COMMUNITY CONSCIOUSNESS.

AGED 16, he stood before the mirror in his bedroom. Alone, he critically surveyed the reflection of awkward youth arrayed in its first suit of clothes with long pants. There was no little feeling of exaltation expressed in the twinkle of his sky-blue eyes—a justifiable pride in having outgrown the swaddling clothes of childhood to stand upon the threshold of full-fledged manhood.

ment does tend to impair the historic and cherished individualism of the farmer is true. For a cooperative to succeed all of its members must submit to standardization of their output, as to varieties, grades, time of harvesting and shipping and the like.

There is a type of mentality to which even such beneficial regulation of individual action is galling. To that kind of farmers the Federal Farm Board program will appear ridiculous if not actually an invasion of their rights.

The cooperative movement is no longer something which any farmer who wants to get ahead can take or leave as he chooses. It is the declared policy of the Federal Government to give aid only to farmers organized into cooperative selling associations. There is no reason to doubt that the policy will be carried out until, in the course of a very few years, all of the products of the farm, except a few limited specialties, will be handled all the way from grower to consumer by farmer-owned cooperatives.

That is going to put great power in the hands of the organized farmers and leave the bitter-enders in an unpleasant position. Sooner or later the ultra-individualistic type of farmer will vanish, and agriculture all over the country will assume the aspect of other business, in which team-work is the essential element of success.

Doubtless the country will not have so many picturesque and hot-tempered "characters" on its farms, but doubtless, also, its farms will provide a better living and a larger surplus for their owners than most of them do now.

Flints for the Home by Nancy Hart

Meals and Weather In these changeable days it is rather harder than usual to plan the meals so that they will surely be satisfactory.

Cleaning Light Bulbs Your electric light bulbs will have an extra sparkle if, when cleaning them, you will use ammonia in the water.

Potatoes on Surprise Bake large mealy potatoes and scoop out the centers; mash them; add a generous lump of butter, seasoning and two heaping tablespoons of grated Swiss cheese; add one teaspoonful of chopped parsley and milk enough to make the consistency of mashed potato; beat well until light and fluffy, refill potato cases, return to the oven and bake until the filling puffs and becomes a golden brown.

Breaded Sauté Cut the crust from a thick slice of bread and brown the bread in a pan containing 2 tbs. hot melted butter. Remove and put in the pan 2 tbs. chopped ham, 2 tbs. grated cheese and one half cup cream. Season with salt and cayenne, mix well and when hot spread on the browned hot toast.

WHEAT PRICES STILL LOW. The fifth consecutive week of lower prices for wheat on all exchanges brought new lows for all the options.

O.S.C.U.O. GAME ON AIR. A play-by-play basketball broadcast will be heard over KOAC when the Beavers meet the University of Oregon quintet in Corvallis Friday evening, February 7. The contest is scheduled to begin at 7:30.

sheep's clothing. They are wolves, indeed, and for personal gain will undermine life itself. Right now youth seems to be the target for attack. It is the adult sinner who helps forward hip-toting on the part of young men, who in turn dare the girls to partake.

The declaration of Jesus is most testing: "By their fruits ye shall know them." By this determination reach your conclusions about any alcoholic beverage. Keep in mind that alcohol is a POISON and that reaction is always the same. A good character or worthy conduct can never be built up by the use of intoxicating drink. The very opposite begins to result with the first glass. Life insurance statistics should be sufficient evidence for any one to reach a conclusion for both principles and conduct. The records of both courts and society are full of accounts of destruction and produce nothing that deals with permanent construction as a result of using liquor as a beverage. Big business is beginning to understand about the "fruits" and is now demanding sobriety.

The closing parable has reference to the entire conduct of the Sermon on the Mount as well as to the theme in hand. The two houses may at first have looked equally well. First came the gradual wearing away and lessening of foundation strength by the stress of years. Then destruction after the long-continued weakening process. Both physically and morally we must be able to withstand the long-time wear and tear, as well as the emergency when the blow may come so unexpectedly. There is a rock foundation that will stand any stress and upon which we can build our life structure. That sure foundation is Jesus Christ and His teachings. He did not deal with affairs in the abstract but in vital life problems that still face us as individuals.

When a Boy Knows More Than His Father

Sometimes a boy does know more than his father. Ours would have been a very different history if Abe Lincoln, age sixteen or so, had been guided by the wisdom of Thomas Lincoln, age thirty-six.

"Now, Abe," we can imagine him saying, "don't waste time readin' them books. Readin' never done me any good, and what was good enough for me's good enough for you."

Lincoln knew more than his father. It was a divine disobedience that led him to close his ears to the man who had brought him into the world, and open his heart to the vision that was to help him conquer the world.

The boy who has not some firm convictions and a willingness to defend them, even against the arguments of those older than himself, is not likely to amount to much. But there must be convictions, not mere prejudices, not selfish impulses or passions.

I know two men who "knew more" than their fathers. One boy is the office manager of a large manufacturing concern, and his salary is $40 a week.

"Better go on in school," said his father to him when he was seventeen years old. "Better go to college; better get all the education you can while you have the chance." But the boy quit school and went to work.

"You see that man?" said the president of his concern to me the other day. "There is a man who might have become general manager of this business if he had had a college education. His salary might have been $20,000 a year; instead it's $2,000. He's reached his limit. What a shame that he hasn't education enough to go on."

He "knew more" than his father. And his boyish obstinacy is costing him $18,000 a year.

"Keep yourself clean, my son," said the father of another boy. "You'll never regret it. And some day you'll thank heaven you did."

But the boy knew more than his father. He knew that every young man who is worth his salt must sow his wild oats.

So he sowed right merrily. I saw him the other day. He came to me about getting a job. I could not give him a job; no man could. God knows what will become of him.

YOUTH is the mainspring of the world. Its insurgency, its inquisitiveness, its eagerness to try the untried and to do the impossible, drives the world forward in spite of the conservatism of age.

Fortunate are those of us who recognize the divine importance of youth's cocksureness and conceit and yet know how, gently and appreciatively, to temper with the ripper judgment of added years.
