TARIFF TANGLES.

GENERAL Winfield Scott Hancock ran for President in 1880 against General James A. Garfield. General Hancock didn't know anything about politics, but he had a lot of common sense.

The tariff is a local issue. That ineptitude ruined General Hancock politically. Yet it was true, and is still true, but the politicians do not want the public to believe it.

The current squabble in the senate over the proposed new tariff law furnishes new proof of General Hancock's dictum. Local interests are dominant in the discussions, active in the lobby.

Eugenists say the same process of breeding up to higher standards should be applied to the human race. Slave owners used to do that. But even if free men consented to external control of their meetings, who would set the standards to be bred to?

Nature is gradually mixing the human race. A million years from now, perhaps sooner, as international barriers break down more rapidly, all mankind will be as homogeneous as the Chinese are today.

The present tariff law provides a Tariff Commission and gives it and the President ample power to revise tariff rates whenever and however national interests require such revision.

Some simple-minded folk thought that was going to end the spectacle of the suspension of other public business in Congress while localities and local groups fought each other for the extra dollars.

No intelligent politician ever had any such idea. That is not the way politics operates. National interests are one thing, getting re-elected by local votes is something else again.

The word "tariff" comes from Tarifa, the African seaport where the Algerian pirates made their headquarters and from which they sailed forth to levy tribute on passing merchantmen.

Fashions in skirts and hair are getting longer. There doesn't seem to be anything more man can do about it, but we wish some women could see themselves the way they look in the half-way stage.

Eastern newspapers have revived the controversy over the shortest poem in the English language. Years ago the New York Sun gave the prize to this one, entitled "Flea."

Lem Pixley went over to the flying field the other day to watch the parachute jumpers. He says that fellow who got killed falling out of a ten story window in his pajamas would have landed all right if he'd worn an old-fashioned night-shirt.

TODAY and Tomorrow

By FRANK PARKER STOCKBRIDGE

Detectives

The greatest detective system in the world is the famous Scotland Yard, which is the crime-hunting section of the British Government.

There are several reasons why farm boys make good detectives, after proper training. Robust health and physical vigor count heavily.

Most of all, farm boys grow up with respect for law and hatred of crime, where the city boy, observing petty infractions of the laws all around him, tends to become tolerant of crime and criminals.

Cats

Cats of the Isle of Man are famous because they have no tails. Somebody imported long-tailed cats and the tailless breed is disappearing.

Eugenists say the same process of breeding up to higher standards should be applied to the human race. Slave owners used to do that.

Nature is gradually mixing the human race. A million years from now, perhaps sooner, as international barriers break down more rapidly, all mankind will be as homogeneous as the Chinese are today.

Robots

"Robot" is the name coined by a Bohemian playwright for a mechanical man who could do everything but think. Engineers and others now use the term for automatic devices which relieve the operator from the necessity of thinking.

"Metal Mike" is the gyroscopic steering device used on every big ship, more accurate than any human helmsman. Elmer Sperry, its inventor, has built his brains into a similar device for airplanes, which relieves the pilot of all strain except in taking off and landing.

Without New York City where would the farmer sell his products? New York consumes one-fifth of all the fresh fruits and vegetables shipped in the United States, according to the Federal Bureau of Railroad Economics.

Heart-Heart Talk

A POET-PROPHET

Tennyson, I mean. Take your copy of Tennyson's Poems, and turn to "Locksley Hall." Wander down the first words in lines, until you come to this:

"For I dipt into the future, far as human eye could see, Then read attentively the eighteen or twenty lines following; a prophecy is there that is being fulfilled today—and it is wonderfully beautiful.

He saw the age of flying. He visualized the era of commercial aviation, now being transformed into reality. He saw the world clash of arms; heard the heavens filled with shouting, sensed the rain of "ghastly dew" from the poison-gas bombs; the conflicts of "the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue."

He foretold the termination of the fearful thing, in "the Parliament of man, the federation of world." After that—"The common sense of most shall hold a fruitful realm in aw—And, the kindly earth shall slumber, lapt in universal law." Almost—but not quite. It is coming—the time when "the common sense" of most shall prevail, even unto the reign of "universal law."

One of our own great statesmen believed with all his might in a league of nations; other great statesmen declared an association of nations to be the need; still others, equally noted, wanted nothing of the sort. Confusion, uproar, hard words came to our national family councils: the people arose, and swept the whole mess aside.

If I discern the signs of the times aright, world-effort is straining toward the point wherein the common sense of most shall hold the fruitful few in awe. . . . It will take universality to bring peace and tranquility to the peoples of earth—and, the universal law is none other than God's law.

The laws of man can never transcend the laws of God. May heaven forbid that I should ever descend to the level of partisan politics!

Automobiles

An English maker of "baby" cars, with a six-foot-three-inch wheel base, is starting a factory to make them in America. American roads are now good enough to permit little cars like that to go almost anywhere except across the continent.

There are still no through routes from the Atlantic to the Pacific which have not long stretches of dirt, almost impassable in bad weather. If these "baby" cars prove popular, American makers will imitate and improve on them. That is automobile history.

Automobiles were invented in Europe. Gasoline cars were in use there years before any were made in America. Europe had good roads to begin with; roads built to haul cannon over. But European people have had to spend so much for cannon that they still have no money with which to buy motor cars, by comparison with America.

Cheap cars gave this country good roads. Perhaps the new "baby" cars will compel us to make all our roads perfect.

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for November 24. THE HIGHER PATRIOTISM. Jonah 1:1-3; 3:1-5; 4:5-11. Rev. Samuel D. Price, D.D.

The entire book of Jonah is the general subject matter for study this week. Many seem to find only the problem of the whale in this very interesting book of four chapters. The fact is that "whale" does not appear therein. Certain sea monsters, however, have the capacity to take in a man. Read the book through again and look for the missionary import that runs through its 48 verses. Then try to write as much in 1,328 words on the great missionary enterprise. It is a wonderful book and contains profound teachings. Study the prayer of Jonah as recorded in chapter 2 and you will find many helpful truths as you, a penitent, approach the throne of Jehovah.

It is easy to acquire the attitude of self-satisfaction in the midst of many blessings and at the same time forget that there is a great world at large that needs your attention. Privilege brings serious responsibilities which must be discharged rightfully in the sight of the Great Judge. It is commendable to be a loyal patriot, but we must also be continuously prepared to discharge our responsibilities as a world citizen.

While Jonah was one of the earliest prophets he was decidedly provincial in his thinking. Further he wanted to deliver his messages to Jehow only, forgetful that all the children of the earth are beloved by the Father. When told to go to Ninevah and preach against that city because of its wickedness the landsman hastened to Joppa and took shipping for the region of the present Spain. There were stormy times, in more ways than one, until God's servant confessed his sin of running away from duty and was ready to hear another commission. That second call was to do the very thing he had sought to avoid.

A guilty conscience makes one fearful. When Jonah told the Ninevites about their sins and the punishments due from the only God, penitence was expressed and the threatened punishment was revoked. Then petulant Jonah again revealed the narrowness of his brotherhood horizon. In sulks he sat down near Ninevah to pity himself because his threats had not been carried out. Rather he should have rejoiced that God had warned through him and had then forgiven in His overflowing love. It took the active parable of the gourd to make Jonah see how love could be effective. Note in particular how God calls attention to the more than 120,000 innocent children within the city. They surely were not responsible for the sins of their parents though they were about to suffer therefrom.

Mankind is learning this higher patriotism and the love for little children helps in acquiring the lesson. One recent expression has been the millions given in relief for the children of the Near East.
