FEDERAL AID FOR THE SMALL BUSINESS MAN

EVEN as we laud the splendid ef-Laforts of these leaders of industry," said Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, speaking of the business conferences in Washington, "let us not lose sight of the unnamed hundreds of thousands of 'little fellows' in the business world . . . the corner grocer, the small-town druggist, the hardware dealer in a modest way, the woman selling 'notions,' the restaurant proprie tor with a neighborhood trade. These smaller merchants, with their innumerable stores where business, in whatever volume, constantly proceeds, form the backbone of our American business organism."

That was a splendid tribute to a class of citizens among whom are many who have been feeling lately as if they and their kind did not count for much in the scheme of What with chain stores opening up everywhere to compete with the local merchant, and the attention of the public centered on what the "big fellows" are doing, no wonder many a small grocer or druggist has felt as if it were no use to try to keep on going, that there wasn't room in the world any more for his kind of a business, or at least for him as a business man.

It is one of the most encouraging signs of the times that the Federal Government recognizes the importance of the local merchant and that a man of Dr. Klein's ability and influence should stand out as the spokesman for the small business establishment. The Department of Commerce has been making a study of the reasons for the failure of lo cal merchants in several commun-ities, as the first step toward helping Independent business men to hold their trade and share in the nation's prosperity. "Facts and their efficient application," says Dr. Klein, "are the indispensable road workers on the highway of success." And he and his assistants have discovered that most of the failures are due to ignorance of the facts about their own business. Only about five or six per cent of the failures of neighborhood stores are traceable to chain-store competition; many more are due to carelessness in credits and collections, to inaccurate bookkeeping, to inability to grasp the essential points of good merchandising and to inexperience.

This is a great work, and the facts discovered and their implications are available to everybody who will ask the Department of Commerce

DOES THE WORLD REALLY WANT PEACE?

The Naval Disarmament Confer ence which is about to meet in London is of immense importance to the whole world, but of more immediate importance to the United States than to any other country. pride ourselves on being the most peace-loving people in the world, yet we spend more money today on military and naval preparations for war than any other nation!

Perhaps we are wronk in believing that we love peace more than other people do. Hon. Alanson Houghton, former Ambassador to Berlin and then to London, suggested as much in his address on assuming the position of Chairman of Commission on International Justice and Good-Will of the Federal Council of Churches. Pointing out that the United States has managed to get into at least one important war during every generation since the Republic was established, he said that his knowledge of European nations convinced him that each of them honestly thinks, as we do, its people love peace more than any other

If something of that understanding of the peace-loving nature of humanity in general, and some measure of belief in the good intentions of other nations toward us. gets into the spirit of the Disarmament Conference, there is hope that our delegates may come back with a program, agreed upon by all, which will reduce our naval burden and that of the rest of the world, and provide tangible evidence that we—and the other countries—do acually desire peace.
