—choose the sledge—the big ad—which makes the big impression.

Advertisements LIKE HAMMERS, WHEN PROPERLY USED Bring Results
