

Local Happenings

Ollie and Gene Ferguson encountered a severe storm along the Columbia gorge Saturday on their return from Portland. Shortly after leaving Crown Point their car was forced off the road when the top was blown loose from an approaching automobile and whipped around the driver's face, causing him to lose temporary control of his car. The wind was so strong that it tore loose parts of the big Richfield sign, standing on top of the mountain, strewing bits along the road. They brought Ollie's baby daughter home from the Doernbecker hospital, and reports since are to the effect that the young miss is full of pep and doesn't miss a meal. When the baby was taken to Portland her life was despaired of. An operation was performed to correct an intestinal trouble.

Elbert Cox drove his car off the road last Sunday, when his vision was obscured by snow and frost. The car turned over but none of the occupants, himself, Mrs. Cox and their three boys, was injured. The snow apparently reduced the shock when the car overturned. The accident occurred at the concrete culvert on the highway in front of the James Gentry home in south Heppner, the car going over the side of the culvert.

Ben Cox who came to Heppner Friday to visit his father, F. D. Cox, who is gradually making his recovery in the Heppner hospital, reported that the temperature was down to 28 below at his father's ranch on Hinton creek Thursday night, with an east wind blowing.

Matt Hughes, who lives near Black butte, was stricken with an attack of hemorrhages at his home Wednesday. He was brought to Heppner late that night for medical treatment, his condition being somewhat improved this morning.

David Rietmann of Ione, who received a bad injury to his knee when he slipped on the snow and fell on a quarter-inch bolt, was brought to the Heppner hospital Monday and is now receiving treatment there.

Gay Anderson, who returned from Portland Friday night after attending the state association meeting of county clerks and recorders, reported that driving was difficult because of the high wind.

Mrs. F. H. Miller of Ione received severe injury to her left eye Wednesday, when a stick was accidentally jabbed into it. She has a fighting chance to recover complete use of her eye.

Judge R. L. Bengtson, L. P. Davidson and George Bleakman, commissioners, returned to Heppner Friday from the county judges' and commissioners' meeting in Portland.

Fred Ashbaugh, of Hardman, who was a business visitor in Heppner Tuesday, reports that the temperature during the cold spell has been as low as 26 below at his farm.

Lowell Ashbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Ashbaugh of Hardman, is ill in Heppner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stacy Roberts. The attack verges on pneumonia.

Mrs. Sarah Parker is ill at the home of her son, Frank S. Parker, where the younger Mrs. Parker is also ill with an attack of influenza.

See George Bancroft in "The Mighty," at the Star theater Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Becket who were in Heppner from Eight Mile Monday reported that the snow was so deep there that it made travel by automobile difficult.

LaVerne Van Marter returned from Portland Friday after spending several days there on business connected with the Peoples Hardware company.

Tonight is your last chance to see Harold Lloyd in "Welcome Danger" at the Star theater. A thrilling comedy staged in San Francisco's Chinatown.

Mrs. Henry Howard was attacked by a stroke of apoplexy several days ago, and is now in poor health due to the poor condition of her heart.

Don't miss the many laughable situations in "The Love Doctor," starring Richard Dix, at the Star theater Sunday and Monday.

Miss Eva Osborn returned to Heppner Thursday after visiting for about a week with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Blake at Ione.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Smith returned from The Dalles Saturday night after attending the wool growers meeting.

Mrs. Harlan McCurdy of Ione was admitted to the Heppner hospital Monday night to receive treatment for influenza.

Miss Mary White, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Glen White, is confined to her bed with an attack of influenza.

C. J. D. Bauman's ear was frozen while walking from his home to the court house Monday morning.

The son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Doolittle are suffering from attacks of tonsillitis.

Mrs. F. E. McDaniel of Hardman was admitted to The Dalles hospital for treatment last Friday.

Charles Barlow went to Portland Monday to attend the meeting of Majestic radio dealers.

RABBIT CONTROL URGED BY AGENT

Prevailing Weather Conditions Make Time Ideal to Kill Pests in Morrow County.

Cold weather and deep snow, both essential to successful rabbit poisoning, are present now, making the time ideal for poisoning. Prompt action is necessary if these conditions are to be taken advantage of, says Charles Smith, Morrow county agricultural agent.

The rabbits bunch, usually only twice each year, when the snow lays on the ground for several days, and in late summer when the green feed has dried up. Because to attempt poisoning at any other time is a waste of time, money and effort, it is important to do the job now.

The rabbit population in Morrow county was reduced to such an extent last year, that the rabbits are not very numerous and they may not be given enough consideration. A few now means many in the future. Now that there are so few in most sections, a little extra effort at this time may mean to practically exterminate them. Cold weather will do its part by freezing those that cannot get to feed because of the snow. Those getting plenty to eat from the haystacks thrive under present conditions. It would not be impossible to kill the few that remain if proper action is taken now.

Poison demonstrations will be put on at your farm by the county agent if you will notify him of the places where the rabbits are bunched. He has strychnine for distribution for this work and will assist in every way possible. Your cooperation is solicited in taking advantage of existing conditions.

Rabbit poison baits are prepared by dampening ten pounds of chopped hay or leaves with enough water to cause strychnine to adhere to it and then dusting with one ounce of powdered strychnine sulphate or where they are feeding on grain hay, dissolve one ounce of strychnine sulphate in six quarts of hot water and sprinkle over ten pounds of wheat or rye heads. The heads should be cut from the stems.

The bait should be placed in the trails in small amount, 50 to 200 feet from the stacks. A small amount is as effective as a lot and the danger of poisoning stock is lessened in this way as it is usually all eaten by the rabbits. Any baits left when the weather moderates should be picked up and destroyed.
