

IONE

MRS. JENNIE E. McMURRAY, Correspondent

Miss Hazel Akers, eldest daughter of Ralph Akers, and Russel Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, were married Saturday, Jan. 11, at Hood River. The young people were accompanied by the parents of the groom, who witnessed the ceremony. From Hood River the party proceeded to Gresham where they spent a week, returning to Ione Saturday, Jan. 18. Mr. and Mrs. Miller are very popular among the younger set, being interested in both church and social activities. Both are graduates of the Ione high school. The many friends here wish them happiness.

Ione high met defeat from Lexington on Ione's floor last Friday night. Our basketball teams are receiving very poor encouragement from the public, only a small number being present.

The attendance at school is poor this week. Some of the school buses are able to make only a part of their trip and some are not making the drive at all.

The fruit and bread men from Pendleton were unable to make the return trip Monday and were forced to spend the night in Ione. Although the snow plow cleared the road, the wind drifted the snow so badly that it was impossible for them to make the trip.

Monday night while the snow plow was clearing roads, it ran into the truck which is used to furnish lights for the night work. The collision resulted in a broken pipe in the water system on the plow which made it necessary to suspend work for the night.

Mrs. Charley Shaver has been very ill with tonsillitis. Henry Cohn is feeding 1200 head of sheep on the Fred McMurray ranch.

William Strobel who has been baling hay on the Fred McMurray ranch, moved his outfit to the Glen Ball ranch the first of last week. The men engaged in the work have returned to their homes in Boardman to wait until the weather moderates.

Guy Cason, who is employed in a barber shop at The Dalles, came up Friday for a brief visit with his family who are spending the winter on the Lana Padberg ranch on Rhea creek.

One poultry raiser in Ione has a brood of thrifty chicks hatched on January 12. The hen hatched 12 chickens from 13 eggs, and because she thought the thirteenth an unlucky day, she hatched her chicks from the twelfth, only nineteen days from the time she was set. At the time of going to press, the mother and 12 babies were doing well.

On Friday, while making the regular trip to Heppner, the stage broke down between Ione and Lexington, and the passengers were transported by auto.

Ernst Montandon, who is a patient in a Hood River hospital, is in serious condition. Thus far his surgeon has not deemed it best to operate. A specialist has been called from Portland.

Friends here have received word that Mr. and Mrs. Paul Balsiger had reached Greenville, Ill., the home of Mrs. Balsiger's mother. They had made several visits along the way and were enjoying their trip to the fullest.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown motored to Stanfield Friday evening returning Sunday. They had considerable trouble making the drive home.

David Rietmann received a painful injury Thursday of last week when he fell, striking a fourth inch bolt in such a way as to make an ugly wound in his leg just above the knee. On Saturday he was taken to the hospital in Heppner that he might be near a doctor for medical attention. He is recovering nicely.

The ground in this locality froze January 4, stopping all farming activities. Since that time King Winter has reigned supreme. By the middle of last week we had about five inches of snow and Thursday morning we awoke to find the snow covered with a fine dust or volcanic ash; from whence it came no one seems to know. Not only was the snow covered, but the floors and furniture in the homes were covered as well. Saturday and Sunday snow continued to fall, reaching a depth of sixteen inches. Monday morning the thermometer registered 16 below zero, and Tuesday morning it was 24 below. Everyone is wishing for a moderation of weather conditions.

The state highway department kept the snow plow running day and night during the storm in order to keep the highway safe for travel. Mr. Sexton and Clinton Jackson were on the day shift and George Ritchie and Harry Shipley were night men.

The old coasting track is attracting the usual crowd. The gleam of the bonfire may be seen far into the night.

FOUNDER OF SPRAY DIES.
John F. Spray, 70, founder of the town and postoffice of Spray, died of apoplexy in his home in Fossil Saturday, January 11. Services were conducted at the Methodist church in Fossil and the remains shipped to Cottage Grove for interment.

Use of Lamb is Urged To Give Diet Variety

Lamb is always available in any section of the country. There is no time when the housewife cannot enjoy the advantage of varying her menu with lamb, according to the National Live Stock and Meat board. Too few meat buyers realize this, due probably to the widespread but mistaken idea that lamb is not to be had except for a few months of the year, during the spring and early summer.

This seems to be the only good reason why lamb, which is delicious and which furnishes excellent roasts and chops, is not used more extensively than it is, the board continues. The entire lamb carcass is tender, hence there is not the problem of a great difference in cooking methods to render certain cuts tender. The forequarter cuts may be roasted or broiled as well as the hindquarter cuts. There is convenience and economy for the housewife in this fact. While the breast may not be so desirable a roast as the shoulder or the leg, as it is a thinner piece of meat, yet it is tender and well flavored and is very moderate in price. While steaks cut from the arm side or the rib side of the shoulder may not be so attractive in appearance as the rib or loin chops, yet they are tender and well flavored and they may be broiled with just as satisfactory results as the so-called choice chops. Indeed, in the lamb, we have a source of meat, all of which may be cooked by the cookery methods applied to tender cuts; namely, roasting, broiling, and panbroiling.

Figures regarding the consumption of lamb show that while about 75 per cent of the lamb raised is produced west of the Mississippi river, nearly 90 per cent of it is eaten east of the Mississippi. The most extensive use of lamb is along the Atlantic seaboard, the South is next in the consumption of lamb; then the West, and the Corn Belt consumes less than any other section of the country.

Since improved methods of production and distribution have made lamb available at all times of the year, the housewife who desires a pleasing variety in her meals will be glad to have this fact called to her attention.

WHEAT EXPORTS SMALL.
The disappointingly small volume of purchases by importing countries, since the first of the year, has created a more pronounced feeling of general bearishness in the wheat trade, than at any time since the spring of last year. The United Kingdom and the Continent continue to take offerings of countries exporting wheat to bolster unfavorable trade balances and exchange rates, leaving North America holding most of the world's surplus. One full cargo was worked from Portland to the United Kingdom on a favorable freight basis this week.
