Official Paper for Morrow County.

A BIGGER WHEAT CHECK.

IN THE PLEA to farmers to look out for their own interests contained in the statement of Geo. N. Peck, local chairman of the grain rate fight fund, issued this week, Mr. Peck draws a contrast showing what can be done when those affected wish to gain the benefits of legislation. Speedy reduction of income tax rates is practically assured, while five years have elapsed since the Hoch-Smith resolution was passed as an emergency measure for farming with no real relief yet received from it.

That farming interests should bestir themselves is true. There should be no let-up for lower tax rates as long as there is unjust discrimination. But to accomplish this purpose there must be united action.

Any reduction in freight rates means that much added to the price of the farmer's grain. Even on the Portland differential, cited by Mr. Peck, if the farmer were to get the benefits allowed, a substantial sum would be added to his yearly pay check. And should the expected 2.8 cents reduction be allowed by the Interstate Commerce commission, a saving to Morrow county farmers on their average yearly wheat output of 1,500,000 bushels would amount to some $30,000.

If $30,000 can be made by spending $300, Morrow county's quota to carry on the rate fight, it would appear to be good business to spend the $300—or several times that amount if necessary.

While many will admit that they have obligations of this kind not a few will seek to evade the issue by asking the question, "And who is my neighbor?" which brought forth the wonderfully direct parable of the Good Samaritan, which is frequently the case that those who profess the most in formalistic religion are like the priest and levite, who were careful to continue on their journey.

Then there are those who are all but held in contempt who reveal the milk of human kindness, as did the Samaritan. offered for call money. One great paper and power company had more than $25,000,000 in cash working in the call money market for two years up to the recent collapse of the speculative boom.

The end of speculation sends call money back to its sources. Literally billions of dollars of capital have thus been released for productive use since October. The same capital that was earning an average of about 8 per cent while stocks were booming is now looking for investment at 5 per cent or even lower. This is not New York's money; it is the money of the entire nation. Every part of the United States has now more free capital available for building, for industrial expansion, for local loans on sound local business enterprises, than it has had for two or three years.

THE OUTLOOK FOR PROSPERITY.

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S conferences of big business heads have had a reassuring effect already. The railroads and the great industries have given their pledges not to reduce their production and development programs but to increase them, to employ more men instead of laying off workers, in many instances to increase wages. The governors of the states have been almost unanimous in their assurances of increased activity in public works. The President himself has pledged the Federal Government, so far as Congress will authorize it, to a building and development program beyond what had been contemplated.

It seems to be true, then, that unlike all previous slumps in the stock market, the one which occurred in October was not caused by anything in the general business situation. And it seems as certain as anything in the future can be, that if all the pledges given to the President are kept, or most of them, 1930 will turn out to be the most prosperous year in our national history.

HUMORETTES

Jim Huggins says that when he sees something he thinks is a deer he never shoots at it if it's smoking a pipe.

Tim—Russia's a terrible place. A few men boss the government and control all industry. Jim—What's so different about that?

"Do you mind if I eat while you smoke?" asked the elderly woman in a restaurant. "Not if you do it quietly enough so I can hear the orchestra," responded her flapper companion.

Melissa—I'll never go fishing with Fred again. Belinda—Did he try to make love to you? Melissa—That's just it. He didn't do anything but fish!

Father—Was Jack intoxicated when he came home last night? Daughter—I didn't notice, but he asked for a mirror so he could see who he was.
