WHY NOT THE "CALIFORNIA CUT OFF"?

LOCALLY, most everyone now understands just what is meant when the Heppner-Spray road is mentioned. There has been discussion, however, as to whether this name is sufficient to convey the largeness of the project to the outside world.

"Heppner-Spray" conveys only the connecting up of two points, either of which is not a great metropolis, and the name is not one to create the interest of people outside the immediate district. At the same time the project is one of importance to a large portion of the Pacific Northwest and California, for its completion will provide a cut-off, saving many miles from eastern Oregon, eastern Washington and points north and east, to central and southern Oregon and California.

A name suggested which would better describe the project, it appears to this newspaper, is the "California Cut-Off." Would Californians prick up their ears at the mention of a California Cut-Off in Oregon? And travelers from the north and east headed south should become immediately interested at its mention also. We would like to see the name adopted.

By adopting this name, all the routes from the end of the Ochoco highway at Mitchell to the Oregon-Washington highway at Heppner could be designated, when such time comes that it shall be included on the state map. The name would now be useful in giving the route the publicity it deserves.

The project is growing in popularity, as shown by the enthusiasm with which its presentation was greeted by the Grant county court last week. The route is important to Grant county as it will assist greatly in the development of that rich section. There can be no opposition of merit once the project is thoroughly understood by the state at large.

The Heppner Lions club has undertaken a program of propaganda far reaching in extent. When this is carried to completion certain interests that have been reported to be knocking the project will have a change of mind, for the grounds on which they are reputed to be basing their attack are unfounded.

IS IT THE BEST POLICY?

WE have no quarrel with the city tax levying board whose proposed budget for adoption at the December meeting of the city council provides for reducing by some $3000 the amount to be raised by taxation. No taxpayer desires to see his tax bill grow, and any reduction is welcome. Still there is a point which we believe will bear some thought before the proposed budget is voted.

In view of the fact that in any one year, a municipal, or other public tax levying body, is prohibited by state statute from increasing the amount to be raised by taxation more than 6 per cent of the amount raised the previous year, there is a chance that things might become stringent with the city purse strings if finances are cut too close.

One deduction from last year noted in the proposed budget appears under the item "maintenance and bridges," which sum is that used for construction of bridges and the maintenance of streets. A reduction in the item was made because there apparently will be no necessity for building any bridges next year, the major needs in this line having been cared for this year. While there may be no bridges to build next year, the city has an investment of several thousand dollars in graveled streets made last year, the depreciation on which has already been quite large and which will become larger if proper maintenance is not provided for. At the time the gravel was put on, it had to be stretched pretty thin to cover the area allotted, and the work was not of a permanent nature.

Would it not be good business to spend a little more to save the investments already made? By providing for a little more gravel each year, and shaping up the streets—the system used in state road work—it would not be many years before the streets would be permanently hard surfaced, especially if oil be added in future years, then the maintenance cost would become very slight. Other cities have adopted a similar policy of street building with successful results.

WHAT HAPPENED IN WALL STREET.

THE principal sufferers from the slump in the stock market are the business enterprises which purvey luxuries to the newly rich. One New York "beauty parlor" which charged a minimum fee of $25 for a "treatment" has already closed its doors. The "exclusive" jewelry shops where no customer was really welcome unless he had a hundred thousand dollars to spend report a decided falling off in sales. One Fifth Avenue furrier who had imported some Russian sables has had the garment thrown back on his hands and is now advertising it for sale for a mere $30,000!

Slackening of trade in things like those represents no real economic loss; quite the contrary. The $50,000 which the furrier did not get for his sables is now in the hands of gentlemen who know what to do with money. It will be invested in something which will enable some great manufacturing establishment to add a dozen workers to its payroll. And that is worth more to all of us than a dozen sable wraps.

There is just as much money in the country as there was. Payrolls are as large as ever, and growing. The businesses whose shares have declined in price are earning as Rising 68 stories and at least 808 feet from the ground, and erected at a cost of over $15,000,000, the new Chrysler Building in the heart of New York at Lexington Avenue and 42nd Street is the tallest structure in the world.

All In The Same Boat By Albert T. Reid

Heart-Heart Talk By John Joseph Haines M.D.

AWAKENING

Five o'clock in the morning. The hum of a motor comes in at my open window... a realization that the new day has arrived exactly on time. Other motors rattle in their loose running-gears; the growl—the treble of human voices add to the evidence that the morning is on—the town is awakening.

An area of concerted effort, the contact of elbow with elbow, the purr of breathing in unison, the glow of the municipal soul. Every man at his post—the day is on. Routine may become deadly. A town afflicted with routine may be much as they did before. The folk who have lost money are those who tried to get something for nothing by buying stocks at more than they were worth in order to resell them to others who were even more gullible.

What has really happened is that a vast amount of money and credit has been taken out of the hands of wasters and has got into the bank accounts of men of constructive vision. Most of this money will now go into useful channels.

CRIMINALS IN OFFICE.

ALBERT B. FALL, convicted of using his post as Secretary of the Interior to extort a bribe of $100,000 for leasing oil lands belonging to the people at an inadequate rate, faces a year in prison and a of a few more unfaithful servants would help restore confidence in law and justice.

Albert Peterson, Ukiah stockman, was in Heppner the first of the week on business. He recently rented 5000 acres of pasture in the Pilot Rock country for the use of his cattle this winter, and has purchased a quantity of chaff to use in conjunction with the new pasture. Mr. Peterson is building up quite an extensive raw fur business, having put about $14,000 worth of pelts on the market last year. These were secured in three weeks in part of Umatilla and Grant counties.

Arnold Pieper reports that the new well on his place is now completed. A. M. Edwards had charge of the work which was begun in July, with a layoff of some six weeks. At a depth of 337 feet a flow of 60 gallons per minute was struck, and this is considered sufficient by Mr. Pieper, so the work has ceased.

LEGAL NOTICES

LIVING WITH PEOPLE OF OTHER RACES Acts 10:9-15, 29-35; Galatians 3:28-29

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D.D.

Religion must work to be practical and one reason that interferes with its working is the superiority complex that too many have; it merely makes them over self-conscious and miserable. By doing just a little study and traveling about a modest amount one soon learns that there are others who are worthy of our highest esteem. Very often we find that these others are really doing bigger things under vastly harder conditions than we are accomplishing. Very illuminating passages of Scripture are chosen for our study this week, in addition to those given above look up, with care, Ruth 1:1-18; John 4:5-10; Acts 10:1-11 and Romans 1:14.

Mutual needs help greatly in being vitally interested in other nations. One of the finest love stories is that of Naomi, the Jewess, and Ruth, the Moabitess, her daughter-in-law. Ruth would rather be an alien in Jewry than live at home without Naomi. Here was a precious friendship that thrived irrespective of all national boundaries. Boaz and Ruth did not find any problem about inter-racial marriage as their lives were bound together in abiding love. It is right to be proud of one's nationality, but it is presumptuous to conclude that others cannot serve humanity as well.

This matter of service is one of the basic tests of national worth. Jesus taught a lesson that many found it hard to learn when he addressed the Samaritan woman as they sat at Jacob's Well. The real question was not that of a superior place or race but rather of an acknowledgment of the one True God. Again it was demonstrated that relationship to Jehovah and service to mankind are of greater moment than earthly lineage.

The same lesson is continuously taught with the growth of the Christian church. An early problem was to have the teachers think right toward those of various nations. The work of the Holy Spirit on the Day of Pentecost, following the sermon of Peter, was a disclaimer of provincialism. There was a common blessing for all who would believe. But even Peter needed a special teaching vision to make him ready to go with the divine message to the home of Cornelius, the Roman centurion. The world is still trying to learn "What God hath cleansed, make not thou common." Peter's conviction, as expressed in the household of Cornelius, was "I perceive that God is no respecter of persons."

Paul was an ultra-conservative Jew, but as he grew in experience he boldly declared that inherent worth was the test rather than the geographical place of birth. What a man is doing counts for more than how he came into being. That was an incident over which he had no control.
